WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 13, 1911

Now we'll all pull together for the big Railroad Day celebration.

A Chicago woman who was a party to a divorce suit said that her face powder cost $400 a year. She must have lots of "cheek."

During the absence of G. P. Putnam, The Bulletin will be conducted by U. N. Hoffman, who has had active charge of its operation for the past three months.

It's pretty safe to wager that the man (or woman either) who boasts that he has come back from his summer vacation with $20 or $25 in his pocket never went on a vacation.

At a meeting of women in an Ohio town the other day, the question was propounded, "What is a highball?" From what we have heard, it is a pleasant concoction for promoting a high old time.

Here's a problem for the mathe-matician: If President Taft makes 200 speeches on his trip to the Pacific Coast this fall, how many would William Jennings Bryan have made had he been elected President?

The feat of swimming across the English Channel was accomplished last week by W. T. Burgess, after he had failed 15 times. Such pluck and perseverance are bound to bring success whatever the undertaking be.

The Bulletin is this week able to promise its readers something very entertaining in the near future.
This will be one issue of this paper got out entirely by the women of Bend. The Ladies' Library Club will have complete charge for one week, writing all the editorial and news matter, soliciting the advertising, looking after the circulation, etc. The profits resulting from their labors will be devoted entirely to the benefit of the Bend Public Library. The date of this interesting number will be announced later, together with more details. Watch for the women's issue of The Bulletin.

Since the actual coming of the railroads has put Bend out of the paper road-building class, Vale easily holds the catch-as-catch-can railroad building record in the Northwest. Scarcely a week goes by—unless its editor happens to be too busy to give the matter attention—but that the Malheur Enterprise of Vale manages to "start construction" on some railroad or other through or from or to that enterprising town. And the Burns papers, with commendable persistency, almost always echo the good tidings. Go to it, gentlemen, and may all the railroads you build materialize; Oregon needs them.

Governor West's action in re-prieving Murderer Webb was ill advised. To let a man go to the gallows when a word would save him is a dreadful duty; to do so in the face of pitiful pleading, in which one's own child joins, is more difficult. Yet Webb is guilty of an atrocious murder; he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. If Oregon is to retain capital punishment, the sentence of the courts must be enforced. If Oregon does not want such punishment for its murderers, well and good. But pity, pleading, prayers and poetry should have no place in the administration of justice as ordained by the state's law. If the law is to stand, it must be enforced. If it remains without enforcement, it becomes a grotesque mockery.

Heard Here and There

A swarm of butterflies migrating south last week was so dense near Silver Lake that they obscured the sun, stopped automobiles and drove range riders from the trail.

In Denver, Colorado, where equal suffrage prevails, it has become necessary for a special man "flirt cop" to be appointed to protect the men from flirtatious females.

Uhlman Bros. of Scappoose, Ore., have announced that they will start a creamery at La Pine next spring, says the La Pine Intermountain.

Hunters report game much more plentiful in the reserves of Central Oregon this year than last.

J. N. Williamson of Prineville shipped a trainload of sheep to the Eastern markets last week as an experiment, believing he could get better prices than at Portland.

A. C. Lucas has bought the half interest of John Taggart in the Palace Restaurant, hotel and corner store. The firm name will remain J. F. Taggart & Co. Mr. and Mrs.
Taggart and Miss Tot left Tuesday for Portland and Long Beach, Cal.
They will make their home at the latter place. Miss Tot will spend the winter in Portland with her sister.

Miss Mary Lilly of Cle Elum, Wash., who filed on a homestead near Whitaker last spring, was married on August 30 at Spokane, Wash., to W. E. Roberts, a wheat rancher of Eastern Washington.
They will be at home at Whitaker after October 1.

J. E. Morson of the Deschutes Land Co. was a Bend visitor Saturday. Mr. Morson formerly divided his time between his Portland and La Pine offices but is now at La Pine all the time looking after the canal construction work.

PRESIDENT ELIOT ON COMMISSION PLAN.

What Famous Educator Found on a Visit to Texas.

A few years ago Dr. Charles W.
Eliot, former president of Harvard, made a trip through the south and west. "In discussing at home the question of municipal government," said he, "I found it necessary to acquaint myself with the new city charters which have been issued by legislatures in Texas, Iowa and Massachusetts, and then I wanted to get more than a reading knowledge of those charters. So I have been to Texas and have seen the men administering the new governments there.

"There is a longer experience of commission government in Texas than anywhere else. In Galveston the new charter has been in operation eight years, and I must say that the results there are extraordinarily favorable.
The pecuniary results are remarkable.
"What the city of Galveston has accomplished in eight years under a commission of five men is little short of marvelous.

"Now, as to continuity in the membership of the commission, the citizens have kept every man steadily serving on that commission, except that the first mayor died and was replaced by another respected citizen. That is the only change in the commission for eight years. The people have been so supremely content that there has never been any question of change.

"Cross to Houston for a moment.
There they have not had quite such an experience of continuity, because one member elected at first has been replaced at a second election, and one other member, though his continued service was much desired by his colleagues, was replaced by the popular vote.

"As to pecuniary results in Houston, they actually reduced the tax rate without altering the valuation. They then built four large brick schoolhouses out of the city's annual receipts; they paved streets at a great rate in the outskirts of the city in order that the extension of the city might be favorably made, and this paving is being continued in every direction.

"The city sets the curbstones, paves the streets and puts in the sewers and asks nothing whatever of the abutters except that each shall build a grand-ditch sidewalk in front of his premises.
I asked members of the commission how it was possible to meet such heavy expenses, and the reply was, 'We save so much on the former expenditures of the city' I asked what they meant by saving and they said that they thought they got as much now for 50 cents of expenditure as the city had formerly got for $1.

"The pecuniary results at Houston are the most striking among the Texan cities outside of Galveston. But here has been a similar experience at Dallas. The city is growing rapidly, and all the municipal work seems to be done with economy. The people are so well satisfied that when it came time to have another election of the commission no available citizen would run against the commission, and all five members are therefore to be re-elected."

Musical Sounds and Noises.

It is a curious fact that musical sounds fly farther and are heard at a greater distance than those which are more loud and noisy. If we go on the outside of a town during a fair at the distance of a mile we hear the musical instruments, but the din of the multitude, which is so overpowering in the place, can scarcely be heard, the noise dying on the spot. To those who are conversant with the power of musical instruments the following observations will be understood: The violins made at Cremona about the year 1600 are superior in tone to any of a later date, age seeming to dispossess them of their noisy qualities and leaving nothing but the pure tone. If a modern violin is played by the side of one of those instruments it will appear much the louder of the two, but on receding a hundred paces when compared with the Cremona it will scarcely be heard.
—London Globe.

The Nebular Hypothesis.

The nebular hypothesis is the name generally given to the theory put forth by the celebrated Laplace in "Systeme du Monde" in the year 1796. His idea was that the solar system was evolved mechanically from a vast diffused revolving nebula, and that nebulae were the early stages in the formation of planets and their satellites in cooling condensation and contraction, according to certain laws of mathematics.
This theory was accepted by Sir William Herschel and, though at first but terry opposed in many quarters, is now generally accepted by astronomers and scholars and is taught in most schools and colleges. —New York American.

Where Is Bend, Oregon?

That is the question you hear on the streets of EVERY CITY and TOWN of the North-West today.

Bend is in Central Oregon

That vast area which for the last FIFTY YEARS has been awaiting the coming of Railways, and which the Hill and Harriman Railroad systems SPED OUT FIVE YEARS AGO. And since then they have spent over

TWENTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Constructing Railroads up the Deschutes Valley to reach BEND.

BEND is the geographical center of a farming area larger than any three New England states, rich in resources of timber, farming lands, water power, grazing lands and climatic conditions which, if supplied with railway facilities, would attract the people, develop the resources and pay big dividends on the millions invested.

The railroads are now almost completed. The first passenger train will reach BEND by October 15th or sooner.

ALL AROUND BEND

Hill saw the Wheat Fields of Minnesota. Hill saw the Pine Forests of Michigan.
Hill saw the Water Power of Niagara. Hill saw the Irrigated Lands of Washington.
And, with the Harriman System, has built two railways from the Columbia River up the Deschutes Valley to reach Bend. Other shrewd investors saw the possibilities of Bend and have invested heavily there. "Twas ever thus and always will be.
When railroads penetrate a new section of the country, real estate values go steadily upwards and fortunes are made from insignificant investments.

BUY NOW IN BEND.

In a few years you can retire and live on the income from your small investment.
It does not require much money to buy NOW, as we are selling close-in residence and business lots, 50x140, on 80-foot streets, within four blocks of the union depot site, at an average price of only $25 CASH $200 $10 Per Month

Seattle, Portland, Spokane, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Denver, and scores of other large cities furnished just such a precedent as will be repeated in Bend within five years or less. Now if you think it would be safe to follow the lead of Hill and Harriman, two years after they have blazed the trail—after they have spent over twenty million dollars in the Bend Country—by putting a small amount into real estate in a town that has a better prospect today than any town in the United States had at the arrival of its first railroad, come to our office in Bend and put your judgment into action. Free maps and photographs of Bend and Central Oregon upon request. We furnish free a certified abstract to each purchaser.
