VALE DOES'NT LIKE IT.

Some of the people of the Harney county seat are agitating the building of a road between Burns and Bend. Naturally the Burns agitators have many supporters at Bend in their scheme.  Burns people have visited Bend with the result that work is reported to have been started on that road.

The Burns agitators, in order to create sentiment against the Vale route, are scattering reports of bad roads over mountains, which with little work can be made into a splendid highway. In boosting for the Bend—Burns road they say nothing of the big desert that has to be traversed. For over thirty-five miles, beyond Burns, the county has not a drop of water. There is no grain or feed to be had. Freighters would have to haul enough water and grain to last an entire day. Is such a road feasible to heavily loaded freighting outfits? The desert is sandy, almost impassable, and yet they talk of the splendid proposition. Of course it is only a 'land boomer's scheme' of starting people to reach Burns and the interior by the way of Bend.

All these encouraging remarks concerning the new Bend—Burns road appear in the Malheur Enterprise of Vale, in its issue of April 15, prefacing an appeal for the improvement of the road between Vale and Burns. That Vale should welcome the building of the Bend—Burns route with little enthusiasm is but natural. But in its enterprising desire to slur the enterprise, the unhappy Malheur Enterprise rather wanders from the straight and narrow path of fairness and accuracy.

In the first place, Burns is not entirely to blame; for the "agitating," it is believed, commenced chiefly in Bend. Not only is "work reported to have been started" but work practically is completed; Vale would shut the stable door after the horse has departed. As to the alleged misleading statements of the "Burns agitators" concerning the unsatisfactory condition of the Burns—Vale route, and the excellence of the Burns—Bend road. Not only from Burns men, who perhaps might be prejudiced, but from many others familiar with the country, have come to Bend reports of the transportation difficulties encountered on the road from Burns to Vale. That there are numerous steep hills—by many termed mountains—that there is much rock and heavy mud, would seem unquestionable; that the route is far from good the Enterprise itself admits when it calls for improvement of the road and says "the job will be a big one."

"When a competitor knocks you, put him on your pay roll," is a good business axiom, for a "knocker" is a splendid advertiser. So Bend and Burns gratefully acknowledge the gratuitous publicity the Vale paper is giving the Bend—Burns road. Already numbers of travelers have made their way over the "sandy and almost impassable desert," not only safely, but with apparent comfort. It is interesting to note that hundreds of hard-headed settlers monthly are taking up homesteads on the "desert" and that all seem satisfied with what they find.

If the building of a splendid road, free from hills, from mud and from rocks, connecting Burns and the big Harney country with its most economical railroad outlet, be a "land boomer's scheme," as the Enterprise styles it, Bend pleads guilty to the charge. And Bend regrets that the Enterprise doesn't like it.

Looking for an efficient man for Secretary of State to succeed the late Frank W. Benson, Governor West appointed Ben W. Olcott of Crook County. Central Oregon thereby obtains representation at the State Capitol and its interests will no doubt be properly looked after. Mr. Olcott owns a ranch in the southeastern part of the county but has spent most of his time recently west of the mountains. Though a Republican, he was campaign manager last fall for Governor West, and his appointment is declared in some quarters to be a clever political trick.

At present the mail from Bend to Madras goes first to Shaniko, then to Portland and then to Madras. Undoubtedly the postal department has its troubles in adjusting service to the rapidly changing conditions in Central Oregon, but assuredly not even the most ardent admirer of red tape can congratulate it on any present efficiency.

ORDINANCE NO. 54.

An ordinance to provide for the licensing, regulating and restraining of wholesale liquor dealers to define what a wholesale liquor dealer is within the meaning of this ordinance and to provide punishment and penalties for the violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance.

SECTION I. A wholesale liquor dealer within the meaning of this ordinance is one who engages in the business of selling beer and malt beverages in quantities of one barrel or more and in selling wines, ciders, whiskey and spirituous liquors in quantities of five gallons or more.

SECTION II. No person or persons, firm or corporation shall within the corporate limits of the City of Bend, directly or indirectly in person or by another, sell, barter, give away or in any manner dispose of any beer or malt beverages in quantities of one barrel or more or any wines, ciders, whiskey or spirituous liquors in quantities of five gallons or more, without first obtaining a license therefor in the manner hereinafter provided and every person, firm or corporation to whom such license shall issue shall pay into the city treasury the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars per annum in advance.

SECTION III. No person, firm or corporation licensed under the provisions of this ordinance shall directly or indirectly, in person or by another, sell, barter, exchange or in any manner dispose of any beer or malt beverages in quantities less than one barrel, or any wines, ciders, whiskey or spirituous liquors in quantities less than five gallons.

SECTION IV. No person, firm or corporation licensed under the provisions of this ordinance shall directly or indirectly, in person or by another deliver or cause to be delivered to any purchaser or any person whatsoever any beer, malt beverages, wines, ciders, whiskey or spirituous liquors in any quantity less than that which they are authorized to sell under the provisions of this ordinance, or to allow or permit any purchaser or any person to drink any of the beer, malt beverages, wines, ciders, whiskey or spirituous liquors purchased from a licensee under this ordinance upon the premises covered by the license of such licensee.

SECTION V. Applications under this ordinance shall be addressed to the city council and specify the name of the applicant and the lot and block upon which the applicant proposes to carry on business. Before any license shall be effective the applicant shall file a surety bond in the penal sum of five hundred dollars running to the City of Bend and conditioned that the licensee shall not violate any of the provisions of this ordinance and such bond must be approved by the mayor before such license shall be effective.

SECTION VI. Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance, upon conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment in the city jail not exceeding twenty days or by both such fine and imprisonment. And in case any licensee under the provisions of this ordinance shall be found guilty of a violation hereof the council shall forthwith revoke the license of such licensee.

GREATER BEND'S GREATEST STORE.

OVERWHELMING CROWDS of eager buyers marked our opening day, and it is not by accident that we enjoyed such remarkable activity on that day. The substantial reason is that our line is booked upon reasonable prices, fresh, clean and up-to-date goods. It costs money to be behind the times. We will be adding to our line each day until we have completed our stock with every article of good eatables to meet the demand. Woman votes in some of the states and it is said she rules in all of them, so we cater to trade that influences all the buying. Nothing will appeal to a woman as quickly as a clean and neatly kept grocery store with a fresh and up-to-date stock to select from, and all of this we expect to have just as soon as conditions of freighting and rates will permit us. We will advertise our very low prices just as soon as we can make our stock more complete. Our terms are cash but our prices are the lowest and if you don't trade with us we both lose money.
