LOS ANGELES TO NEW YORK.

Two Motorcyclists on Their Way Across the Continent.

H. D. Johnson and A. H. Helgeson of Los Angeles, passed through Bend Saturday on their way to Spokane. They are crossing the continent by motorcycle, seeking roads out of the ordinary travel and points of interest not generally seen by the traveling public, taking views and writing a description of the trip and country for Bicycling World, of New York City, and Motorcycling, of Chicago.

Mr. Johnson is riding for the Indian factory, testing the machine in one of the hardest trips known for motorcycles, from Los Angeles via the coast route to Redding, across Oregon to Spokane, Wash., via Helena, Butte, National Park, Bismarck, N. D., and Chicago; thence via the Great Lakes and down the Hudson. Mr. Helgeson is riding a Minneapolis two-speed, and both will keep a record of performance of machines and report weak points to the factories.

They have been on the way nearly a month, camping out wherever night overtakes them. Each carries 125 pounds luggage on carrier on rear wheel, comprising grub and camp outfit. They report hard roads for these vehicles from Redding, California, to this place, the sand making travel slow and tiresome. The roads through this section are fine for auto or team.

Over all these 1500 miles of rough and rocky roads, the G. & J. tires used have made a wonderful record—only one puncture each on the trip—nails through casing. No other trouble has been experienced.

HARD TIMES IN MINNESOTA.

Awful Weather Conditions Cut Crops and Boost Prices.

Suffering humanity will join tonight in every Minneapolis church in which prayer meetings will be held, in supplications for rain to break the awful drought. For there has been no rain this month—unless a meager five-hundredth of an inch be counted rain.

It is the most protracted hot spell since 1901. The mean temperature for the past week have been 9 degrees above the normal mean temperature for June.

Milk consumers are dangerously near a price raise now and face probable advance next fall, anyway. For dairymen are up against lack of pasturage. Grass, except in lowlands, is burned up. One dairymen said today he had turned his cows into his oat field. Wholesale milk people say the milk supply is cut down 50 per cent.

Destruction or marked decrease of the hay crop means added expense to the dairymen next winter. Hay dealers say the Minnesota crop is gone, even to a one-third normal prairie hay crop, and fall prospects are for high hay prices. Millfeed, too, is upward bound.

High feed prices point to increased cost of operating all business involving use of horses and cows. So the high-cost-of-living problem is hooked up with the blistering heat, and drought spells worry to the man of uneven temper.—Daily News, Minneapolis.

through Bend on their way to the summer ranges in the mountain forest reserves. Jake Hinton of Shaniko owned 9,5000.

WANTED—Position as cook in a small outfit. Telephone or write to Mrs. Huntington, care of F. A. Shonquest.

On Saturday Dr. Coe went to Crescent in his car. He reports several new cases of scarlet fever in that vicinity.

H. P. J. McDonald went to Prineville yesterday to file the plats of "Bend Heights," the Linster property west of the river which is to be put on the market in residence lots.

Maurice Lara, cousin of A. M. Lara, who was associated with the management of "The Big Store" last winter, has returned from Chicago to remain here permanently.

L. F. Wakefield came down from Crescent last week. He reports that on the previous Sunday fourteen automobiles with parties from Klamath Falls were at Odell Lake.

Rev. J. Anthony Mitchell will hold services morning and evening next Sunday. "Our Duty to Father and Mother," morning subject, "Hunting for Men," subject for evening.

J. N. Hunter and W. H. Staats have had the old barn on Minnesota street back of the Chapman building remodelled into a garage, in which they now keep their new Jackson cars.

The Fourth of July decorations of F. W. Stafford's National Cash Market established a record in attractiveness. Never before was beef so patriotically bedecked with red white and blue.

Miss Mary C. Davies, niece of Mrs. M. J. Kelley, is visiting Mrs. Kelly. Miss Davies has just graduated from the Washington High School in Portland. She will remain here for some months.

A record of speedy construction apparently is being made by Sherritt Bros. in the erection of John White's new building on Wall street. Begun last week, it now practically is completed.

Over 375 head of horses were put up in the Bend livery stables on the Fourth in addition to those usually on hand.

O' Donnell Bros. have ordered a 2-h. p. Waterloo engine to be operated in connection with their meat market and sausage factory.

The Star Bakery supplied the "feed" at the realty men's meeting last week. It was "good dope," too—the bakery does fine work.

Pure milk delivered at your door at 10c per single quart. Leave orders at Kelly's confectionery. 16-18 H. SPINNING.

A. D. Moe, the tailor, says he wishes the Fourth came around monthly. Everyone in town discovered their clothes needed pressing.
