Oh How Delicious!

THE most refreshing drink, the best of all spring tonics and the purest beverage obtainable, is

BUDWEISER BEER

The Silvertooth Saloon is the best place in Central Oregon to buy beer. Our private cold storage plant, soon to be erected in Bend, will give us every facility for properly handling beer. At Portland the beer will be loaded into refrigerator cars direct from the cold storage, and hauled to Bend and placed in our cold storage without being allowed to vary one degree in temperature. Any expert chemist will tell you that this is the only way to keep beer RIGHT. And that's the way you want it, of course. If our schooners aren't large enough, we'll put a handle on a keg for you. Yours to please,

DEFENDANTS WIN

TRUE BILL IN ONLY ONE BEND CASE

Grand Jury Finds Actions Appealed From Justice Courts Here Not Worthy of Higher Court's Attention.

Defendants from Bend fared well last week in the court proceedings at Prineville, the grand jury returning a true bill in only one case which was appealed from justice courts here. This exception was the case of Gus Zulaney, who pleaded guilty to shooting in a saloon and was fined $150.

The most important case on the docket was that of Henry Linster vs. H. J. Overturf, alleging deception in the sale of real estate. Damages to the amount of $7000 were claimed. As reported last week, the decision was for the defendant. Mr. Linster was represented by Jesse L. Sumrall and J. A. Wilson and Mr. Overturf by Vernon A. Forbes.

The suit of Jennie Fuller vs. M. J. Morrison and H. P. J. McDonald, for return of purchase money paid on Lytle property, was dismissed. Vernon A. Forbes was attorney for the defendants.

The demurrer of the Oregon Trunk Railway in the case brought against it by A. A. Anthony and Mary Kelly asking for an injunction to stop the building of a spur in Lytle was sustained on the ground of misjoinder of parties and the plaintiffs were allowed to amend by filing separate actions. C. S. Benson was attorney for the plaintiffs.

"FREEZE" AND "BURN."

These Two Words Had a Common Parent in One Aryan Root

We are likely to consider "freeze" and "burn" as two distinctly opposite effects, but if, for a simple experiment, you will touch your tongue to a bit of heated iron and to a bit of iron that is extremely cold the effects, as shown in the blisters produced and in the sensation of the contacts, will be found to be surprisingly alike.

It is doubtful if our Aryan ancestors when they were planting the seed of the English and its sister languages thought of the scientific relations of what we call heat and cold, but they gave to us the root "prus," which they got out of the sensations produced by burning and freezing. As usual, Aryan roots beginning with the "p" sound change it to "f" on the tongues of the Teuton; so with these our more modern ancestors "prus" became "frus," and from it came our "freeze" and "frost." Again, as is usual, our Hindu brother in his Sanskrit usually preserves the Aryan "p" sound, so he has from this root "prush," meaning to burn.

This root of freeze became "frosan" in Anglo-Saxon, which is our "frozen." In Icelandic it became "frjosa," in Swedish "frysa" and in Danish "fryse." In the Latin the original "p" sound is retained in "pruna," meaning hoarfrost, and in "pruna," signifying a burning coal. Here we see united two apparently opposite meanings growing out of the old root "prus."—New York Herald.

AFRICAN LIONS.

They Often Hunt in Couples to Start and Capture Their Prey.

Lions in Africa go hunting often in couples and then rather systematically. When, for instance, a couple of lions have traced out a kranal—that is to say, a place fenced by small cut thorn trees, where flocks of asses or oxen, goats or sheep are shut up for the night—the lioness approaches cautiously, probing by every tree or bush to hide herself. At the same time the lion himself lies watching on the opposite in the distance.

Now the lioness exerts herself to arouse the cattle—which is not difficult, as they become excited merely by smelling a beast of prey—till the cattle are tormented to the utmost by fear and horror, break through the kranal on the side opposite to the lioness and thus fall an easy prey to the lion.

The lion chases his victim and throttles it by springing on its neck or breast and biting his teeth into its part. The hunted animal falls, and the lion now tears open the flanks. The lioness appears and has her share of the meal. Very often they cannot devour their victim in one night; then they come back to the place where the remains are on the following or the second night.

The lion's favorite food is zebra, quagga (of which there are few left in Africa) and wild ass. The meat of these three kind of animals is something alike in taste.

English Clay Pipes.
The clay pipe, which is vanishing from the first street chophouse, was the only variety smoked in this country until quite recent times. The clay pipe made its appearance in England in the later years of the sixteenth century. Writing about a century later, a French author remarks that the English "invented the pipes of baked clay which are now used everywhere."

"Brosley, in Staffordshire, has been famous for its pipes and clay from the days of Elizabeth," writes W. A. Penn in "The Sovereign Herb." "Now all the clay of which white pipes are manufactured comes from Newton Abbot and Kingsteignton, in Devonshire. It is sent to all parts of England and the world in rough lumps about the size of quarteren loaves, weighing some twenty-eight pounds each."—London Spectator.

A Heartless Interruption.
A young Parisian, noted for his grace and readiness as a second in many duels, was asked by a friend to accompany him to the mayor's office to affix his signature as a witness to the matrimonial registry. He consented, but when the scene was reached forgot himself. Just as the mayor was ready for the last formalities he broke out: "Gentlemen, cannot this affair be arranged? Is there no way of preventing this sad occurrence?"

Plain Hunger.
"Doctor, what disease is the most prevalent among the poor?"
"An alarming condition in which the nerve terminations in the stomach stimulated by accumulated secretions of the gastric glands send irritations to the spinal cord by way of the pneumogastric nerve."
"Goodness! How awful! And to think that we rich people can do nothing for those unfortunate sufferers!"—Cleveland Leader.

Out of the Question.
Geraldine—What did you say when you asked him for my hand?
Gerald—I don't care to give his remarks in detail, but I couldn't marry you if I went where he told me to.—New York Press.

How to Make Grape Catchup.
For grape catchup allow a pound of sugar to five pounds of the fruit. Boil the sugar in a cupful of vinegar for a quarter of an hour with half an ounce each of cloves, mace and cinnamon. Meanwhile bring the pulp and skins of the grapes to a scalding point, cool and rub them through a sieve. Add the pulp to the vinegar and cook for twenty minutes. If the catchup is too thick it may be reduced with vinegar.

How to Save Hoss.
A piece of very fine, soft chamois fitted and sewed into the heels and toes of a pair of hose will save many a weary housewife from hours of mending.
