evening from Portland and joined her husband, who has been here for several weeks. They will begin housekeeping in the Batten cottage.

Mrs. Bogart and Mrs. Stillwell will leave for their homes at Portland Saturday morning, after having lived in Bend several months in the hope of benefitting Mrs. Stillwell's health. The Bend climate did what it was expected to and Mrs. Stillwell returns to her Portland home much improved in general health.

For a short time the Bend library will be open on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock. This will continue until the new books and magazines arrive when it is expected that a librarian will be hired and the reading room and library kept open every evening and two afternoons of each week.

Word reached Bend Wednesday that Miss Jackie Brock had died that day in a Portland hospital. She had been operated upon a few days previously for appendicitis and was apparently getting along nicely. A card received Tuesday by Bend relatives stated that she was recovering from the effects of the operation, but a message the next day brought the sad news of her death. Miss Brock lived in Bend for several years and many here will regret to learn of her untimely death.

A number of boys in Bend who are old enough to know better are going about the town breaking windows in empty buildings. It is reported that they deliberately pick up stones and throw them through the windows. Several windows have been broken out of the Catholic church, as well as in other buildings about town. This is a wanton destruction of property for which there is no excuse and parents should see to it that the boys stop the practice at once. If a stop is not put to it, the town authorities will take the matter into their own hands. A vigorous application of the strap or rod would do a world of good to some of these youngsters and would save the marshal the task of taking care of the boys.

MANY SOCIAL FUNCTIONS.

Bend Ladies Entertain and Are Entertained in Various Pleasant Events.

Social events in Bend have been rather numerous during the past week or ten days, and the ladies of the town have spent several very pleasant afternoons in various functions. Last week Thursday afternoon Mrs. Hugh O'Kane, Mrs. F. H. Greenman and Mrs. Thos. Ryan entertained in the lodge hall the members of the Royal Neighbor lodge and a few invited friends. The feature of the afternoon was a guessing contest in which the answer to various questions was the surname of some Bend person. Miss Coleman and Mrs. A. H. Grant guessed the same number of answers correctly, and drew straws for the prize, a small vase. Miss Coleman drew the long straw and won. Later the ladies became very much excited over a game of "Pit," after which refreshments were served. Those present reported a most enjoyable afternoon.

Last Friday afternoon Mrs. F. O. Minor entertained a number of her lady friends in honor of Mrs. Her-ring, who was to leave soon to take up residence on her homestead. For the reason that this affair was about midway between St. Valentine's and St. Patrick's days, the rooms were tastefully decorated with hearts and shamrock. Each guest was requested to find her seat at one of several tables, on each of which were four hearts, and on each heart was the name of one of the ladies present. Then a plate was placed on the table and on the plate were a number of small shamrocks and hearts cut from satin and velvet. The ladies were each given a hat pin and requested to place thereon first a shamrock and then a heart and continue in that order, but under no circumstances could the contestants touch the little pieces of cloth with their hands. This proved quite a difficult feat and created much sport. Mrs. Ellis and Miss Fay Baldwin of Prineville each succeeded in spear-ing 32 of the hearts and shamrocks and won the prizes. Mrs. Ellis being given a handbag, Miss Baldwin a fancy apron. Refreshments were served and the remainder of the afternoon spent in social chat and listening to music. On this occasion Mrs. Minor proved herself—as usual—a most entertaining hostess.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. C. D. Brown tendered a "shower" in honor of Miss Pettit, who is soon to be wedded to Dr. Pace of Guide Gate, Neb. Another guessing contest was in vogue here, in which three ladies tied for the head prize—Miss Coleman, Miss Pettit, and Mrs. Rowe. Lots were drawn and the prize, a pretty paper knife, went to Miss Pettit. The bride to be was showered with a number of fine presents, which were brought into the room in a small cart trimmed with white ribbon and drawn by little Viola Brown and James Merrill. Miss Marion Wiest and Miss Iva West favored the ladies with vocal and violin solos, with Mrs. Frank McKay accompanist. Refreshments were served and the ladies departed after having spent a very pleasant afternoon, and wishing Miss Pettit much joy and happiness in her wedded life.

Last Sunday Miss Pettit entertained the teachers of the school at a 1 o'clock dinner at the Pilot Butte Inn. Tuesday evening the teachers were hostesses to Miss Pettit at a 7 o'clock dinner at the same popular hostelry. Both occasions were very jolly affairs and much mirth and merriment prevailed.

Miss Pettit, who has been a very popular teacher in the Bend schools since last September, recently resigned her position and she and Dr. Pace will be married soon. They plan to spend a part of the honeymoon in California and expect to see the U. S. fleet when it reaches California waters. Miss Pettit has made many friends in Bend and will be sorely missed.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. J. B. Heyburn was hostess to nine of her lady friends, whom she had invited in to spend the afternoon. The ladies took their sewing and while they sewed they chatted as only women can when their fingers are engaged with the needle. Later dainty refreshments were served, and the ladies departed after having spent a very pleasant afternoon.

A REAL SURPRISE WEDDING.

Popular Newton Girl Becomes Bride of Oregon Gentleman.

One of the most complete surprises that has ever been sprung on Newton's social circle, was that of last Thursday morning, when Miss Effie McLellen, one of the handsomest and most popular young ladies of our city, slyly slipped away to Des Moines, accompanied by her lover, and in the afternoon at the parsonage of Plymouth Congregational church was made the bride of Mr. Charles A. Chapman, by the venerable pastor, Rev. A. L. Frisbie, the only witnesses to the pretty service being Mrs. L. A. Greenleaf of this city, the groom's sister, and Mr. Mack Galusha of Des Moines. Well, we are all now perfectly reconciled, and no Newton bride has ever received the universal good wishes of our people, young and old, more thoroughly than Miss Effie McLellen, and none has ever deserved them more.

She is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. McLellen, a favorite of parents and sister, and her going out of the home takes from it much of the joy and sunshine with which it has always been blest. The groom is not wholly a stranger in this county, although for many years he has resided in Bend, Oregon, where he is engaged in the real estate business. He is a son of the late J. O. Chapman, and his childhood was spent in Md Prairie township, his father's farm joining that of the McLellens on which Effie's childhood was spent, and both attended the same rural school at old Bear Grove school house. About their first acquaintance was when the pupils gave an "Uncle Tom's Cabin" entertainment, in which Effie played the part of little Eva and Charlie personated old Uncle Tom. That was a good many years ago, when neither of them dreamed of what the future might have in store for them.

They are still in Des Moines.

but will return to Newton in a few days to receive the congratulations of their friends, after which they may make a visit with Charlie's sister, Mrs. Harry Galusha in Wichita before going to their future home at Bend, Oregon—Newton (Iowa) Record.

A Poem.
It was down in old Nebraska
Where the winds are wild and free
And the waters of the Elkhorn
Murmur onward toward the sea,
That I read about a country
Far away toward the west
Where the toil worn western people
All could find a place of rest.
So I thought I'd buy a ticket,
And I'd go me out and see
If the country was as goodly
As 'twas advertised to be.
Then I headed for the country
Where Deschutes had waters near,
Landing near the town of Redmond
Eastward from the river's shore.
When I saw the gorgeous landscape
Stretching far from east to west
I concluded that the papers
Had left out the very best.
Lovely scenes of rain and mountains,
Meadow lands and forests grand
Met my gaze of admiration
Every where on every hand.
Sun lit fields of golden verdure,
Richer soil I'd never seen,
Numerous lakes and sparkling mountains
Sparkled like a silvery sheen.
Then I knew I'd found a country
That was bound to please and charm,
So I went me to the office
And I bought myself a farm.
Years have passed; I'm still at Redmond,
And it's growing mighty fine,
All we lack now, as I see it,
Is that blamed old railroad line.
But perhaps behind the curtain,
Veiling from our longing sight
Golden dreams of wealth and grandeur
There's a gleam of coming light.
Then—Hurrah for Redmond's future
For her enterprise and charms
And a tiger for her farmers,
With their million dollar farms.
GREENHORN.

THE ENDLESS CHAIN

With the coming of spring, squirrels, gophers and sage rats regularly appear, to devastate the fields of growing grain. Early in the season, when their natural food is scarce, their numbers may be greatly diminished by a systematic warfare upon them. Every female killed before the young are born, reduces the number of pests at least ten later on. "Woodlark" Squirrel Poison is the most reliable and destructive agent yet devised for their extermination. It is an absolutely certain instrument of death for squirrels. Every kernel is warranted to kill. Climatic changes, dew, frost, or the moisture of the earth do not effect its strength. It requires no mixing or preparation, and is always ready for use. No other is so good. Dealers will refund the purchase price, if not as claimed. The Hoyt Chemical Co., Portland, Oregon.
