BUYS RIGHT OF WAY

Electric Lines Will Build over the Cascades into Central Oregon.

STATEMENT TO THAT EFFECT

Persistent Reports Are that Portland, Eugene & Eastern Will Cross the Cascades to Bend.

Reports still continue to the effect that the Portland, Eugene & Eastern railway, the electric line that is building through Willamette valley, will build over the mountains into Central Oregon. In view of the fact that one of the directors of this road stated, while in Bend last summer, that his road would be built to Bend within two years, it is generally believed that these reports are based on fact. The latest statement is found in the Albany Democrat of March 27. The Democrat says:

"A. Welch, manager of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern railroad, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Welch reported the rails would be in Albany within 10 days for the Albany system. * * * Mr. Welch stated that it is proposed to have cars running into Albany from Salem by the end of the year. In addition it is said the company is securing rights of way east from Eugene over the mountains.

The Oregon Electric Co. is also coming south from Salem, and a report is that it will probably cross the mountains from Albany by way of Lebanon and Cascadia."

The Oregon Electric already has its line in operation from Portland to Salem, and both this road and the Portland, Eugene & Eastern have surveyors in the field running lines south from Salem to Albany and to Eugene. With both of them engaged in active construction work and with both heading for the Bend country, transportation for this section will be provided in the not distant future.

AFTER DEEP WATER.

Drilling Will Be Resumed in Well on Moses Niswonger Farm.

Drilling will be resumed in a few days in the deep well on the Moses Niswonger farm at Powell Buttes, 17 miles east of Bend. Moore Bros., who have the contract for the well, have recently received new tools and repairs for their machine and will now sink the well until they find water, if it is possible to do so. There is no doubt but that they will strike water at a reasonable depth.

Work was temporarily postponed on this well last winter, when the drill had reached a depth of 122 feet. For the first 94 feet of this depth, no rock were found. Then a boulder, seven feet through, was penetrated, after which the drill entered soft dirt again for 10 or 12 feet, when a rock formation was struck, which is, however, not lava rock.

Moore Bros. are the men who closed a contract with the D. I. & P. Co. to drill four deep wells on different parts of the company's segregation. It will be remembered that the first one drilled was at Redmond and water was found at a depth of 450 feet. The other three wells are still to be sunk.

Death of H. W. Morrill.

Died, on Thursday morning at 6:30 o'clock at his home in Bend, Holman W. Morrill, age 75 years, 5 months and 8 days. Mr. Morrill has been in poor health for several weeks and had but recently recovered from quite an extended illness. After being up and about for a short time, he was again confined to his bed about a week or 10 days ago, the last attack proving fatal. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock today from the church. Members of the Masonic lodge at Prineville will be present to join with local Masons in conducting the services.

Holman W. Morrill was born in Bangor, Maine, on Oct. 24, 1832. He left Maine when 21 years old and moved to Minnesota, where he resided until 1881, then moving to Nebraska. In 1903 he moved from Nebraska to Pendleton, Oregon, and after residing there a year, came to Bend four years ago the first of last March. In 1892 his wife died in Nebraska, and he is survived by one son, Arthur D. Morrill, a farmer at Powell Buttes. Mr. Morrill had always been a hard working man, upright and honest and well respected by all who knew him. Up to his recent illness, he had been remarkably spry and active for a man of his age. He has a large circle of friends in Bend, who will regret to hear of his taking away.

CLAIMS IT IS NON-DESERT.

Contest Brought against Land in Carey Act Project in Walker Basin.

J. E. Morrison, of Portland, president of the Deschutes Land Company, a company that plans to reclaim a large acreage in the Walker Basin, was in Bend the first of the week defending his company in a contest brought by C. W. Richie of Rosland against a portion of the company's segregation. The land under contest is 200 acres lying adjacent to where the Silver Lake road crosses Paulina creek.

The allegations on which Mr. Richie based his contest are that the land produces a growth of black jack pine and is capable of raising an agricultural crop. Hence, he maintains, the land is not "desert" in character and should not be segregated under the provisions of the Carey Act.

Mr. Morrison stated to The Bulletin that his company was contested once before on similar allegations exactly, and, after the land had been thoroughly inspected by government officials, a decision was rendered in favor of the company. He therefore feels that the land office will not reverse itself now, and that he will win in the present case.

When asked how soon his company would begin construction work on its system of canals, Mr. Morrison replied that no definite time could be set inasmuch as the company would not spend any money in construction as long as there is a chance that the department might possibly render a decision in favor of Mr. Richie, declare the land non-desert in character, and thus put a stop to reclaiming it under the Carey Act. He stated, however, that as soon as a final decision is reached, his company would push the construction to a rapid completion if the decision favors his company. However, within the next few weeks engineers will thoroughly survey around the shore of Crescent lake, so as to determine what lands, if any, will be overflowed by damming the outlet of the lake, which the company intends to do. The outlet will be lowered five feet and a dam built that will raise the water 18 feet above its natural level, thus making available 23 feet of stored water.

The Deschutes Land Company has its contracts with the State Land Board signed, and is contracted to reclaim 31,000 acres. It would be a fine thing for this entire section to have construction start on this project, as it would add just that much additional stimulus to the market for all kinds of farm products.

A Common Mistake

Many women mistake kidney and bladder troubles for some irregularity peculiar to the sex. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities and makes women well. Miss Carrie Harden, Bowling Green, Ky., writes: "I suffered much pain from kidney and bladder trouble until I started to use Foley's Kidney Remedy. The first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely well."—C. W. Merrill, Druggist.

PETITION REJECTED

Dr. Coe's Name Will Not Appear on Primary Ballot.

URGED TO RUN INDEPENDENT

Foolish Technicality and Precise Interpretation of the Law Invalidates One of the Doctor's Petitions.

On account of an unfortunate error due to a misleading and nonsensical provision of the law, Dr. U. C. Coe's name will not appear on the ballot for the republican nomination for state representative at the primary election. Word has been received from Secretary of State Benson that one of the doctor's petitions was not properly verified and had been rejected, thus not leaving the required number of petitions to secure putting his name on the primary ballot. The error existed in one of the petitions from Lake county, and as all petitions had to be filed with the secretary of state not later than March 27, there was not sufficient time to correct the mistake.

The law states that petitions circulated for signatures by candidates who desire their name put on the primary ballot, must be verified by one of the signers of said petition, and then proceeds to give the form of the affidavit as follows:

"I, _____, being first duly sworn, say: I am personally acquainted with all the persons who have signed this sheet of the foregoing petition and I personally know that their signatures thereon are genuine; and I believe that their postoffice address and residence are correctly stated, and that they are qualified electors, and registered members of the _____ party."

This affidavit is printed on all the blank petitions furnished for signatures. It will be noticed that not a word appears in it to indicate that the affidavit must be signed by one of the signers of said petition. The Lake county petition was duly signed and verified, but not by one who signed the petition. Hence, it was rejected.

As a matter of fact, it has not been generally understood that the above affidavit must be sworn to by a signer of a petition, and a large number of petitions have been verified just as this one of Dr. Coe's was—by one who had circulated the petition and could swear to all the stipulations of the affidavit, but who had not signed the petition. Under this proceeding the spirit of the law is fulfilled, the required number of voters desire the candidate's name to appear on the ballot, but on account of a nonsensical technicality which has no real value the petitions are rejected.

The law is woefully weak and at fault in this particular. If a petition has to be verified by a signer thereof, such fact should be stated in the affidavit in order to avoid confusion. Requiring a signer of a petition to verify it is entirely unnecessary inasmuch as the only point desired is to secure genuine signatures. Many a man might circulate a petition and know the signatures thereon to be correct and yet could not sign it because he might not be a resident of the precinct in which the signatures were obtained. Hence he could not verify the petition, although he would know better than anyone else that the signatures were correct. The stipulation requiring a petition to be verified by a signer thereof is ridiculous and really insures nothing to the validity of a petition. The practice of having petitions verified by others than signers thereof has been quite common. Some maintain that inasmuch as the above affidavit is an integral part of the law, any petition is valid that has been verified by one who can truthfully swear to the stipulations of said affidavit, even though the affiant was not a signer of the petition. But Secretary of State Benson has ruled otherwise, there was not time to return the petition and have it verified under his interpretation, hence Dr. Coe's name will not appear on the primary ballot.

There is a wide spread demand among Dr. Coe's friends that he run independent at the general election in June and they are urging him to do so. Whether he will or not, The Bulletin is not prepared to say at this time.

Redmond Items.

C. W. Muma is in again and reports the Shaniko road in very good condition, especially for this time of the year.

Our genial friend, P. K. Simons, came through again Wednesday with the stage bound for Bend.

Mrs. Lon Reed has been spending some time at the old home. Lon himself was down Sunday from the camp.

Pinis Woods was to go to Madras today.

The microbes finally got Neighbor Louie Handegard. We knew they were after him pretty hard when he left here but we thought he would get to the old country before it became fatal. It was the marrying microbe that finally did the work.

A remonstrance is out against granting a saloon license for Redmond. There are quite a number here who seem to think we can get along very well without an institution of this kind.

Two road petitions are out and will be presented to the county court at its May session. One provides for an extension south of the last road granted so as to connect it with the Laidlaw road near the Forked Horn school house, and the other provides for an east and west connection of that road with the Bend road.

Quite a pleasant and complete surprise was planned and Saturday night was carried out on Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Tinsley. The neighbors gathered and spent the evening in the way that neighbors like to best.

Messrs. and Meslames Lamb and Davidson and Mr. Eby attended the Sunday school meeting at the Forked Horn school house Saturday.

E. C. PARK.

Tumalo Items.

Milt Roberts of Sisters passed through here today with a four horse load of hay for Aune Bros. of Bend.

Jens Hasselberg had the misfortune to get a colt badly cut in the wire fence one day last week.

Water is again running in the C. S. I. Co. canal to the joy of the many settlers.

J. H. Edwards passed through here today going to Bend.

The basket social at the school house near Gist Friday night was reported as a success as the baskets brought in the neighborhood of $50.00 to apply on the organ for the Sunday school.

All the farmers are busy these days plowing and seeding ground, and a large acreage will be put into grains and grasses this year.

The Hightower-Smith mill at this place finished sawing last Friday and the mill will soon be taken apart to move to its new location above Rosland.

Mr. Taylor from Rosland was in Tumalo one day last week after seed rye, which he purchased at the Star ranch.

Laidlaw Items.

Laidlaw, April 1.—Mrs. F. A. Murk is able to be up again after a few week's sickness.

Messrs Styles and Barnes made a business trip to Prineville last week.

Miss Nellie James entertained a few friends Friday evening in honor of the leaving of the family of Mr. C. M. Mudd, who has been superintendent of the Columbia Southern Irrigation Co. Mr. Mudd left for Sunnyside Saturday last.

W. P. Myers is moving his family into the house vacated by Mr. Mudd.

M. Aubrey is able to be out again.

A. P. Donahue of Portland is renewing acquaintances in town this week.

Receiver Simmons turned the water on in the Columbia Southern ditches March 28.

Walter Kokenderfer and sister, Mrs. Dickson, of Spokane are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kokenderfer.

J. L. Couch has his new residence completed and will move in this week.

W. P. Myers now wears a smile that will not rub off—Theodore Ellis M. came to live with him Tuesday.

The Laidlaw Social Club is laying out lawn tennis courts and croquet grounds by Tallar's restaurant.

Affords Perfect Security

Foley's Honey and Tar affords perfect security from pneumonia and consumption as it cures the most obstinate coughs and colds. We have never known a single instance of a cold resulting in pneumonia after Foley's Honey and Tar had been taken.—C. W. Merrill, Druggist.
