NOT FAIR TREATMENT.

Some weeks ago The Bulletin pointed out the harm that comes to a community by the sending out to mail order houses of money for goods that ought to be bought of the home merchant. That this evil is prevalent around Bend is very evident from the shipments of freight being received every day here. At the depot, among the bags and boxes and packages, are to be seen many which are marked with the name of some farmer or perhaps a resident of the city.

What does this mean? Nothing less than that every day money is being sent to distant cities that ought to be made to do service in this community. One of the leading merchants made a little investigation the other day and found that a number of farmers whose produce he has always bought at the very highest prices are showing their gratitude by buying their supplies from mail order houses. When these customers were without money, the local merchants extended them credit and many of them today have on their books accounts with these customers running anywhere from $10 to $200. As soon as they get on their feet and have enough money to buy for cash, they get a money order and send it away to enrich the coffers of firms that do not care a snap for them except that they want their money. How much would these firms pay the farmer for his produce? Would they give him the top market price for butter? Would they buy his potatoes and other vegetables, his hay and grain? Indeed, they would—not. When they are ready to lay in their winter's supply of provisions, these ranchers whose potatoes were bought by Bend merchants at a price a half cent or more a pound higher than the merchants could have had better potatoes shipped in for, they forget that there are men who sell the same goods right here and at almost the same prices.

Not only are the country people guilty of pursuing such a course, but even some of the leading citizens—men who have, directly or indirectly, made all they possess through the enterprise of their fellow men here in Bend—club together and buy clothing and other things from houses in New York, Chicago or elsewhere.

With cheaper freight rates, lower prices are being made here and will be made by the merchants, and this mail-order trade should stop.

MILIO MAIZE.

When the demonstration train was here the first of the month, samples of milio maize were distributed among the farmers. As a substitute for corn in this part of the country, experiments have already proved that this grain is successful on dry land without irrigation and gives a good return for the investment.

For hogs and cattle milio maize has been found to be splendid feed. In Texas and other parts of the country where it has been grown extensively, both the seed and the stalk itself are fed. With about the same chemical composition as corn, the seed is said to be more nutritious if properly fed. For feeding to cattle it is better to crack or grind it, but for hogs it can be fed successfully without such treatment.

Milio maize grows to be about four feet high, the leaves resembling those of the cornstalk and being virtually of the same composition. While somewhat woody, the stalk when chopped and mixed with other feed is said to be excellent. The seed distributed by the O.W. R. & N. Co. should be properly planted and the crop given careful attention. If milio maize turns out to be what experiments in Central Oregon have shown are its possibilities, this should become a great hog raising country where irrigation methods are not possible. Of course with water on the land, alfalfa, clover and other crops on which hogs thrive will be grown.

BEND—A CITY OF TEN THOUSAND!

In two years, is the prediction of everyone that has visited Bend since the TWO RAILROADS have arrived.

WHY THIS PREDICTION FROM STRANGERS?

With large substantial stone business buildings being erected with all possible haste to accommodate the vast increase in business in all lines; with business and building increasing faster than the fondest hopes of all who expected a reasonable rush; with one company preparing to employ TWELVE HUNDRED MEN, with other industries now completed and building that will employ OVER ANOTHER THOUSAND people, which will insure Bend a pay-roll for over TWO THOUSAND people in less than one year—with all this isn't the prediction reasonable?
