400 posts for sale.—ED. HALVORSEN, Bend.
 M. F. Hawthorne of Rosland was in Bend over Sunday.
 Mr. and Mrs. R. L. DeCourcy were over Sunday visitors in Bend.
 Miss Hazel Caldwell, who is teaching in the Laidlaw school, spent Saturday and Sunday at home in Bend.

According to an exchange, indications of coal have been found along the right of way of the railroads building along the Deschutes canyon. The mineral crops out of a steep hillside about 75 miles from the mouth of the Deschutes.

The Bend brass band was here Saturday forenoon on their way home from Sisters where they played for a dance Friday night. While here they favored the citizens with some music which was much enjoyed.—Laidlaw Chronicle.

Mr. Donlon, the expert who is installing the new machinery in the P. B. D. Co.'s sawmill met with quite an accident the other day. He jumped down from the boiler onto a 20-penny spike, the nail entering the ball of his right foot and running clear through. He is now hobbling around on crutches.

To advertise my business and incidentally to reduce stock, I will sell at public auction some registered and grade Jersey cows, heifers and bulls, on Saturday, October 2, 1909, sale beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. Good stock and liberal terms. Free lunch served to all comers on day of sale.—A. A. BONNEY, Tygh Valley, Or.

Geo. L. Simmons and Fred Wallace came up from Laidlaw Monday evening and left yesterday morning for Portland to turn over their books to the Columbia Southern Irrigating Co., now that the state has lost its suit against that company. Pending this action, Mr. Simmons had been appointed receiver and Mr. Wallace secretary and treasurer of the company.

V. D. Williamson, Paul C. Bates and Al Viggers of Portland were in Bend last Saturday having run in from Burns in their auto. Mr. Williamson was formerly president of the Oregon Trunk Line. These gentlemen are investing quite heavily in Central Oregon real estate, one of their more recent purchases being the acquisition of the A. S. Phillips ranch which adjoins the Madras townsite on the southeast. The price paid was $15,000.

George Aleder, an eight-year-old youngster on Lou Bardfield's place near Drewsey is certainly made of the right stuff. Early one morning recently a mare got out of the field and she would go away some distance if not caught at once. There was no horse handy and the boy had just jumped out of bed and was not dressed. He started after the animal and after following her six miles caught her. He had no rope so tore part of his shirt up into strips and led the mare home.—Burns Times-Herald.

The Hill surveyors under Engineer Rockfellow have moved back to their former camping grounds north of Bend and have again challenged the Bend ball team for a game next Sunday, which has been accepted. The surveyors seem determined to get the scalp of the Bend team, and perhaps they will succeed this time. Their team has been strengthened by the acquisition of I. R. Immelee of Redmond, who is now working with the crew. Immelee is a rattling good pitcher and an all round ball player. Remember the date—next Sunday afternoon.

The suit of J. H. Wenandy vs. Dr. J. T. Guerin was held in Justice Merrill's court last Thursday afternoon. Action was brought by the plaintiff to collect a bill against the defendant of $29 for team hire. The defendant brought in as a counter claim certain service, chief of which was doctoring a sick cow, for the plaintiff. The verdict resulted in a judgment of $13.80 and costs against the defendant. The plaintiff in this suit had attached the medical books and instruments of the defendant, whereupon the defendant replevined the goods, claiming they were exempt from attachment, the suit being heard in justice court at Laidlaw. In this first hearing, the verdict went against Wenandy, who then brought action to collect his account in Justice Merrill's court. Settlement has not yet been made and the case may be carried into the circuit court.

Two or three of Bend's teachers have been after The Bulletin's scalp because someone had told them that The Bulletin had said that some other school in the county had taken up certain phases of hand work, or manual training, stating that it was the first work of the kind to be done in the county. Well, The Bulletin never said anything of the kind nor came anywhere near saying it, but some people can not read plain English and can imagine or create most any sort of a tale from what they read. Be that as it may, the incident calls attention to the fact that manual training has been taught in the Bend schools for several years. The present primary teacher, Miss Nona Richardson, has had classes for some time in reed and raffia work, basket weaving, paper folding and other features of hand work. It is another demonstration of the up-to-dateness of Bend's schools.

work Porter Bros. are doing, McCole cited an instance where they had cut down six feet through rock for a distance of 400 or 500 yards, in order to open a wagon road down into the canyon. Porter Bros. have gotten their commissary depots, their wagon roads, and camps pretty well established and hereafter their energies will be focused on the actual building of the railroad.

Chief Engineer Kyle reiterates his statement that after a careful examination of the line through the canyon it will not require nearly so long to build the road as at first expected. The first announcement placed the time at 15 months, but according to Engineer Kyle's late statement the Oregon Trunk Line will be finished through the canyon in less time than that.

No matter how many pairs of shears or scissors you may have around the house, you need this pair with the Tension Spring, and when you get and use it once, you will use it in preference to any other you may have. These shears are perfectly finished and heavily nickel-plated.

WE GUARANTEE
