IMPERTINENT QUESTION NO. 3

It is practically certain that the body of Mrs. McGrath is in the Deschutes River. Are the county officials willing to let it remain there indefinitely, or will official action be taken toward its recovery?

A COMMENDABLE PETITION.

The petition to the County Court whose text is published elsewhere in this paper is one that should, and undoubtedly will, receive the hearty support of voters throughout the county. Now that the Portland Commercial Club and the two interested railroads have come to the front with an offer to contribute two thirds of the amount required to install and support two agricultural experiment stations and a number of co-operative sub-stations, Crook County most assuredly should show its interest in the enterprise and willingness to support it.

Harney County, which recently has inaugurated this important development feature, is blazing the educational trail with splendid generosity. That enterprising, if isolated "cow county" started the good work with a contribution of $20,000. And now Crook County, with two outside interests bearing the brunt of the expense, is called upon to contribute but $3,000. The railroads are vitally concerned, as are the Portland business interests. The Oregon Agricultural College has signified its willingness and desire to direct the excellent enterprise. The Central Oregon Development League has gone on record as being unqualifiedly in favor of the scheme. Experience wherever it has been tried has demonstrated the value and entire efficiency of the plan. And now the best, simplest and fairest method of raising the necessary funds is proposed. Let every one put his shoulder to the wheel and rush this thing through; for if possible the work should be under way this season.

MAKING CHARTERS.

"Make haste slowly" is an excellent motto to apply to the manufacture of city charters. The results of uncautious action in charter making and in the methods of conducting city elections, is strikingly evidenced near home by the unfortunate tangles that are confronting both Redmond and Madras at this time.

At Redmond procedure in the installation of municipal water works is at a halt because at the last minute, when the local promoters of the commendable undertaking thought they were out of the woods, the bonding house which was to have taken the $25,000 bond issue refused to "come through" on account of an irregularity in the election. There a new election, irksome delay and unnecessary expense and complications are resulting from ill-advised procedure. At Madras an almost identical condition exists, defects in the methods of the adoption of the city charter probably having to be mended by a new election.

All of which makes admirable illustration of the fact that Bend is acting wisely in taking her proposed charter to an experienced charter-doctor, to receive his diagnosis and treatment before its presentation to the voters. It may cost a little, but now is the time to produce a charter free from legal defects, so that later, when bond issues may become desirable, there need be no hitch.

August is the month of months for camping and picnic parties. The Deschutes will be "crowded" with vacationists from Bend to Crane Prairie. And how will the trip-makers leave the scene of their play? It certainly is to be hoped that all will realize the importance of "cleaning house" after them; it is so very easy to burn up the papers and trash and to bury or hide away the tin cans, thus leaving pleasant camping places for the next comers or a revisitation of the first campers. Just at present careless campers and picnickers have left scores of spots along the river looking like miniature Coney Islands, with cracker boxes, plates, tin cans and other unsightly and unnecessary odds and ends strewn broadcast.

THE GHOST OF THE PAST.

It Rose Up to Taunt and Haunt the Poor Human Derelict.

The small crowd of grimy loafers lounged weakly in the little circle of light from the fitfully flickering lamp about the door. Two or three of them were leaning against a many colored poster, almost unreadable in the gloom. The door swung open—it was never shut—and a dapper figure in a red jersey and peaked cap of the Salvation Army appeared with a cheery greeting:

"Come in, men; come in. Fine treat tonight; splendid gramophone; all the latest from the music halls. Come on in."

One by one they went. Comic songs and Sousa marches rang nasally through the hall. Then the cheery voice was heard again:

"Now for some grand opera, gentlemen."

One living derelict who had subsided silently after his arrival from the public house roused himself at the words. "Opera—grand opera," he muttered hastily.

The familiar whirr of the gramophone began again, and then a voice from the aluminum horns announced: "Song from 'I Pagliacci,' by Pompey Carlyle, the famous tenor of grand opera." As the name of the singer was announced the ragged wail stiffened upright where he sat. Then as the first notes rang out his face held all the agony of a lost soul. Straight to his feet he bounded; then, with a cry, "Stop it, for heaven's sake stop it!" and with grimy hands pressed over his face he rushed from the hall, followed by a storm of abuse.

"What's the matter?" queried the commissioner.

"Queer bloke," answered another wail, still gasping from an attack of coughing which had torn his frail body. "Stings outside puts. Used to be in hopes 'iself. Boose done it." "What do you call him?" "Pompey Carlyle." "Heavens, it was his own song he beard!"—London Tit-Bits.

TOBACCO CHEFS.

Experts That Make Sauces For Flavoring the Different Brands.

"I am a tobacco chef," said the sallow man. "I make the sauces that give us smoking or chewing tobacco as a food chef makes the sauces which give us sole Colbert or poulet creole. "Take this dark, sweet, juicy plug of 'nary brown,' so popular among the more prosperous type of teamsters. Well, the flavor of this plug is due to a sauce made of sugar, licorice, whisky and honey."

"Here is a mild, cool pipe tobacco that college boys favor. Smell it. Very aromatic, eh? Well, it has been steeped in a sauce composed of the essential oils of citronella, bergamot and cassia."

"But it is when you come to the high grade Havana cigar, the cigar that sells for 40 or 50 cents, that you see the tobacco chef at his best. He doesn't make his sauces then of such common ingredients as sugar, bergamot, licorice and so forth. No, he makes them of bacteria. The flavors of the high grade Havana tobaccos depend, you see, entirely on their ferments. Each tobacco undergoes a different fermentation, and here the chef comes in, applying the bacteria of years which cause these fermentations to the leaf."

"Yes, the tobacco chef of the highest type, the one who ferments Havana tobacco, handles the various breeds of bacteria as an ordinary chef handles pepper and salt, mustard and cloves and mace."—Buffalo Express.

Giving Him Encouragement.

"I am going to ask your father for your hand." "Oh, that will be lovely!" "You are glad?" "Delighted! I will call and bring you flowers every day until you are able to be out again. I have never seen the inside of a hospital."—Homes ton Post.

A Loophole Open.

"You're a fraud, sir," cried the indignant patient. "You guaranteed your medicine to cure after everything else failed, and—"

"Well, my dear sir," replied the fake medicine man, "probably you haven't tried everything else."—Pittsburp Press.

GOOD VENTILATION.

It Possesses an Actual Cash Value in the Workshop.

That proper ventilation in factories has an actual cash value has been well illustrated in the case of a firm of shirt and collar manufacturers in Berlin, Ont., where the following results have been obtained from four years' attention to the material welfare of the workers:

The amount of business made was doubled, wages increased 50 per cent, by cutting out "contingent help" the number of employees was reduced 20 per cent, the absences on account of sickness were reduced one third. To the firm this meant that 430 employees did 80 per cent more work in one year than was accomplished by 522 employees in a similar period four years previous. To the workers it meant that 430 of them earned in twelve months $28,000 more than 522 did during a previous twelve months.

Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology made a study of the amount of illness prevailing among the female operators in the telephone central at Cambridge, Mass., before and after the installation of a system of artificial ventilation. The figures obtained by him show that during the two winters preceding the change, when doors and windows had to be kept closed, on the average about one girl in twenty was absent daily because of illness. During the corresponding months of the following year, when the ventilation had been materially improved only one girl in fifty was absent from duty each day.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.
