Personality Superior to Platform.

Hood River News-Letter.
The platforms of the several candidates for the presidency are now before the American people, and we as voters must jar ourselves loose from the belief that either the republican, democrat, independent, prohibitionist or socialist candidate could place into effect the multiplied tenets of his political platform, should he be elected, and get a glimpse of the real personality crouched behind the respective party platforms.

It is the man who counts in the race of life. Yes, we will venture a step farther and say that it is brains, character and manhood crystallized into a specialist who works most efficiently and mightily in the great world movements of today; and if our proposition is correct it follows that the safest platform is the man best qualified to discharge the duties incumbent upon him should he be elected to the presidency of this great nation.

Probably each of the candidates aspiring to this high office is a good, clean, honest, upright man in the every day walks of life; but this is not the only question to factor in the solution of the presidential problem. We should ask ourselves the question, who is best qualified to discharge the particular national and international duties that devolve upon the incumbent of this high office? There is but one answer compatible with the facts in the case; and that is that Wm. H. Taft will more approximately meet the demands of the case than any of the other candidates before the people.

His wide acquaintance and familiarity with American diplomacy, and his extended experience in American affairs abroad eminently endow him with the essential qualifications to render most competent service in this most important office; and the further fact that he is pledged to carry into effect the Roosevelt principles and policies makes him a safe man for the position.

Give Lake Valley farms and lots in Lakeview going like hot cakes. Better come in and buy one. Come in and talk it over any way.—C. A. JONES.
