IRRIGATING FRUIT TREES.

after each irrigation. The vines are cut back after the first year's growth, and in the following spring a low, flat ridge is formed to keep the irrigation water from wetting the vines and fruit.

Blackberries and raspberries are set out in a deep trench, 4 and 3 feet apart, respectively. For the first season the water in irrigating will follow this trench. In subsequent seasons it should be applied in furrows between the rows.

The cuttings of currants and gooseberries are taken from the nursery or from the parent bush and set out about 6 inches deep and 3 feet apart. The water is applied in furrows which are run near the plants the first season. In subsequent seasons all the space between the rows is moistened by running water in two furrows and cultivating afterwards.

Asparagus roots when taken from the seed bed are planted about 2 feet apart in a trench enriched with well-rotted manure. They are covered with fine loam 3 inches deep, and as the plants grow more fine loam is placed around the roots until the trench is filled. The first waterings may be applied in the trench and afterwards from one or two furrows in the open space.

Squash, melons, cucumbers, tomatoes, corn, and cabbage are planted in the usual way on soil which should be adapted in texture and richness to each variety. The standard method of irrigating these crops is by furrows run between the rows. In making the furrows and applying the water the main purpose kept in view is to moisten the soil uniformly to the required depth without wetting the vegetables and with the least possible wetting of the surface.

For convenience in irrigating a garden the head ditch should be a wooden flume with holes in the side to admit water to each furrow. Those who can not afford the expense of a flume should insert small wooden spouts in the lower bank of the head ditch, opposite each space.

Plants like carrots, beets, turnips, etc., which are planted in rows 15 inches apart and cultivated by hand, may be all watered at one time in the following manner: A stream of about 6 miner's inches may be taken from the head ditch and conducted along one border. This stream may be divided into three small heads, one-third being used to irrigate the upper part of the vegetables named, the other applied to the middle part, and the balance to the lower part. By this arrangement about 2 miner's inches are divided up among five rows, which are shortened to 125 feet. Any waste water which collects at the foot of each division may be led into the main furrows at the edge of the field.

OREGON BOUND.

Colonist Rates to Oregon Available to Thirty Million People.

PORTLAND, Or., Jan. 28.—This state was never so well prepared to take advantage of the colonist one-way rates to Oregon as at the present time, because many thousands of people are asking regarding farming opportunities in Oregon, and are receiving literature from many of the organizations holding membership in the Oregon Development League, representative of all sections of the state.

Commencing March 1, and continuing daily until April 30, tickets will be on sale for any point in Oregon, for $25 from Kansas City and all other Missouri river points; this also means from St. Paul and Minneapolis, and all the territory west, including the most important agricultural sections of the United States, and from just where we want our home builders.

These tickets are good by way of Portland all the way round to Ashland, or to any intermediate point, also to Astoria; and to all points east of Umatilla the rate is $22.50. Holders of these tickets can get a stop-over of 10 days at any point in Oregon on the O. R. & N. The same privilege is given to all holders of tickets between Portland and Ashland, on the southern Pacific, except that stop-overs are to be secured by depositing tickets in the Union Depot at Portland.

The rate from St. Louis is $30, or $27.50 to points in Oregon east of Umatilla. In fact these rates are available to thirty millions of people, embracing the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and all the territory contiguous thereto. The different commercial bodies in this state that are sending out literature have adopted the very sensible plan of giving the rate to their towns. For instance, Pendleton makes her advertising effective when she puts $22.50 in big type, as the rate from all points in Kansas and Nebraska to Pendleton, while Ashland can make just as effective an advertisement by making it $25, briefly describing the localities of the trip, etc., etc.

Every citizen of Oregon should get busy and write to friends of this opportunity to come out to this country.
