HEAVEN CLAIMS THE CHRONICLE

Laidlaw Sheet, at Tender Age, Passes Away.

REDMOND IS TACKLED NEXT

Result of Squabbles is decrease of Palmer's Paper—Big Batch of Laidlaw Correspondence Gives News from North.

DECEASED

At Laidlaw, Ore., on Saturday, July 3, The Laidlaw Chronicle passed away after a lingering illness. The demise is attributed to general debility and suspension of circulation due to acute local disturbances. The remains were removed to Redmond and will be interred there. A mourning community survives the deceased.

Laidlaw, Ore., July 5.—A long standing suspicion that The Laidlaw Chronicle had shifted its allegiance from this town to Redmond, was brought to a head by last week's issue of the local paper. The greater part of the news and editorial matter of the issue was devoted to lauding Redmond and Redmond citizenship, and "knocking" Laidlaw and ridiculing people here.

After the issue in question the printing plant was packed, and yesterday Editor Palmer of the defunct Chronicle walked out of town escorted by a delegation of Laidlaw citizens armed with cowbells, tin cans, etc. Ten months ago the departing management took charge of the sheet. While it was made a very attractive paper in appearance, almost from the first friction existed between the people of the town and the editor. This resulted in an open breach some months ago, when Palmer, who had been acting as the band instructor, was dismissed from that position, after which he sued the band boys for wages, the suit being settled by the boys' parents.

It is understood that Palmer will make another throw at journalism in Redmond. The name of his proposed paper there has not been divulged as yet. A number of offers for the establishment of a really home paper here have already been made the citizens.

PICTURES WILL BE TAKEN.

Robertson Brings in Photographer and Engineer.

Sunday evening Frank Robertson returned from Portland coming in in his car from The Dalles. With him he brought C. E. Bade, a water works engineer, E. A. Chunlund, photographer and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hood of Beatrice, Neb., who come with the idea of locating permanently in Bend.

While here Mr. Bade will perfect all plans for the extension of the present water system, installation of new pumping plant etc. It is the intention of the Townsite Co., says President Robertson, immediately to lay an eight-inch water main to the south end of Wall street and thence east a block to Bond so that their property owners in that vicinity may "hitch up" with the system if they desire to. Another main will be put down California street to Congress.

Mr. Chunlund is a representative of Gifford, the well known photographer of The Dalles. He has been brought in for the purpose of securing a full set of Central Oregon views and particularly those directly relating to Bend and the Bend country. On the trip in the party made some wide detours for the purpose of securing attractive pictures. On Monday morning a trip was made to Powell Buttes, whence big panoramic views were obtained. On the afternoon of the Fourth many photos of the town were taken; Benham Falls, the new dam, timber and river views, and agricultural scenes, all are to be secured. With these in hand, says Mr. Robertson, an elaborate booklet will be issued.

SCHOOL MEETING POSTPONED

Mistakes in Posted Notices Cause Bond Discussion Postponement.

Owing to the fact that the notices posted to call a special meeting of school voters to discuss a proposed bond issue for a new high school building on July 5th did not comply to legal requirements, the School Board has found it necessary to cancel the meeting. The clerk is now engaged in getting up a petition of tax-payers for such a meeting, according to the required terms.

The new meeting will be held on Tuesday, July 26th. It is said that there is considerable difference of opinion among those asked to sign the petition in regard to the amount of the proposed bond issue, some desiring one larger than $15,000 and others not favoring the scheme at this time. According to School Clerk Weist it will be a year even should the issue be authorized, before the arranging of the details of the bond matters would reach the point of actual construction. It is understood that the district is now in debt some $1600 exclusive of bonded indebtedness with a greatly increased maintenance cost promised for next year, due to the enlargement of the teaching force.

BIG FOURTH OVER BEND DEFEATED.

CROWDS ARE ENTERTAINED REDMOND GETS FAT PURSE

Horse Races, Man Races, Music and Speaking, Autos and Dancing Provide Fun For All—Best Dance Ever.

By the morning of the Fourth the clouds and showers of Sunday had cleared away and the crowds which had poured into the town from all directions had the brightest of days in which to enjoy themselves.

At about 10 o'clock the fun started with an informal band concert on Wall street, after which, headed by the musicians, all marched to Linsler's Opera House. All the improvised seats were filled and several hundred persons stood, listening to the several numbers played by the band and to the speakers. As Mr. Mitchell aptly said in his address, this, the first Fourth on which Bend had had an adequate meeting place, showed what an asset is such a splendid building as the new Opera House.

After music by the band Miss Mabel Roberts gave a humorous recitation, introduced by John Steidl. Then Miss Roberts read the Declaration of Independence and the Rev. J. Anthony Mitchell delivered the address of the occasion. The speaker briefly outlined the meaning of the Declaration, its history and the development of popular government since 1775. The benefits of the work of all political parties and factions to the common good of the country was dwelt upon.

After a brief recess for lunch and other secondary matters the program was resumed. In the 100 yard dash for men Howard came off winner with Chapman second. In the boys' dash Lloyd Kelly won. The wheelbarrow marathon went to Joe Howard of Prineville, who showed lots of form.

Then came the horse races alone Wall street. Will Vandevort on Peter Seggeling's "Little Sue" won the 220 yard pony race, with Kelly's "Roany" second. The same rider on "Redwing" won the 300 yard race hands down, "Boney" Lytle's bay horse taking second money, with Jack Feeks up.

After the ball game with the surveyors, elsewhere reported, occurred the bucking contest on the ball field, "Jadie" Rice winning and H. C. Winston getting the second prize, a handsome bridle presented by H. J. Eggleston. Throughout the day's exercises, which were marked with orderliness, C. A. Chapman acted as marshal.

At 9 p. m. the big dance in Linsler's new Opera House got under Visitors Win From Home Team and Wallop Madras Unmercifully. Railroad Engineers Are Ossified On the Diamond.

In the first game of the Fourth of July series played Sunday morning Bend went down to defeat at the hands of Redmond by the score of 9 to 6. Up to the seventh inning it was anybody's game with the lead shifting from one team to another. While several of the Bend regulars were out of the game, such as Van Matre and Steidl, the loss of the game really resulted from a combination of errors by the home players at times most beneficial to the visitors. Redmond, reinforced by Prineville and other players, put up a fine exhibition of heady ball, particularly outclassing Bend in base running and the finer points of team work.

Up to the eighth inning Armstrong, an old Harvard star who happened in from one of the railroad engineering camps, did Bend's pitching. Two years lack of practice and training, however, told in the game he played. O'Donnell caught; though his backstop work was first class as usual, a bad shoulder made his throwing weak. Kulp held down first. Tetherow, for Redmond, pitched a fine game to Saunders, who seemed to have some difficulty in handling his delivery.

The first and second innings made no work for the score-keeper. In the third a bit of Saunders' brought in two tallies for the visitors, helped by Armstrong's error. In the fourth Metke froze onto a couple of hard out-field liners, with his usual smile. The fifth was Burris' inning, he making two remarkable put-outs at first on difficult grounders and coming in for Bend's first score on Metke's sacrifice. An error by Weider and a hit from Immele brought in two runs in the sixth. Four more for Bend in the last of the sixth came from Thorndike's hits, the inning closing with Kulp fouling out.

Redmond added two more tallies in the seventh on a two-bagger by Boylan and some hard luck with bunts by O'Donnell. McReynolds stopped the slaughter with a beautiful recovery throw to first, retiring the side. Redmond rang up another run in the eighth and a couple in the ninth, Burris scoring Bend's last tally in the last of the ninth. In the eighth and ninth Kulp pitched, Armstrong going to the bench and Spoo to first.

In the afternoon the victorious Redmond team went after Madras and took the northern aggregation

BANK INCREASES SURPLUS.

Devotes Profits to Enlarging Surplus from $2000 to $5000.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank last week the surplus of the institution was raised from $2000 to $5000. The surplus is now 20 per cent of the capital stock, so that hereafter all profits, if desired, can be devoted to dividends instead of devoting one-tenth of these to the increase of surplus, as is necessary under the banking law until the amount of the surplus becomes 20 per cent of the capital. The bank's reports showed that in the last year not a cent has been lost in bad notes and that at present no delinquent paper is on hand.

Lava Has Attractive Displays.

Even in a town many times the size of Bend it would be difficult to find a more attractive display of white goods, silks, ready made skirts, waists, etc., than that displayed at Lara's during the last week. The big new shipments in these lines as well as in couch covers, curtains and the many catchy little odds and ends which go to make up a well furnished home, all set off with the flags of Fourth of July time have made the "Big Store on the Corner" a place worth visiting.

A SQUARE DEAL BILL LAUNCHED

Affected Voters to Decide Division Matters.

PRINEVILLE AGAINST SPLIT.

County Seat Passes Resolutions Hostile to the Proposed County Division and Pledges an Honorable Opposition to Scheme.

During the last week initiative petitions, gotten up under the leadership of the Madras Commercial Club have been circulated both throughout Crook county and in every portion of the State. This petition calls for a bill (whose text is given on page seven of this paper) to be placed before the voters in November which provides that the
