HAMMOND TO BUILD

President of the C. & E. Promises Extension.

SURVEY RUNS THROUGH BEND

Work on 350 Miles of New Railroad Will Be Commenced Early Next Season—A Gould Connection.

A. B. Hammond, president of the Corvallis & Eastern railroad, announced last week that this road will be extended across the state from its present terminus at Idanha, probably to some point on the Snake river. President Hammond, in making this announcement, said: "I believe the continued prosperity of Oregon will justify the extensions of these roads. There are more people here than ever, there is new capital in the state, and new life." Present plans contemplate the commencement of construction early next season. "The scarcity of labor," said Mr. Hammond, "makes the beginning of work impossible this year. In addition to the large number of men the construction camps in this state need, thousands of laborers are demanded in the work of rebuilding San Francisco. We will probably commence these extensions next season." The announcement also included an extension of the Astoria & Columbia River road, another Hammond property, from Seaside to Tillamook bay. The two projects will aggregate over 350 miles of new road. Surveys for the extension of the C. & E. across the state are all completed, and actual construction could be started in a very short time.

The note of interest in this announcement to Bend and vicinity is that the C. & E. survey runs through here. If the road is constructed next season, as now seems probable, it will give Bend railroad facilities within a very few months. Furthermore, it will be a road running through the state east and west and will open the markets of the East to the products of the lumber mills that will be established in this section as soon as the railroad comes. By many an east and west road is considered of prime importance to the proper development of this region.

Another matter of great importance to the development of this country that is found in Mr. Hammond's announcement—although it does not appear on the face of it—is that it is believed that this extension of the C. & E. will connect somewhere in the eastern or southwestern part of the state with the Western Pacific, a Gould road, and will thus furnish Gould access to Portland and the ports of Oregon. Railroad men are inclined to believe that Gould is behind this extension. Men closely connected with the Gould systems also hold interests in the C. & E., and the surmise that Gould has a hand in this deal is a very reasonable one.

There are two conjectures, one that the C. & E. will be extended to Ontario and then down the Snake river to connect with the Western Pacific at some point in northern Nevada; the other, that it may not build across the state eastward but will swing south to Lakeview and connect there with a Gould road which is building north from Madeline. Either plan would give this region an outlet to Eastern markets. If Gould is really back of this extension and is determined to reach Portland and Oregon's harbors, it undoubtedly means that Harriman will hasten construction of the Oregon Eastern lines now being surveyed through Central and Eastern Oregon. At the present Harriman has four crews of surveyors working east of the summit of the Cascades. Preliminary surveys are now practically completed for a line across the state from Natron to Ontario as well as for one from Klamath Falls through Bend to Madras. With the announcement that the Corvallis & Eastern will invade Central and Eastern Oregon with the probability that it would be a link in the Gould chain of extensions, Harriman will undoubtedly hasten actual construction to protect himself in a region that he has long considered his own.

Several weeks ago Vice-President Weatherford and General Manager Talbot of the C. & E. passed through Bend on a tour of inspection over the survey of the proposed extension. It is now announced that Mr. Hammond will probably take a similar trip in the next few weeks.

Regarding recent reports of the sale of the Corvallis & Eastern, Mr. Hammond said: "There are no negotiations going on for the purchase of either of the two roads we control. We have been sold out a good many times according to common report, but there is nothing in it."

WILL TRY HOPS.

Experiments Will Be Made in Growing That Crop in This Vicinity.

F. C. Rowlee will experiment next season in the growing of hops on his ranch east of Bend—formerly the D. I. & P. Co.'s experiment farm. If the first year's results promise a success, he will engage in this industry on a much larger scale.

About two weeks ago, Mr. Rowlee and two men from the valley who have had considerable experience in hop culture, purchased a section of land east of Bend under the D. I. & P. Co.'s ditches. It is their purpose, if Mr. Rowlee's experiments warrant it, to engage in hop raising very extensively on this recently purchased land.

Those who have had any experience in raising this crop are very confident that it can be grown in the Bend country so as to produce a great yield. "Dad" West reports that a hop vine planted by him was literally loaded with a heavy yield last season, with similar results promised this summer. Henry Hedges, who has had much experience in growing hops, says that he is positive hops can be grown here at a big profit.

The experiments of Mr. Rowlee with this crop will be watched with interest.

Regarding Relinquishments.

The department of the interior, acting under a resolution passed by the senate, is gathering a list of those persons or corporations who relinquished to the government land in forest reserves prior to March 3, 1905, and who had prior to said act, failed to select other public lands in lieu of the lands relinquished, or who have failed through no fault of their own to obtain patents to lands selected in lieu of the lands relinquished, and who cannot now on account of the act of March 3, 1905, make such selections.

Such persons should file with the commissioner of the general land office not later than Oct. 1, 1906, a statement describing the land relinquished, that no selection in lieu thereof has been made, that if any selection has been made and filed reference thereto must be made, and that the land relinquished has not been sold or in anywise encumbered by the person making relinquishment.

REDMOND'S BIG FAIR

Plans for a Fine Exhibition Are Perfected.

MANY PRIZES ARE OFFERED

The Sum of $1,500 Will Be Divided Among the Winners—Baseball and Football Tournament.

REDMOND, Aug. 1.—Redmond people are hard at work planning for their big fair, which is to be held September 20-21-22. Committees have been appointed, advertising matter is being distributed, sports and pastimes are being arranged. When the crowds gather at Redmond on the above dates, this progressive little burg is going to have all arrangements made to show the visitors a profitable and enjoyable time.

The principal object of the fair is to advertise the fertile lands under the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Co.'s ditches and show people what this land will produce. With this end in view $500 has been donated by the company. This amount will be largely increased by private subscriptions. In all $1,500 will be distributed among the prize winners, by far the greater part of this amount going as prizes for agricultural products. The prizes will be divided into two classes, one consisting of prizes for products grown upon the irrigated lands of this region, and the other for products from other parts of the county. Thus it is not a purely local affair but is intended to show what Crook county as a whole can do.

A baseball tournament is being arranged, and a football game between county teams will be one of the chief attractions.

TAPS SUBTERRANEAN LAKE.

Plenty of Water Found in New Well Near Agency Plains.

James Spicer, who lives two miles east of the Fred Fisher place in township 10-14, had the good fortune to strike a plentiful supply of water in the well which he was drilling on his place, one day last week, says the Madras Pioneer. The Spicers dug their well down for 50 feet with picks and shovels, and from that depth were sinking it with a hand drill, when at a depth of 81 feet the drill broke through into what is apparently a subterranean lake or body of water.

The hole is only five inches in diameter, and since striking the body of water they have been drawing up water for ranch and household purposes with one of the long narrow well buckets with a bottom valve. The water is cool and clear, and the supply appears inexhaustible, although the body of water or subterranean lake is less than two feet deep.

The Spicer homestead is situated in the range of hills east of the Fisher place, and the finding of a body of water is all the more remarkable owing to the location of the ranch. Several other wells have been sunk near Fisherville, but in every case they have been on much lower ground, and the water supply has come from small springs which were tapped by the well. The Spicer ranch is probably not to exceed 100 feet lower than Agency Plains.

Buys Threshing Machine.

The large J. I. Case threshing machine recently purchased of McTaggart & Byr by the Union Christian Threshing Company, has arrived at Shaniko, and members of the company left Thursday morning for Shaniko for the purpose of bringing it out. They have a number of threshing contracts in the Opal Prairie and Haystack countries, and expect to begin on them within the next two weeks.—Madras Pioneer.
