"The Store of Better Values." Bend, Oregon.

F. Milo Lobdell, formerly of Bend but now of Washington, D. C., has put in a bid for a painting contract with Uncle Sam in the Panama canal zone.

F. M. Marshall opened a barber shop next door to W. C. McCuiston's store Monday morning. This makes three tonsorial establishments in town now.

F. J. McCrickey and Charles Harris of Park Side, Saskatchewan, Canada, have come to Bend to look over the Central Oregon country with a view to locating.

The Fifth Grade baseball team of the Bend school will play the Fifth Grade nine from Prineville here Saturday afternoon. Everybody is requested by the boys to attend.

C. M. Richards left last Friday for a couple of weeks trip to Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, to interest people there in Bend projects. Mr. Richards will bring his family with him when he returns.

The Christian Endeavor Society will give an ice cream lawn party at the home of Mrs. L. D. Wiest Friday evening. Everybody is invited to attend, and a special welcome will be extended to strangers.

William Nye of The Dalles Optimist, wife and child are in Bend to spend several months, having arrived Monday. Mr. Nye came up especially on account of the recreational opportunities this place affords.

Antone Aune, his mother and sister returned Thursday from an extended trip to Portland and Puget Sound cities. While away Mrs. Aune received medical treatment and came back much improved in health.

Dr. W. T. Phy, formerly of Hot Lake, Oregon, wishes to announce his permanent location in Spokane, Washington, with offices in the Hutton Building. He will limit his work to surgery, office practice and consultation.

Work has been started on the tabernacle which the Methodists will build on their lot on Ohio street. Rev. W. L. Wilson, who is assisting with the building, says he expects to have the meeting place ready by the time for his next appointment here May 21.

Bend will send a large delegation to Madras tomorrow, the attraction being the Al G. Barnes circus. This is the first show of the kind to come into Central Oregon by rail. The Deschutes Railway is now in operation to Madras and will bring in the circus train tomorrow morning.

Millard Triplett has on exhibition at his store an interesting souvenir. It is a sheet of paper, in a frame, on which was written the first ordinance passed by the Bend Common Council. It was posted on the old city hall building and every word of writing has been faded out by the sunlight.

L. D. Kennedy has sold out his half interest in the firm of Thompson & Kennedy to E. M. Thompson, who will conduct the business for the present under the same firm name. Mr. Kennedy left today for Vancouver, B. C., where he will be connected with the Mason & Risch Piano Co., Ltd.

A. R. Dorris, recently appointed forest ranger, left this week for Fort Rock, which will be his headquarters. He was first appointed to the Pine mountain section but later transferred to District No. 6. Mrs. Dorris will spend several weeks visiting relatives at Hood River before going to Fort Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. W. Nixon of Seattle arrived in Bend last week to look over the Central Oregon country. They shipped their household goods, a team and wagon to Madras and drove in from there. After spending some time in this vicinity they intend to take a trip into Lake and Harney counties.

Postmaster F. O. Minor has received instructions from the Post-office Department to count every piece of mail passing through this office during May. This includes every class of mail and means a great deal of extra work. Mr. Minor says he has had no advice as to the reasons for the count. The order seems to be general as postmasters in other Oregon towns have received similar instructions.

F. C. W. Parker of Portland, state secretary of the Baptist State Convention, spoke here Sunday night and again Monday evening. He and Rev. C. M. Cline spoke at Redmond Sunday morning and afternoon and then came up here by auto. This is Mr. Parker's first visit to Bend and he said that he was greatly pleased with the town.

The freshest eggs, butter and vegetables arrive daily.—W. C. McCuiston Co.

WILLING TO LEND.

Only Her Husband, the Mean Thing, Had Pinched Her Waist!

Men have something to learn from women in the art of warding off "touchers" for coin. Women respond to such requests once in about every thousand cases, but they are scientific in their refusal. A Cleveland woman with a reputation as a borrower turned up at the home of one of her friends the other morning with a much done over story about a persistent and threatening dressmaker and the usual request for the loan—"pay it back to-morrow, certain"—of $5.

"Why, my dear, certainly," was the pleasant response to her carefully rehearsed little yarn, "you poor thing, you! Just wait till I run upstairs and get my purse."

She ran upstairs. The male head of the house happened to be in the room where she kept her purse. He saw her dig the purse out of a chiffonier drawer and deliberately remove a wad of bills from it, leaving about 37 cents in silver and copper in the change receptacle. The man was mean enough to lean over the stair railing when his wife went downstairs to the parlor with her fattened pocketbook in her hand.

"Oh, I'm so sorry, dearie," he heard her say, "but I really thought I had the money. I find, though, that Frank, as usual, has been at my purse—I heard him say something about settling a plumber's bill last night when I was half asleep—and the mean thing has left me only enough for car fare. Too bad! Of course, you know, if I had it"—and so on.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CURIOUS BLUNDERS.

The Anachronisms That Crowded a Once Famous Poem.

The medieval romances are full of blunders, making contemporaries of men who were separated sometimes by hundreds, sometimes by thousands, of years, but as historical criticism had not then a being and the general information of the age was not superior in any particular to that of the novelist their plans do not amount to much from a literary point of view. Such an instance is the case of Ariosto, who might be supposed to know something at least of the truth of history, but whose once famous poem, "Orlando Furioso," is a tissue of historical absurdities from beginning to end.

In this poem Charlemagne and his peers are joined by Edward I. of England, Richard, earl of Warwick; Clarence and the Dukes of York and Gloucester; cannon are employed hundreds of years before the time of Monk Schwartz, and the Moors are represented as established in Spain in spite of the historic fact that 300 years elapsed before they crossed from Africa. In one place Prester John, who lived 400 years after Charlemagne, and Constantine the Great, who died five centuries before him, are introduced and hold familiar converse with the great Charles, while in another Saladin and Edward the Confessor are joined by the Black Prince.

Audubon and His Hair.

Audubon, the great naturalist, early in his career wore his hair very long. He wrote in his diary one day: "I wear my hair as long as usual. I believe it does as much for me as my paintings." However, in 1827 his friends succeeded in persuading him to get his hair cut according to the prevailing fashion. On March 19 of that year he wrote in his diary: "This day my hair sacrificed and the will of God usurped by the wishes of man. As the barber clipped my locks rapidly it reminded me of the horrible times of the French revolution when the same operation was performed upon all the victims murdered by the guillotine. My heart sank low." Further to express his grief, the margin of the page on which this entry was made he painted black about three-quarters of an inch deep all around.

Still Wondering.

The deaf man got out of the tram-car on to the other line of rails. "Look out! There's a car coming!" cried the conductor. "What?" said the deaf man. "There's a car coming." "What?" "Just then the car caught and knocked down the deaf man, and as he picked himself up he said: "I wonder what that fool kept me there talking about!"—London Mail.

Just the Opposite.

An Irishman at a fair got poked in the eye with a stick and took proceedings against the offender. Said the magistrate, "Come, now, you don't really believe he meant to put your eye out." "Faith, you're right this time," said Pat. "for I believe he tried to put it farther in."—London Tit-Bits.

Geo. W. McMillan's Life Insurance Policy in Oregon Life

On March 31, 1911, Mr. Geo. W. McMillan, President of the McMillan Grain Company, was examined for life insurance by Oregon Life. He passed a first-class examination.

In settlement of the first year's premium the soliciting agent accepted a note payable in thirty days.

In due course of business the policy was issued and sent by registered mail to Mr. McMillan on Friday, April 7, 1911, at 6:15 P. M.

On Friday, April 7, at 6:10 P. M., Mr. McMillan was accidentally killed by being run over by a freight train, a short distance from his place of business.

On Sunday, April 9, funeral services over the remains of Mr. McMillan were held.

On Monday, April 10, a check for $5000.00, the full amount of his policy in Oregon Life, was paid to the widow.

Mr. McMillan carried insurance in six other companies, and they will undoubtedly in course of time pay the respective amounts due on their policies, but Oregon Life Insurance Company, as always, was first to pay.
