COUNCIL MEETS

QUORUM OBTAINED ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Two Arc Lights Ordered Installed Near the Depot and Sidewalks Lending Thereto Built—Month's Bills Amount to Over a $1000

With a quorum present, the City Council held its regular November meeting Thursday night. All were present except Councilman Kelley. Bills totaling $1026.57 were allowed and warrants ordered drawn. A large part of this amount was for the building of sidewalks for which the city will be reimbursed by the owners of property in front of which the walks were constructed. The council recognized the need of more lights near the depot by ordering an arc installed at Greenwood avenue and Fifth street (near the bridge) and another at Fifth and Fir avenue (at the stone depot.) The order for incandescents under the bridge was withdrawn. The unfinished sidewalks along streets leading to the depot were also ordered completed, the street committee being instructed to proceed with the building of all sidewalks which had been ordered in thirty days and not yet built by the property owners.

Councilman Sellers verbally reported that a short street had been opened from Wall street, beyond Linster's Hall, to the flour mill.

On motion of Mr. Sellers, the recorder was instructed to place liens against property where sidewalks had been built by the city and not paid for by the property owners.

The Bend Water, Light & Power Co. filed notice of its acceptance of the water and light franchises recently granted it.

W. P. Vandeventer filed a petition asking for the vacation of the plat of his property near the depot. The petition was laid over for consideration at the next meeting.

At the regular October meeting of the Council Kollock & Zollinger, attorneys of Portland, presented a bill for $250 for examining and criticizing a tentative draft of a city charter which the council instructed Mayor Coe to present to them for examination. The bill was not itemized and the ways and means committee reported unfavorably on it. It still remains unpaid and Thursday night the council instructed the recorder to write to the Portland firm and ask for an itemized bill and that the amount be reduced.

The reports of Policemen Roberts and Brown were read, accepted and ordered filed.

The council adjourned to meet tomorrow night to canvass the vote on the charter.

HUNTING TRUFFLES.

In France They Train Dogs to Find the Prized Plants.

Truffles, like mushrooms, belong to the family of the fungi, but are a distinct and very peculiar genus. They are cryptogamic plants and subterranean, their position underneath the soil varying from two to three inches to two feet in depth.

They have no root, stem or leaf and vary in color from light brown to black. They are sometimes globular in form and vary in size from that of a pecan nut to that of a duck's egg. Their surface is watery and covered with a skin. Their exact method of growth is not precisely known. They are, of course, regarded as a great luxury by the epicure.

Truffles are mentioned by Juvenal, Pliny, Plutarch and Martial. The Athenian epicures were acquainted with them, and a story is told of a bon vivant who freed a whole family of slaves who had invented a delicious method of preparing them.

France has the credit of producing the finest truffles. Dogs are commonly bred to search for them.

The method of "breaking" these dogs is to give them for a time pieces of truffles every morning before they are allowed to partake of any other food. After a certain period, when their appetite for truffles increases, pieces are hidden in the ground, and they are made to find them. Thus they are gradually taught their business, though it often takes as long as eighteen months before a dog becomes skilled in the art.

In some parts of France—Poltou and Perigord, for instance—pigs are trained for truffle hunting, and by some they are deemed to be better fitted for this work than dogs.—Harper's Weekly.

SHE WAS LOYAL.

Likewise Honest Enough to Tell Lincoln the Truth.

During the war between the states Miss N., a high spirited Virginia young lady, whose father, a Confederate soldier, had been taken prisoner by the Union forces, was desirous of obtaining a pass which would enable her to visit him. Francis P. Blair agreed to obtain an audience with the president, but warned his young and rather impulsive friend to be prudent and not betray her sympathy for the south. They were ushered into the presence of Mr. Lincoln, and the object for which they had come was stated. The tall, grave man bent down to the little maiden and, looking searchingly into her face, said:

"You are loyal, of course?"

Her bright eyes flashed. She hesitated a moment, and then, with a face eloquent with emotion and honest as his own, she replied:

"Yes, loyal to the heart's core—to Virginia!"

Mr. Lincoln kept his intent gaze upon her for a moment longer and then went to his desk, wrote a line or two and handed her the paper. With a bow the interview terminated. When they had left the room Mr. Blair began to upbraid his young friend for her impetuosity.

"Now you have done it!" he said. "Didn't I warn you to be very careful? You have only yourself to blame."

Miss N. made no reply, but opened the paper. It contained these words:

Pass Miss N. She is an honest girl and can be trusted.
A. LINCOLN.

What She Wanted.

They had been married but two months, and they loved each other devotedly. He was in the back yard blacking his shoes. "Jack," she called at the top of her voice, "Jack, come here, quick!"

He knew at once that she was in imminent danger. He grasped a stick and rushed up two flights of stairs to the rescue. He entered the room breathlessly and found her looking out of the window.

"Look," said she—"that's the kind of gown I want you to get me."—Harper's Magazine.

The Eyes of the Japanese.

A Japanese friend of mine once saw among my papers a picture of an English woman dressed in Japanese clothing.

"She is no Japanese," he said. "She is European."

"How do you know that?" I asked him. "Her costume is correct; her hair is straight; she has no ornaments."

"Yes," he replied, "but look at her eyes. Her eyes look out on the world as though she understood it. The Japanese woman never looks like that."

Light of the Firefly.

Professor McIntosh says that a temperature approaching 2,000 degrees F. would be necessary to make a light equivalent to that emitted by an ordinary firefly. The enormous waste of energy in all industrial methods of producing light is a matter of common knowledge, and the example of the firefly remains unlimited by man.—Argonaut.

Tastful.

"Johanna, please go to the pawnbroker's and pawn my gold watch. The poor man, I understand, is not getting much business, and I think we should help him along."—Fliegende Blätter.

Still Worse.

"Mrs. Fastleigh has given up cigarettes."
"Did the smoke make her ill?"
"No. The smoke made her dog ill."

KEPT TO THE POINT.

Interruptions Didn't Make Blaine Lose His Self Possession.

In his "Yesterday With the Fathers" Dr. William Willberforce Newton tells an incident which, fortunately escaping tragedy, serves nevertheless to illustrate the imperturbable self possession of a famous statesman.

Upon one occasion the Hon. James G. Blaine addressed a large concourse of people. There was a great wooden platform, on which were the speakers and the officers and a famous German band. I had been invited to make the opening prayer. After this Mr. Blaine began his address with the following sentence:

"I am opposed to the election of Samuel J. Tilden."

Just then some one in the crowd called out, "Hurrah for James G. Blaine!" and then a great ovation greeted the Republican leader. At its close Mr. Blaine began again by remarking:

"As I said a few moments ago, I am opposed to the election of Samuel J. Tilden."

Just then a terrible grinding, crushing, earthquake-like sensation was felt by all of us who were seated on the platform, and the entire staging went down with a rush. We were tumbled one over another, speakers, officers, German band and all, and for myself I felt as Korah, Dathan and Abiram probably felt when the earth opened and swallowed them up alive in the pit.

Mr. Blaine and I happened to be wound round together, legs and arms in inextricable confusion, and as we were trying to worm ourselves out of the melee he said to me:

"Mr. Newton, isn't there an article in the Apostolic Creed about the resurrection from the dead?"

"There is, Mr. Blaine," I replied, "and there is also an article about descending."

When the debris was removed and a place made for the speaker he began again by saying, for the third time:

"Notwithstanding these many interruptions, I am as opposed as ever to the election of Samuel J. Tilden."

Naval Salutes.

Originally a town or a warship fired off its guns on the approach of friendly strangers to show that they had such faith in the visitors' peaceful intentions they didn't think it necessary to keep their guns loaded. Hence the naval salute.

Old Fashioned.

"What's the trouble with you and your fiancee? Is he jealous?"
"Well, he isn't exactly jealous, but he's what you might call old-fashioned. He doesn't want me to be engaged to anybody else."—Washington Herald.

Marked Resemblance.

"Grace, is that sweetheart of yours an auctioneer?" "No, father. Why?" "Because he keeps on saying he's going—going—going, but he hasn't gone yet!"

Good Sense.

Good sense is as different from genius as perception is from invention; yet, though distinct qualities, they frequently assist together.
