FIRST-TRAIN CELEBRATION.

In another column of this issue is printed a letter to The Bend Bulletin from Dr. J. R. Booth, of Seattle, a property owner in Bend, and an ardent enthusiast over the Bend country. His suggestion in regard to a celebration when the first train arrives in Bend, is well worth considering, and is one that should be taken up immediately.

On September 16 the new Commercial Club was formally launched, thirty paid-up members being present at the meeting to assist in the organization of the Club. Three months have elapsed, and the Club, though paying rent for quarters for the past two months, has not as yet installed exhibits, or accomplished anything toward getting out a booklet of Bend's resources and prospects. What ails the Commercial Club? There are many people in Bend who would like to know.

Dr. Booth, though living at a distance from Bend, has here made a suggestion that, if carried out by the Commercial Club, the proper organization to arrange for such an event, will be the means of attracting a large number of settlers and investors to Bend. In all probability the Oregon Trunk Railway would give a cheap excursion rate to Bend, if approached, and would also advertise the excursion more extensively than any local advertising could be circulated.

True, a large number of people will not wait for the railroad to run schedule passenger trains to Bend, but there is a large number who would prefer to wait until the line was being operated through to Bend.

It is high time for someone to see that arrangements are made for a celebration when the trains are put on to Bend, even though the exact date is still a matter for argument.

WOODROW WILSON.

Although many of us may differ with Woodrow Wilson, the Governor-elect of New Jersey, in our political beliefs, yet there are but few who will dispute the fact that his ideas are worthy of serious consideration. In his address before the recent convocation of the House of Governors he stated his beliefs in regard to the legislative duties and responsibilities of a Governor. The accepted idea that a Governor should exist as a mere figure-head is disputed by him. He maintains that the state executive has the right of initiating legislation, where the members of the Legislature do not see fit to do so, and that it is his duty to see to it that some member does introduce such bills as should be enacted. In other words, a Governor should be the guardian of legislation.

With such an able and scholarly man in the gubernatorial chair of New Jersey, we may expect to hear of some warm discussions after Woodrow Wilson takes the oath of office.

TOWN BOOSTING.

While in Oregon recently, James J. Hill made two remarks that might well be considered by the commercial clubs of the state, in regard to the literature that they circulate. The first was, "Don't devote all your advertising space to boosting your town as the future metropolis of the state" and the second was "Advertise the resources of the adjacent territory, and get it settled up, and your town will be sure to enjoy the normal growth that it should."

It seems to be the accepted idea in all new western communities that the town can be boosted and developed without regard to the agricultural country adjacent. If a commercial club succeeds in getting settlers on all the available farming land about the town, and does all that it can to induce intensive cultivation, it will undoubtedly result in the building up of the town, and the growth will be normal—not of the mushroom kind that is so familiar to anyone who has watched the progress of new towns.

PLACE FOR COUNCIL MEETINGS.

Anyone who has ever attended a Council meeting will not dispute the fact that it is necessary to secure a larger room in which to hold the meetings. It has been the custom for some time to hold the meetings in the office of H. C. Ellis, who has kindly allowed the Council to use the room without cost.

It has been suggested by many that an arrangement be made whereby the Commercial Club room, formerly occupied by the Library, be used as a meeting place. This room, by the addition of a large table, would fill the needs of the Council, and incidentally would afford room for chairs for all who desire to attend Council meetings.

Some means should be procured whereby it will be impossible for outsiders to communicate with, or pass articles to, prisoners confined in the city jail. Yesterday an Austrian was fined $15, the maximum fine, upon being convicted of passing liquor to an inmate of the jail. If the city cannot afford to build a better jail, it should at least build a stockade of some sort about the present jail.

The ordinance passed by the Common Council last night to regulate the liquor traffic is published in another column. It is the duty of every voter to thoroughly understand the rules and regulations of this ordinance, so that he will be in a position to be a committee of one to see that all licensees live up to the terms of their agreements with the city.

Two tips given to the people of Oregon by James J. Hill recently are "Show what you have" and "don't rob the people." Many investors who travel into new countries would like to see the people accept these tips.

VIII.—The Up to Date Jeweler

THIS is the jeweler who needed some boots and shoes and wisely headed. What he was told by the shoe man's ad and went and bought the best he had and paid with the hardware merchant's bill. Which came from the furniture dealer's till. Where it went when the clothing dealer bought. From the dry goods man, which the butcher got. From the grocer who had settlement made. With the money the honest workman paid.

P.S.—The local dealer who's up to snuff will always advertise his stuff.
