PRIZE FOR PRODUCTS.

Portland Commercial Club Offers Cup for Oregon Exhibits.

PORTLAND, Ore., August 15.—(Special.)—The accompanying cup will be awarded for the best Oregon exhibit at the International Dry Farming Exposition at Spokane next November. The cup is offered by the Portland Commercial Club and its value is about $50

The conditions attending its award are that the products exhibited must be grown in Oregon on arid or semi-arid lands without irrigation. On one side of the cup is an inscription giving the donor and the requirements to be met and on the opposite side is a blank space where the name of the winner will be engraved. It is a handsome piece of silver, standing nearly a foot high on a solid ebony base.

TROUBLE FOR HILLMAN

Postal Authorities May Take Hand in Prosecuting Game.

Not only are the promoters of the Hillman townsite scheme to be investigated by the grand jury, but it is deemed probable that they will find themselves in trouble with the Postoffice Department. The attention of inspectors, it is said, has been drawn to alleged misuse of the mails by the dissemination of advertising literature containing false representations as to the value of the property, its strategic importance from a commercial standpoint and "promises" made by J. J. Hill as to building a depot there.

Such is a prediction of federal attention for Hillman made in the Portland papers. It is generally believed by Crook County citizens familiar with the facts that any intention of prosecuting the fraud easily could have been pushed home months ago before the damage was done. It is stated that the true status of the townsite scheme was reported to authoritative Portland persons, including railroad, publicity and newspaper men months ago.

The first circular concerning Hillman contains a multitude of false statements, some particularly interesting to Bend citizens; as, for instance, the title of a photograph of the Deschutes at Bend, which is styled "An Irrigation Canal Near Hillman." A score of other statements, equally wide of the truth, exist in the literature which the postal authorities now may attack.

Oklahoman Likes Bend Much.

Walter Everman of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, was a Bend visitor last week. Mr. Everman is a friend of L. B. Baird and comes here because of the latter's enthusiasm for Bend. Together with Dr. Ferrell and Mr. Baird the Oklahoma visitor made a fishing trip to Lake Odell, over Sunday. Mr. Everman, who is an architect, is highly delighted with Bend and this country, especially in regards to its climate, and very likely will return permanently.
