A more or less eminent educator of Cornell University, after characterizing Roosevelt as an "unmitigated liar," borrows a phrase once applied to one Clodius, of Rome, and uses it upon the American orator. According to him, T. R.'s success has been the result solely of his "uncontrollable audacity." Not ability, either mental, moral or physical, is responsible for Roosevelt's rise; but sheer audacity—says the class-room sage. If such be true, surely audacity proves itself a highly valuable characteristic, for assuredly it has forced its egoistic possessor upward from rung to rung of the ladder of success and attainment with a celerity and swiftness rarely equalled. However, we venture the opinion that this quality stands not alone in Roosevelt's repertoire. Indeed, when the Cornellian asserts that it, and it alone, accounts for the achievement of its illustrious exponent, one wonders if perchance the perpetrator of such a statement may not himself be over primed with audacity.

Six feet of ballot is the Oregon product which its voters will encounter at the coming election. Back east an undersized little twelve-inch ballot is about all the depleted political soil can produce. Here, then, is another proof of Oregon's superior productivity over that of its played-out New England progenitors. Just as this is a record-breaking apple year does it mark high water in popular legislation. And doubtless its bright legislative outlook will induce as heavy an immigration of weary politicians as has the state's economic possibilities induced migration of settlers.

Prineville and the fair management should be and are very grateful to the Bend people for their public spirit.

So says the Prineville Journal, commenting upon the enthusiastic "turning out" of Bend people to attend the county fair on "Bend Day." Bouquets are always welcome missiles; besides, it was a mighty good fair and everyone had a bully time. And, if reports are to be credited, the Bend Band was about as popular a feature as the fair had, which leads us to congratulate the band upon their excellent record, and Bend for having such a band—the only one in the county.

If things political continue their present trend nobody need be surprised to wake up November 9 and find that Bowerman has received about as large a plurality of the votes for Governor as that other Eastern Oregon patriot, W. J. Furnish, received eight years ago. Eastern Oregon gubernatorial candidates have the unhappy habit of falling just outside the breastworks.

Jonathan Bourne is circulating a little document among the innocent country editors of the state calling attention to the fact that the total of his campaign expenses this season is the sum of $20. If that is all Jonathan spent, and all Jonathan needs to spend, 'twill be the cheapest return-ticket to Washington yet recorded.

Learning how to make a living and learning how to live are two very different matters, as Thoreau has said. Which science Americans have mastered most fully is an open question.

INDORSE F. M. SAXTON.

C. S. I. People Want Company to Get Busy or Quit.

At a meeting of the Water Users Association comprised of settlers upon the Columbia Southern segregation, held at Laidlaw on October 15th, the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, We, the Water Users Association of the Columbia Southern Irrigating Company's Segregation, believing Mr. F. M. Saxton, Water Superintendent of Division No. 2, to be an able, fair and efficient official, and in view of the fact that there is pending the adjudication of many important water right cases, not only in our section but in various places throughout this water district, cases that Mr. Saxton is now thoroughly informed on and if he is retained in his present office, can soon be adjudicated. But, if a new Water Superintendent is elected, we believe it will necessarily cause great delay of the pending cases, and possibly, because of lack of information concerning the water rights in litigation, a miscarriage of justice.

THEREFORE, We are unanimously resolved to support at the polls at the coming election, Mr. F. M. Saxton, and will do all that we can, fairly, to bring about his election to the office which he holds—Water Superintendent of Division No. 2.

In fairness to Mr. Saxton we add that this endorsement is unsolicited by him and is made without his knowledge.

F. H. DAYTON, Secretary Pro Tem.

The association also petitioned the State Land Board from granting to the Oregon, Washington & Idaho Finance Co., further extension of time before commencing active construction. The Board's most recent action in the case was an extension of time for such work to December 1st. The company early in the summer announced very extensive improvement plans and "immediate construction." Apparently the settlers now are weary of waiting and demand that either actual work be inaugurated or that the new organization "gets out of the manger and gives some one else a chance," as one of the leaders expressed it.

TUMALO HAPPENINGS.

TUMALO, Or., Oct. 24.—John H. Edwards was a caller at this place yesterday.

Ira E. Wimer and Charles Spaugb returned from Prineville Friday where they had been on business.

J. Riggs of Matoles passed here yesterday with a load of fine onions for the Bend market.

G. W. Wimer and sons have just finished baling hay on the Star ranch and are now baling hay for J. W. Barber. They will then move to Laidlaw and bale for Neal Ray and Mr. Sirey who have a large lot of hay.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Woolley were business visitors at Bend Saturday.

Several farmers of these parts are thinking of hauling hay to Bend and wondering if our County Court and Honorable County Commissioners will allow the Road Supervisors to do any work on the road between the Scoggin bill and Bend. Taxpayers are wondering why all their road money is being spent on roads that are of no benefit to these parts.
