

Good Blood

Means good health, and Hood's Sarsaparilla has an unapproached record as a blood-purifier.

It effects its wonderful cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients. There is no real substitute for it. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good" you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. In usual liquid form or in chocolate tablets known as Sarsapills.

The city of Haroun al Rasheed, Baghdad, has a foreign trade of nearly $25,000,000 a year.

British Honduras is short of labor for its increasing fruit growing and is trying to get coolies from India.

Central Park in New York city is assessed at the valuation of $215,000,000, not for the purpose of taxation, but so as to show the amount of real estate value that is exempt from taxes.

There is an agreement among the keepers of first-class restaurants in New York city that the business would not pay, on the scale now followed, if it were not for the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Palestine's ancient wells, famous in history for centuries, are giving way to pumping by modern engines and outlets, particularly for watering gardens and orchards. There is a large demand for and import of pumps.

The new docks at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, are to be further enlarged at a cost of $5,000,000 (49,500,000), in addition to the extensive dock work now going on. The docks are owned by the Brazilian Federal government.

Chinese are discarding the old oil-paper umbrellas, in use for centuries, in favor of the kind of umbrellas used in Europe and America. Germany and Japan are fighting for the trade. Last year China imported 1,362,737 umbrellas and the year before 1,280,111.

Introduction of motor boats into the fishing industry is held to be responsible for the steady increase in that industry in Norway. These boats make it possible for the fishermen to make a much larger catch and also furnish better protection in rough weather and are safer than the old boats driven by sails.

Women employed as ordinary day laborers in the construction of buildings, mixing the mortar, sifting sand and carrying bricks and for unloading coal, are the unusual conditions described as existing in Prague and elsewhere in Bohemia. The women are paid from 32 to 40 cents a day. The working day for these women is from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., with an hour for dinner.

Japan's second largest steamship company, the Alaska Shosen Kaisha, is starting a semi-monthly service to the United States with six vessels, using Tacoma and Seattle as starting points and Hongkong as the terminus. An agreement to this effect has been made with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, to begin in August, 1909. The six vessels are now being built at Kobe and Nagasaki.

Here is a possible explanation of the strong predilection J. Pierpont Morgan has for cigars. According to the United States Tobacco Journal, the Chester School, of Waterbury, which the financier once attended, has sued a man in Hamden, Conn., for a year's board and tuition for his son. The defendant makes the answer for his refusal to pay that the school officials and teachers used tobacco in the presence of the pupils, thereby encouraging them to contract the habit.

Charles Francis Barker, of Boston, has held the title of American champion at checkers for about thirty years, and has just shown that his grip on it is firm by defeating Joseph Drouillard, of Kansas City, in a match of fifty games. Barker won ten games in the match, while Drouillard captured only two, the remaining games resulting in draws. Incidentally, it cost Drouillard and his friends $1,000 to test Barker's mettle. The match was played in Kansas City.

After the performance of the "Goettermuening" in Paris recently, according to Figaro, complaint was entered by Wagner enthusiasts because the opera had not been performed in its entirety. The directors, Massager and Bronsiau, made reply in an open letter to the effect that to render the complete work several times in one week would overtax the performers, and "inasmuch as we give four hours and twenty minutes of music, we should not be blamed for omitting parts which could be rendered in six or seven minutes."

On the Hedjaz railway in Arabia there is to be operated a carriage fitted up as a mosque, where pilgrims will be able to perform their devotions during the journey to the sacred cities. Externally the praying carriage is only distinguishable from the other carriages by a minaret six feet high. The interior is luxuriously fitted. The floor is covered with the richest of Persian carpets, while around the sides are verses from the Koran appropriate to the pilgrimage and in letters of gold. A chart indicates the direction of Mecca at one end, and at the other are placed four vessels for holding water for the ritual ablutions.

Could Not Sleep Nor Hear.

Mrs. A. L. Wetzel 1923 Ohio St. Terre Haute Ind. writes: "When I began to take your medicine I could not sleep, nor hear a church bell ring. Now I can both see and hear."

"When I began your treatment my head was terrible. I had buzzing and ringing noises in my head."

"I followed your advice faithfully and took Peruna as you told me. Now I might say I am well."

"I want to go and visit my mother and see the doctor who said I was no longer for this world. I will tell him it was Peruna that cured me."

Rheumatism Prescription.
The increased use of whiskey for rheumatism is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. The following formula is effective: "To one-half pint of good whiskey add one ounce of Toris Compound and one ounce of Syrup Sarsaparilla Compound. Take in tablespoonful doses before each meal and before retiring."

Toris Compound is a product of the laboratories of the Globe Pharmaceutical Co., Chicago, but it is as well as the other ingredients can be had from any good druggist.

TWO EXTREMES

Women at Top and Bottom of English Municipal Life.

For a year or so we have read and heard much of the suffrage movement in England—the same applied to the somewhat unworldly effort of a certain class among English women to procure the right to vote in Parliamentary elections. It will surprise Americans, perhaps, to learn that already English women have the municipal franchise. That is, they in municipal elections and can hold office.

From the London Sphere we reproduce two illustrations. The first is a picture of Mrs. (Dr.) Garrett Anderson, an educated and refined lady recently elected mayor (or mayoress) of Aldersburgh. The second illustration, published as a comparison piece to show another phase in women's activity in municipal affairs, shows a sort of London rubbish, one of thousands who eke out a precarious living in the great metropolis. It would be difficult to present more striking examples of women at the top and at the bottom of the municipal ladder.

The Story of a Song.

The story of "Ninety and Nine," the well-known hymn the music for which Ira D. Sankey improvised in a burst of deep feeling, was told by the Rev. C. E. Locke, at the funeral of Mr. Sankey. The evangelist had found a little poem, "The Lost Sheep," in a Scotch newspaper, so runs Dr. Locke's account in the Brooklyn Eagle, and had clipped it. One night in Edinburgh Mr. Moody asked him to sing. Mr. Moody had just finished his sermon, "The Good Shepherd," Mr. Sankey had no thought of composing a new song, but as he used to tell the story:

"As I sat at the organ my fingers fell on A flat and my eyes fell on that little poem, I began to sing, and I sang the words of that poem."

When he had finished Mr. Moody rushed down from the platform and asked him where he had found that song. He said it was the most wonderful song he had ever heard. Mr. Moody was weeping, Mr. Sankey was weeping and the audience was in tears, so great was the impression produced by the song.

"I sang it as God gave it to me," Mr. Sankey replied. He never changed a note of the song from the time it fell from his lips.

Needless Expense.

"Was his courtship a success?"

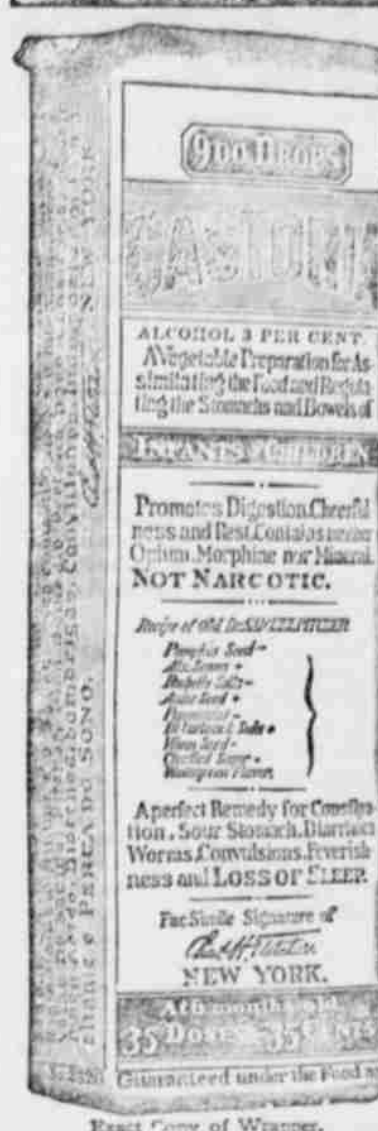

"No."

"Why, I thought he married the girl?"

"And so he did."
