The Finish of Anti-Publicity Merchant Near at Hand, Says Ad. Man.

ADVERTISE OR QUIT

A. E. Hutchings of Kansas City, a former president of the Southwestern Ad. Clubs of America, who was billed to speak before the meeting of the Topeka Ad. club recently, did not arrive in time. But it so happened that F. L. Blanchard, representative of the Briggs-Young-Shone Company Advertising agency of New York, was in town, and consequently be was secured to fill the vacancy. Mr.) Blanchard said in part:

The average small advertiser thinks that he knows all there is about advertising to be known, when he starts to advertise, and fails to appreciate the value of an analytic critical specialist who has spent years in acquiring his peculiar line of knowledge.

The next ten or fifteen years will see remarkable developments in advertising, and it is only a question of a few years when firms' will be compelled to exploit the advantages of their goods or retire from business. We all know that at the present time it is the "dead ones" who do not advertise-the ones whose shelves are laden with flyspecked and shelf worn goods. The live wires of every community are the men who keep their wares and their names constantly before the public.
