FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1906. ELECTION OF SENATORS. A large majority of the people of the United States favor the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people and they propose to effectuate that desire in spite of constitutional forms.

Oregon, have embodied in their election laws provisions for balloting for United States senator at general elections and every candidate for election to the state legislature must state whether or not he will be bound by the choice of a majority of his party for United States senator. When it becomes apparent that the people mean to insist upon an honest compliance with this requirement and will visit their displeasure upon any legislator who fails to carry out his pledge, a much needed reform in the legislative branch of the federal government will have been attained.

The constantly growing veneration in this country for the memory of Lincoln is a most encouraging evidence of the moral soundness of the mass of the American people. It is an old saying that a people may be judged by the men whom it delights to honor, and if this be true we honor ourselves in cherishing the name of the Great Emancipator. A movement was recently inaugurated among eminent citizens of the country to purchase the Lincoln farm near Hodgenville, Ky., and convert it into a park to be known as Lincoln Farm Park. It is the plan to erect an historical museum there, of relics interesting in connection with the life and times of Lincoln. Lying as the farm does, almost at the center of our national population, it will become one of the most attractive of our national parks, where sectional animosity will be buried and North and South find a common source of pride.

After a thorough discussion of the merits of the case with former District Attorney Heney, on March 29, the president submitted to the Senate the nomination of Wm. C. Bristol, as United States District Attorney for Oregon. Even though the nomination should fail of confirmation in the Senate, which is not likely, the president has the power to make it effective by recess appointment. What now appears to have been a vicious and unfounded attack upon Mr. Bristol by members of the old Mitchell gang, has come to naught. As the president has apparently made up his mind that Bristol is the man for the place, an incident which at one time promised to be disastrous to that gentleman, and to say the least, awkward for his friends, is satisfactorily closed.

A large number of the publications issued by the various departments of the federal government have little value for the average reader. Bulletin No. 252, recently issued by the United States Geological Survey, is an exception. It is entitled "Preliminary Report of the Geology and Water Resources of Central Oregon," and contains much entertaining and valuable information concerning this section of Oregon. The pamphlet is well illustrated with views of scenery hereabout and contains about 130 pages. It is furnished gratis upon application to the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Reveries of a Tramp Pedagogue.

Mr. Nicodemus P. Weider, Bend Social Club. Friend Pedagogues, Demagogues, Synagogues, Catalogues and Bump-on-a-log—I woke up in Barney Lewisville and ate a 15c breakfast to the strains of 4-11-44—did something out of the ordinary—paid my bill. I got my grip and started out to take in Barney's town. A fellow—a wise guy I met on the street—said "Young Fellow, you've got a bad case of grip." "Think so?" says I: "you'r cross eyed, got a bad case of astigmatism or myopia. Better see Doc. Coe, he's an optician." "Not on your life, I'm a pessimist," and he walked on—so did I.

time it abounds with all manner of reptiles from a garter snake to a box-constructor. Clark has got a better town than Barney has. It is situated in a rich fruit belt known as Vine Land and is the metropolis of Astoria county. I reached Astoria about 10 o'clock and was taken to the Ayers hotel. They do put on airs there too—high toned joint. It is run by a fellow named Durham—a great big guy who looks enough like the trademark on a package of Bull Durham to be a brother to it. I can sympathize with him 'cause I got a brother that's a town ball. I went to the court house and looked up my destination. I found the school house was located in the graveyard, being on government land. It looks bad to see a cemetery and school house so closely associated. I will perhaps have an opportunity to weep over the resting places of my predecessors and meditate on my own prospects for a vacant spot in God's half-acre.

Next I went to see the county "Soup" and her name (chance for a name) was Mrs. (no chance for me) Lillian Clemons Merchant, wife of an undertaker. Things begin to look rather serious. The school-house and grave-yard combined and the undertaker and the county superintendent—a lead-pipe cinch on the living and the departed. Well, I'm thankful its all in the pedagogic fraternity. If I live she's got me; if I die her husband gets me.

The next morning I took the stage for Anateone and passed through a little berg on the way. I reached Anateone about noon—six inches of snow. (I'd alone too if I'd been Ann.) Anateone is growing—a big flour mill being built. I found myself still 14 miles from Zindel and no mode of conveyance only 10 feet to, so about 2 o'clock I goes to the city physician's office (I wanted to make his acquaintance for future reference) to find out the road to Zindel. A young fellow sat on the counter in the drug store and sized me up with a mischievous twinkle of the eye and says: "Are you going to teach the school at Zindel?" "Yes, sir," said I in the most stentorian tone of voice I could command. "Well," says he, with a confidential wink to a few purchasers standing by the stove picking their teeth with ten-penny nails and bombarding the stove with tobacco juice, "I would n't go down there if I were you." "Why?" says I, trembling up my sleeve as a vision of the cemetery crossed my mind. "The last man that taught school there got his teeth knocked out." That relieved me; I knew I had n't any teeth to begin on.

"Here are some of your pupils here—they are all bucharos and throw tobacco quids at the school master, bring shooting irons to school and if you lay out the district too"—(another wink). He turned to the by-standers and said "Here's your new school marm." I knew I was in for it now, so I must work a bluff, so says I: "How are you, boys. If any of you fellows want to learn how to shoot, loan me a gun and I'll shoot a penny between your index and ring finger or if you want to demonstrate your pugilistic propensities on my physiognomy I will give you a short period of duration to perform the operation." I threw my coat. The doctor fainted and we brought him to with anaesthetics. "No," said one long, lean, lanky, hungry looking individual. "We're just giving you hot air and don't want no truck with strangers." I put on my coat while my credit was good and went on my way rejoicing. I walked all the afternoon and finally reached the head of a gulch. I inquired at a near-by farmhouse and they told me to follow the gulch and I did till about 9 o'clock that night and reached an old bachelor's cabin. I inquired how far it was to Zindel and he said seven miles. I had got off of the trail. This is the country where a fellow "hits the trail." I stayed all night with my old English host, Fred Rice, and at day-break next morning struck out up Snake river and three miles up the Grande Ronde and came to the ferry landing at Zindel. I sized the thing up; the ferry was on the opposite side from me and I had no chance to participate in a game of fox and geese. I yelled and no one on the opposite shore paid any attention to me so I sat down and patiently waited till the ferry man might get in a mood to bring his merry-go-round across the river and get me and thus I sat upon a rock and waited. F. MILO LORDELL.

Tumalo News.

Tumalo, Or., April 10, 1906. Thomas Arnold of the Sisters was in Tumalo last Friday. He reports farmers busy putting in crops in that district.

Hugh Edwards has gone to Redmond to work.

Charles Hamilton is putting a large amount of spring grain on the Edwards ranch, he having it rented this season.

Charles L. Wimer was in Bend on business Saturday.

A band of cattle branded 77 on the right hip is making considerable trouble to the farmers in this community, trampling ditches and eating up the milk cow's range. These are cattle driven in here from up the Deschutes river.

T. A. Jensen is having some trouble in finding his horses which suddenly took a notion to leave about time for plowing.

Mr. Hansen is having a large amount of clearing done on the Cook ranch three miles north-east of Tumalo.

We are pained to note the sudden death of one of our best citizens, L. G. Boone, which occurred in Prineville April 3, 1906. Mr. Boone was taken sick on Monday and died Tuesday. He leaves a wife and step-daughter, with a host of friends, to mourn their sad loss.

The departed! the departed! They visit us in dreams And they glide above our memories Like shadows over streams; But when the cheerful lights of home In constant lustre burn, The departed! the departed! Can never more return!

AMONG THE CANDIDATES.

For Sheriff. To the republican voters of Crook county: I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the republican nomination for the office of sheriff of Crook county, under the provisions of the direct primary law, and subject to the decisions of the republican electors of this county. WILLIS W. BROWN, Heister.

For County Clerk. To the republican electors of Crook county: I hereby announce my candidacy for the republican nomination for the office of county clerk under the direct primary law, subject to the decision of the republican electors of this county. J. H. HANSEN, Prineville.

For Sheriff. To the republican voters of Crook county: I aspire to be the republican nominee for sheriff of Crook county at the general election next June and will submit my name for your consideration at the primary election to be held April 20, 1906. I ask at your hands a careful consideration of my qualifications and if in your opinion I am capable and worthy, respectfully ask your support. B. F. JOHNSON.

Wm. Johnson for County Clerk. The undersigned respectfully presents his name to the republican voters of Crook county, Oregon, as a candidate to office of county clerk at the primary election April 20, 1906. WM. JOHNSON.

W. F. King for County Treasurer. To the republican voters of Crook county: I hereby announce my candidacy for the republican nomination for the office of county treasurer under the direct primary law, subject to the decision of the voters. W. F. KING, Prineville.

The Wasco News has some very nice things to say about H. M. Cake, the republican candidate for United States senator. That he is very popular in Eastern Oregon will appear from the following: "H. M. Cake, who is one of the aspirants for a seat in the United States senate is a man fully competent to represent the state. Mr. Cake has long been identified with all movements looking to the general welfare of the state, and especially has he been active in movements looking to the opening of the Columbia river. He is generally well known as a man who enters all his work in a whole-hearted way that usually accomplishes something."

Mr. Cake is also very popular along the coast according to the following in the Tillamook Headlight of March 29th: "The Headlight can conscientiously recommend Mr. Cake as a gentleman who will fill the office of United States senator with credit and those who vote for him will be satisfied that they vote for a clean man and whenever it becomes his duty to look after the interests of Tillamook he will do it successfully, for he is just the man the country and people need."

The people throughout the state have come to the conclusion that state funds paid into the treasury from any one county, should be held on deposit in that county and not hoarded in the great money centers. This is the policy adopted by Ralph W. Hoyt.

The state printing office is a very expensive office to the people of Oregon. Only one candidate for state printer, Willis S. Duniway, pledges himself to reduce the cost of the office. He is a man of good personal character, with a reputation for business integrity, and his friends have no doubt that he will make good his pledges of retrenchment in the most expensive office in the state.

Wanted Teams.

To put in 750,000 to 1,000,000 feet of logs on good level ground. To be hauled from 1/4 to 1/2 of a mile. Call or address, Hawkins Bros., Prineville, Oregon.
