Of Much Importance to Bend.

The visit to Bend of Mr. John I. Springer, traveling freight and passenger agent of the Great Northern Railway, and his statement while here that the two Hills, father and son, are especially interested in the Deschutes valley, is a matter of no small importance to this entire section. First and foremost it means that the Deschutes valley has behind its development the active support and friendship of Mr. James J. Hill, that great railroad and empire builder. Mr. Springer's statements while here and the letter from Mr. Louis Hill, president of the Great Northern, show conclusively that the Hills contemplate to duplicate in Oregon what they have accomplished in the Dakotas, Montana and Washington, namely, the building up and development of a great empire by the construction of railroads into it. This development in Oregon is to take place through the gateway of the Deschutes, and the Oregon Trunk Line will become truly what its name implies—a trunk line for Oregon.

The railroad is now in process of construction and J. J. Hill already begins to encourage and spur on the development of his new empire by the offering of prizes for its best products. And that typifies James J. Hill. He is an empire builder. He does not wait for a country to develop before building his roads into it, but instead throws millions into the construction of a road into a new country, and then follows that up by substantial encouragement in its further development. We do not mean that the object behind all this is philanthropic on the part of Mr. Hill. He intends to make dividends for his stockholders. But his work and labor have resulted in untold good to a vast empire in the Northwest, the happy homes and enterprises of which stand as a monument to his great genius.

The Bend country is the most widely known part of the Deschutes valley. This is commonly admitted, and is evidenced by the fact that Mr. Springer came direct to Bend for his exhibits. What does it mean to have such men as James J. Hill and his son, Louis Hill, actively interested in our section, with all the resources behind them which they are able to command? The question is impossible to answer satisfactorily—the development will be so stupendous. It does mean, however, that Central Oregon is on the verge of a development such as the Northwest has not seen for years.

Bend and the Bend country stand with open arms to welcome Mr. Hill and his railroad, and with a spirit always ready to assist him in every way possible.

FIRST TESTIMONY TAKEN.

Superintendent Saxton Holds Hearing in Adjudication of Water Rights.

The adjudication of water rights on Squaw and Tumello creeks has been in progress during the past week. F. M. Saxton of Baker City, division superintendent of water division No. 2, was present both at Sisters and Laidlaw to take testimony of those who claim water from these two streams.

The hearing in regard to Squaw creek was had at Sisters last Wednesday. There is not much of interest in these first hearings. Mr. Saxton took down the statement of each claimant, under oath, on prescribed printed forms and that's all there is to it at present. Last Monday at Laidlaw, he took the statements of the owners of private ditches from Tumello creek, but nothing was done in regard to the rights of the Columbia Southern Irrigating Company for the reason that the company phoned in and asked for an extension of time in which to submit its testimony. Superintendent Saxton thereupon set a date for an adjourned hearing 30 days later.

Some time must necessarily elapse before the decrees of the board regarding water rights will be issued. The testimony must be submitted for the inspection of those who desire to examine it; contests may be instituted, and various provisions of the law must be complied with before the board's decree may be issued, all of which takes time.

CREWS AT BEND SOON.

Believed that Grading on Hill Road Will be Begun Here.

There has not been very much new in the way of railroad movements during the week. It is reported on good authority that Engineer Wakefield is locating a line from the vicinity of the Rosland sawmill to Bend. Engineer Rockefeller's crew is still working between Bend and Redmond and between times playing ball with the Bend team.

For various reasons, there is deep founded conviction here that the Hill people will put on construction crews at Bend within the next few weeks. This conviction comes from the fact that certain arrangements have been made—on a large scale—with certain Bend business interests which would indicate that construction crews will be at work here soon. Although The Bulletin is a newspaper, it is not at liberty to tell just what these arrangements are. Our supposition may be incorrect, but we do not believe it is.

Furthermore, certain Bend men claim that while at Shauko recently they were offered $70 a month and expenses to go to work with their teams on construction work to be begun soon in this vicinity.

On account of which it is generally believed that crews will soon be put on the entire line from Madras to Bend and the roadbed completed ready for the laying of steel just as soon as the line is completed through the canyon.

Let us wait and see.

Rosland News.

ROSAND, Oct. 1.—A. G. Anderson is building a house for Grover Caldwell.

The surveyors moved up to the mill from Paulina prairie Friday morning and are going to make camp in the cook house while located there.

Mr. Johnson is up putting in fall grain on his homestead.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ringo were down on a visit to the sawmill last week.

Jesse Stotts and daughter Geneva have gone down into California looking for a location and if successful Mr. and Mrs. Stotts with their family will move down in the spring.

The morning of Sept. 30 greeted us with about one half inch of sleet and snow. Just a gentle reminder of the "what is to be."

It is reported here that the surveying crew that has been camped at the Mayfield ranch has moved camp back to Corral Spring, where they were formerly camped.

The sawmill is being worked to the limit these days.

At Trobec is falling timber in the forest reserve for lumber to be used in the new school house.

The survey work which is being done on the new irrigation ditch from Fall river is proving very satisfactory to all the parties so far concerned. Those interested seem quite hilarious at the outcome so far.

F. P. Pettit, forest ranger, has been burning brush which had been piled near the road, the brush being the refuse left after logging for the mill.

W. B. Sellers was up in this country the latter part of the week. He returned to Bend Friday evening.

Mrs. E. L. Wise is back on her homestead.

Messrs. Hurd and Farrington, forest rangers in the Cascade reserve, are in town.

Mr. Dessick, forest ranger in No. 9 district of the Deschutes, is also in town.

The forest rangers have about completed this year's work in the field, and are all very anxious to get home.

Lumber is being hauled to Bend from the sawmill.

For Sale.

Twelve head of thoroughbred Shropshire sheep, consisting of five two-year-old ewes, one two-year-old ram, one yearling ram, four ewe lambs and one ram lamb. All registered. Inquire at Bend hospital or address G. W. HALL, 29tf Bend, Oregon.

Death of L. C. Stanley.

Hon. L. C. Stanley of Chippewa Falls, Wis., father of Fred S. Stanley of Portland, who is well known in these parts through his connection with the D. L. & P. Co., died at his Wisconsin home on Sept. 24 at the ripe age of 81 years.

The Chippewa Falls papers speak very highly of the deceased as a man of upright character and unusual business ability. The Herald said:

"The deceased was always an honorable and upright business man and enjoyed the highest esteem and confidence of the public and his business associates in all transactions. It was his habit to carefully attend to all the details of his large business interests in a manner that exhibited remarkable business ability. Even to the last year of his long and honorable career he retained a strong grasp upon his business, displaying his usual acumen in his dealing with affairs. Mr. Stanley enjoyed the highest respect from the entire community and his loss will be keenly felt. He was one of the builders of this city and whatever he did he performed well and conscientiously. He was an active member of the Episcopal church and there his funeral will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Rev. Geo. Hirst officiating."

Associated with others Mr. Stanley built the first railroad into Chippewa Falls. Later he invested heavily in timber lands in Coos county, Or., and also organized the Grande Ronde Lumber Co. in Union county, becoming its president. He was also interested, with his son, F. S. Stanley, in the Stanley-Smith Lumber Co. and the First National Bank, both at Hood River.

His estate is valued at half a million dollars. He is survived by his two sons, William H., of Chippewa Falls, and Fred S., of Portland.

Catholic Church Notice.

Under the direction of the ladies of the Altar Society, and the male committee of the Catholic church of Bend, the improvements on the church building are progressing very nicely and satisfactorily. Rev. Father Hickey has sent on, amongst other things, a consignment of very nice papering and decorations, and the reverend gentleman says, in a letter to the ladies, that the sanctuary and altar will be a gem, and as pretty and devotional as any oratory in Oregon.

For many long years Father Hickey has been the true friend of Bend, and the kind, considerate pastor of the Catholics of Crook county.

JIM HILL WINS.

circuit. In the sixth, he sent the ball sailing out into the tall timber, made a home run and sent two men across the plate ahead of him.

Immelee, for the surveyors, threw a fairly good game but he was not in his usual form. He has pitched better ball on the Bend diamond.

Metke received numerous compliments from the fans along the lines, many stating that he is the best fielder that ever played in this section. He retired several men by scooping in several high flyers, sent soaring into center field. A man may as well toss a ball into a well as to put it anywhere in reach of Metke. He can run half way across the field and then cop a fly with perfect ease.

Freeman, who heretofore has pitched for the surveyors, played behind the bat in Sunday's game. Freeman plays a better game at pitcher's plate.

Swank did some rapid work at second, as did Ray on first and Quinn on third.

Lossing and Swank's double play in the ninth, by which Weider went out on a fly, and Van Matre was caught off of second, was a fatal play for the Bend boys. The local players had a fighting chance to even the score in the ninth, but the double sealed the game right then and there.

Van Matre threw very well for the Bend boys, considering that it is not his position and that he has not thrown for several years. Weider played with his usual good form behind the bat.
