SETTLE UP LAND

HOMESTEADERS TO SOUTHEAST BUSY

Plenty of Rain This Fall Puts Ground in Good Condition for Sowing Grain—New Road Being Built to Ranch of W. W. Brown, the Stockman

HELD, Oct. 20—There is quite a settlement in this part of the county, a large part of the land having been taken up by homesteaders who have established their residence here. They are busy this fall clearing off the sagebrush and plowing and will have a large acreage in cultivation next year.

Sam Samson, formerly of Tacoma, who has been here for nearly two years, has had his land all fenced and considerable of it plowed. He is seeding it this fall to wheat and rye.

Nels Kins, an old settler, has recently bought the S. E. Star ranch, some 800 acres, and has a 320-acre homestead adjoining it. He also has a 40-acre desert land entry. He raised some fine potatoes and other vegetables this year, as well as excellent wheat which would have threshed nearly 40 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Bennett and son from Idaho have taken up their residence on their claims.

Neal Thomas has just finished digging a well. He struck water at 26 feet and went down to 30 feet, now having plenty of good water. The well is near the Bend-Burns road, three miles east of John Smearas.

H. A. Snyder is working at the sawmill at Maury mountain.

The county engineers were at work two weeks surveying a road from Buck Creek to W. W. Brown's ranch on Camp Creek. Mr. Brown now has men and several teams building the road.

Township 20 south, range 20 east, is pretty well settled up and will make a good showing next year. There have been several good rains this fall and the ground is in fine condition for seeding grain.

POWELL BUTTE ITEMS.

POWELL BUTTE, Oct. 19—Harvesting and threshing are in full blast now. C. H. Foster will be kept busy with his steam thresher until well in the winter.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Archer, a 10-pound boy.

Mrs. A. D. Morrill, Mrs. J. P. Bowman and children and Miss Bertha Babbitt have returned from their visit to North Yakima, Wash.

Jim Griffin is improving his homestead by building a brick cistern. J. D. Davidson, A. D. Morrill and W. J. Galbraith will also build large cisterns on their ranches this fall.

BRUIN'S BANQUET.

It Was Long Drawn Out and Only Whetted His Appetite.

THE FINISH WAS EXCITING.

After the Pork Courses Gave Out a Dessert of Cold Lead Ended the Feast, and the Unwilling Host Vowed Never Again to Fool With a Bear.

A teamster in the employ of one of the big tanneries in the west had a laughable yet trying adventure with a bear while on his way from the woods with a load of bark. As he emerged from the woods with his team he stopped to give the mules a breathing spell and to eat his dinner, which he carried in a tin bucket. He had scarcely opened his bucket and begun to eat when a bear came out of the woods on one side of the road, only two or three rods in the rear of the wagon. Bruin sauntered along, paying no attention to the team, but the teamster, desirous of seeing what the bear would do, threw a bit of salt pork in his way. The bear stopped, smelled at the pork and gulped it down greedily. Then the animal, noting the source of the morsel, came toward the wagon and rose on his haunches as if to say that another bit of pork would prove acceptable.

The teamster laughed and tossed out a second piece, which Bruin devoured, and then he posed again. But the teamster wanted the rest of his dinner himself and paid no attention to the shaggy intruder. The beggar, seeing that the teamster was no longer aware of his presence, snorted sharply two or three times and walked back and forth across the road as if reconnoitering the situation. Presently he growled, but the teamster, thinking that the bear would go away if he got nothing further, continued his meal.

The bear ventured near and finally climbed up the load of bark at the hind end of the wagon. The man was unpleasantly surprised at this movement of Bruin's, as he was wholly unarmed.

Accordingly he threw a bit of pork into the road, at the same time yelling to the bear to direct its attention to the meat. The bear dropped down and went and picked it up, but as soon as it was swallowed and there was no more forthcoming he made another charge upon the wagon.

The teamster started the mules onward, but knew that he could not hope to escape with his heavy load of bark. An idea struck him. He would coax the bear on by feeding the lunch to him until they should come to a friend's house a mile or two along the road. Then he would get a gun and shoot the old fellow.

The teamster sat on the bark, facing backward, his big dinner bucket at hand. When the bear came up with the wagon and threatened to climb upon the load the teamster tossed out a piece of pork. The supply of this edible was limited, so he tossed the best a slice of bread, which fell butter side up. Bruin nosed it, then licked the butter off and left it.

The next slice fell butter side down, and the bear ignored it. Baked eggs and cheese fared the same. Bruin wanted pork. The teamster dealt this out in small bits, which failed to satisfy, and the bear was growing ugly and aggressive.

At length the teamster saw his friend at work in a field and called to him to run for his gun. The man seemed to realize the state of the case and set off on a dead run for his house, a quarter of a mile distant. But the supply of pork was out before he returned, and the poor teamster was in a sorry plight.

The bear climbed upon the load. The teamster tossed him the last piece of pork and then jumped from his wagon and tore down the road. Bruin, probably thinking that the teamster was fleeing with a stock of coveted pork, started after him. The terrified man had a fair start, but he stumbled over a stone and fell full length, and the bear was close upon him when there came the loud report of a gun.

The friend had come at last. The teamster rose and looked round. There lay his late pursuer in the road, dead. The teamster declared that never again would he fool with a bear.—Harper's Weekly.

They Bumped.

A true happening which has been made the subject of a cartoon occurred at a fashionable golf club near London. A young man interested in golf solely for the sake of the social atmosphere one day decided to play a round. So he sauntered leisurely down to the caddy house, where he met a certain peppery lord. Not knowing the gentleman and barely looking at him, the somewhat foppish youth asked, "Are you the caddy master here?" Without an instant's hesitation Lord — replied, "No, I am not, but I happen to know that he is not in need of any caddies this afternoon." It was some time before either recovered.—Boston Transcript.

Tongue Could Tell.

"Last night, George, you told me you loved me more than tongue could tell, and, oh, George, that wasn't true!" "Why, darling, what do you mean?" "I mean that it wasn't more than my little brother's tongue could tell. He heard it all!"

All patterns are sure to be followed more than good rules.—Locke.
