MURDERER BEING SHADOWED

Silver Lake Man Says Sheriff Barnes Knows Where Ole Hamilton Is.

"Sheriff Barnes of Klamath county states that Ole Hamilton is in a logging camp in Washington, and that he can put his hand on him at any time," said S. S. Wardwell of Silver Lake to a Bulletin man last night. Mr. Wardwell further said that Hamilton was being shadowed and would probably be put under arrest if a sufficient reward were offered, according to reports.

Hamilton, it will be remembered, is the man who is so strongly suspected of the murder of Julius Wallende at Silver Lake about two years ago. Wallende, who was known to have had a considerable sum of money on his person, suddenly and mysteriously disappeared one night and no clue was found until several weeks later, when his body was found floating in Silver creek, about a quarter of a mile above the town of Silver Lake. Hamilton was present at the coroner's inquest and stood calmly over the corpse and watched the examination of the wounds that had caused Wallende's death. Later, at a public meeting to raise a sum of money to be offered as a reward for the capture of the murderer, Hamilton donated ten dollars.

Shortly after, when suspicion had grown to the point where Hamilton's arrest was being urged, he disappeared and was not captured. He is also supposed to have killed a man named Messenger who left Silver Lake in his company some months before the Wallende tragedy and never returned, although he had left several hundred dollars behind. It is believed that Messenger was murdered and robbed by Hamilton and his body buried somewhere in Klamath marsh.

Tumalo News.

TUMALO, Jan. 9.—We are still having a little winter weather.

Mr. McCallister, who owns land east of here, is busy hauling lumber to build a house and barn soon.

J. E. Wimer had the misfortune to lose a valuable mare from distemper last night.

A meeting was held at Laidlaw and 35 tons of land plaster was ordered by farmers in that vicinity.

Chas. Spough and family spent today with Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

A large crowd greeted Mr. and Mrs. Swisher Thursday night. Mr. Frank V. Swisher and Miss Olga Hasselberg were united in marriage by Rev. Mitchell of Bend at the residence of the bride's parents Wednesday, January 5, and that was the occasion of the meeting. The jolly crowd treated them to the tune of many bells, cans, guns and any old thing that would make a noise, and in return for their music they were treated to refreshments and returned home happy to know there was one less bachelor in the country.

LOCAL NEWS NOTES.

Charley and Jimmie Merrill won the December prize for selling the most Saturday Evening Posts in towns the size of Bend. The prize was $2.00 and Bend's two youngest business men are consequently jubilant. The boys are selling about 55 Posts each week; and it is their ambition to run the weekly sales up to 100 copies.

J. H. Wenandy was up to Crescent last week and reports from two to three feet of snow in that section. He says that Ed. Rourke has his new store running full blast at that place and is doing a very good business. Coming home, Mr. Wenandy drove from Crescent to Bend in one day, a distance of about 53 miles. He reports the roads in fine shape.

Henry Linstor was down town Saturday for the first time in four weeks, having been confined to his home during that time by injuries received by having his clothing caught on a revolving shaft in his

A LIBERAL OFFER.

Its Effect Upon the Customer to Whom It Was Made.

A business man of Dayton, O., tells this story of some commercial friends of his:

A customer who bought in a small way from the wholesalers and whose credit was not of the sort known as gilt edged visited the city and purchased a $2,800 bill of goods, paying $2,500 in cash and giving his note for the remaining $300.

After the transaction had been closed and the paper and currency had changed hands the customer said:

"Now, after a deal of that size it is customary to give a purchaser a present. Come across with it."

"We'll throw in a pair of suspenders," laughed the salesman temporarily.

"A pair of suspenders, eh? Say, quit fooling. I really mean it. I expect you to do something in acknowledgment of my patronage."

The salesman went to the manager with the problem, and the manager said:

"Well, if he feels that way about it we might encourage him a bit. We'll do something that ought to please him greatly. Give him back his $300 note. Make him a present of his paper. That will make him a cash customer and raise his credit and save him money besides."

The salesman went back, pleased to be the bearer of such joyful tidings of liberality in business.

"Well, sir," he said, "we've arranged about that present, all right. Here," with a flourish, "is your note. We give it back to you."

The customer did not seem enthusiastic. Instead, without looking at the note he asked:

"Is it indorsed?"

"No," said the salesman in astonishment.

"Then I guess you better gimme the suspenders," said the disappointed customer.—Chicago News.

HOW A HORSE GALLOPS.

The Natural Way and the Conventional Pose in Art.

How does a horse gallop? Owing to the rapidity of action it cannot be seen by the human eye. However, just as the individual spokes of a rapidly revolving wheel can be made visible by a flash of lightning, so the action of a galloping horse can be and has been analyzed by instantaneous photography.

The statuette of Syonby, the thoroughbred, has been made from photographs taken at the instant when all four legs are off the ground. The back is arched, the hind feet are directed forward, the fore feet backward, so that all are tucked under the animal's body.

When the limbs again touch the ground the first to do so is one of the hind feet, which is thrust far forward so as to form an acute angle with the line of the body and thus serve the purpose of a spring in breaking the force of the impact of the hoof when the horse is going at top speed.

In the conventional mode of representing a galloping horse all four legs are off the ground at once, but the front pair are extended backward in such a way that the undersurfaces of their hoofs are directed skyward, the body being at the same time brought near the ground. This conventional pose appears to have been derived from a dog running, when the front and hind pairs of legs are respectively extended forward and backward, with the soles of the hind feet turned upward.

This pose, it is thought, was adopted to represent the gallop of the horse by the goldsmiths of Mycenae between 800 and 1000 B. C., whence it was transmitted by way of Persia and Siberia to China and Japan, to return in the eighteenth century as the result of commercial relations to western Europe.—Chicago Tribune.
