 BOWIE'S INDIAN FIGHT. **********************

In 1832 James Bowle and his brothor were prospecting for gold along the San Saba River, in Texas, when they were attacked by Indiana. The fight ing insted only one day, but for seven days longer the Indiana surrounded the party, to prevent their escape. In the book entitled "With the Makers of Texas," it is recorded as the most desperate Indian battle in the history of Texas. The number of the Indiana being so much greater than ours-one hundred and sixty four Indians to eleven white men-it was agreed that "Rezin" Bowle should go out to talk to them. and endeavor to compromise. He and David Buchanan walked to within forty yards of where they had halted. He requested them in their own tongue to send forward their chief, as we wanted to talk with him.

Their answer was, "How do you do?" in English and a discharge of shots, one of which broke Buchanan's leg. Bowle returned their salutation with the contents of a double-barreled gun. Then taking Buchanan on his shoulders, he started for camp.

The Indiana opened a heavy fire upon them, and when their shot failed to bring down Bowle, eight Indians in the blazing sunshine, on foot took after him with toniahawks.

When the Indiana were close upon him his companions rushed forward "But don't your garden suffer?" and brought down four of them. The

A Pertinent Question.

A Chinaman was one day walking along a street in Glasgow when a dog ran up to him and began barking. He became greatly alarmed and dodged about all over the place to avoid it.

A benevolent gentleman who happened to be passing at the time saw the trouble he was in and immediately went up to him, and, putting him on the shoulder, said, in a pacifying tone:

"Come, come, my friend, you mustn't be afraid. The dog won't harm you. Don't you know the old proverb that barking dogs never bite. You sure-15-

"That's all yelly well," replied the Chinaman; "you knowee proverb, and me knowee proverb, but does the dog knowee proverb?"

They Wear a Mask.

Nearly every shopkeeper in the land is forced, in the conduct of his business, to wear the mask of diplomacy. This was illustrated the other day in a downtown art store.

An elderly lady, connected with some of the best families, made her purchases and paid a small aum on account of a former bill and the goods just bought. As she placed the now bill in her reticule she said to the attentive shopkeeper:

"Now-er-no bothering me about this, you know; no sending around to my place. If you do send a man I'll set the dog on him."

"You'll have no trouble about it. madam," was the suave answer. "Take your time about it; all the time you want," and he smiled like a seraph until the old dowager's coach rolled off up the street. Then he turned to a friend who was taking it all in and muttered:

"Durn her old picture, I won't see a red cent of that money in nine months. But what can you do? You've got to be polite."

The Operator.

A New York matron bought a sewing machine recently, and her 11-yearold daughter, anxious for a novelty, says the New York Sun, laid out the printed directions and attempted to run the machine. All seemed to be going well, till the mother's attention was attracted by a deep sigh and a whispered "O dear! I cannot find it." "What is it, daughter, that you cannot find?" she asked.

"Why, mother," was the reply, "the directions say, 'Place the screw to the right of the operator,' and I can't find the operator!"

Witnesses of his at-tack on Dolphin stood in front of the in the dark as to what caused that inclosure for half an hour waiting for him to reappear, but he did not come out of the burrow.

They were surprised soon afterward to see Dolphin poke his head cautiously out of a burrow which evidently led to another passage connecting with the village with keen eyes Dolphin came out of the burrow and in response to his sharp barks other prairie dogs left their homes to come to the surface.

While they were perched on knoils late in the afternoon faint cries issued from the entrance of the burrow which Green Eyes had entered. They were followed by the appearance of his head and then of his body as he squeezed out of the burrow. His body was covered with dirt, and he had evidently been compelled to dig his way out of his prison. Without making any attempt to attack the prairie dogs he hurried from the village.

The Coquette.

There are scores of girls who are neither beautiful nor witty, but they are natural born coquettes, and as a consequence are perfection in the average man's eyes. The beautiful girl generally banks on her face being her fortune, but the coquette cultivates the habit of saying pretty, flattering things, studying the trick of amusing half a dozen men at one and the same time and of making each man think he is the one that is being especially favored.-San Francisco Call.
