ELECTION OF SENATOR.

It may be true that the technically legal election of United States senator will be by the legislature. but it will also be true that the legislature will elect the candidate who receives the heaviest popular vote.

The people are coming into the habit of asserting their powers these days. If old laws and old customs stand in the way, disregard them. The formal phrases, the mere husks, of the law are not to prevent the people from exercising the power that is rightly theirs. If members of the legislature undertake to carry into effect their "superior wisdom" nonsense by choosing a senator in defiance of the popular selection, such legislators will go to political graves. This certainly-not any set statute -is what gives force to statement No. 1. The people will rule.

Therefore the popular vote for senatore is important, and every voter should consider seriously his vote for this office. Our next senaexperience in affairs, a man of Equal Suffrage." dignity and force of character, and it would be just as well if he should lows: First, twenty dollars; secnot come from the corporationridden city of Portland.

It appears that the U. S. Senate further and further on the American side of the Bering sea and the north Pacific ocean. United States vessels found them last year far in the Alaska fisheries, catching saimon in large quantities, and pick--30 ling the fish for return to Japan. No seizures were made, but most of the Jap vessels took to fight when observed. That this matter may be put in a certain state of protection, the bill was introduced by the Oregon senator, and henceforth care will be observed by the government to patrol the fishing grounds during the season when poaching has been practiced.

Cake Opposed to Trusts.

Every combination of capital known as a trust should be placed under the ban of the law, not only should trust corporations themselves be barred from doing business, but the individuals responsible for the combinations should be punished as provided by law, says H. M. Cake, candidate for United States senator.

There is probably no man in the tate of Oregon more pronounced in his opinions upon this subject than Mr. Cake, as evidenced by the colleges and normal schools of his actions and past utterances.

has at last read the hand-writing upon the wall, and profited thereby. News comes from Washington that a railroad rate bill will be passed containing a provision for review by the courts, thus securing the measure from being declared unconstitutional. The hill as now outlined embodies the recommendations of the president and promises to be an efficient remedy for the evils of present day railroad administration. Shortly after his retirement from the war department Secretary Root, in a speech at a banquet in New York, defended these sets is a valuable addition to the President against the charge of being a dangerous radical by saying that the disposition of the president to force the great corporate interests of the country to obey the letter and spirit of the law, stamped him as the greatest conservative force in the government today. When equal protection under the law is long denied a people, history shows that they will finally appeal to the law of the strong arm, after all the final appeal in any controversy.
