HOW TO MILK A COW.

E. R. Stockwell of the dairy department of the Oregon Agricultural College has prepared a statement regarding the care of the cow after calving. For the benefit of our farmer readers we reprint it.

"Milking is generally considered such a simple operation that any common laborer is supposed to be able to milk," says Mr. Stockwell. "There is, however, an immense difference in milkers. One milker may be able to get twenty per cent more milk than another.

"The milker should not be allowed to excite or worry the cow by loud talking or abuse of any kind. A cow should be milked quietly and quick-habit special care should be taken to get all the strippings. The first milk drawn may contain as little as one per cent of fat, while the last runs from six to ten per cent.

"In milking, the whole hand should be used, closing first that part next to the udder. Then the milk is forced past the sphincter muscle of the teats by closing the remainder of the hand. The cow's teats should always be dry when milked. Wetting the teats is not only a dirty, filthy habit, but it also allows the teats to chap and become sore in bad weather. If there is difficulty in milking a cow dry, a small amount of vaseline may be rubbed on the hands; it is beneficial rather than harmful, both in a sanitary way and in its effect on the teats.

"The future of many a promising dairy cow has been ruined by improper milking soon after calving. The dairy cow has been abnormally developed to produce large quantities of milk; consequently certain of her organs, such as the mammary glands, have become greatly enlarged and weakened just before and after parturition, due probably to the secreting of large quantities of milk. "The art, or science, whichever we may call it, of milking can only be attained by those who are willing to make a study of each individual cow, of her disposition, dairy temperament and physical condition. First, as to the care of the cow previous to parturition. She should not receive much grain, but just enough bran mash to keep her slightly laxative. No succulent feed should be fed, as it stimulates milk secretion.

"After calving the calf should be allowed to take the first milk, and when it has had all it will take, finish the milking with the calf still near. If the udder is hard and caked, a good massaging with the palm of the hand, with or without lard, or better, with camphorated ointment, will relieve almost any congested condition. The breaking up of the udder may be greatly hastened by the sucking of a hungry calf, because of the kneading it gives the udder with its nose.

"The most important things to keep in mind are: first, do not feed succulent feeds previous to parturition or for a few days afterwards; second, milk the cow three times daily after the calf has taken the first milk; third, if the udder is in a congested condition, massage it and allow the calf to suck frequently the first day."

Dr. Wiley says a man can live on water and a bushel of wheat for six weeks and the total cost would be below $1. So there! Ye howlers about the high cost of living.

SHERIFFS' RULING MADE

SALEM—That sheriffs cannot collect fees in civil cases except those that are specifically named by the code in acts subsequent to 1893 is the substance of an opinion by Attorney General Crawford. The opinion states that that provision in the code which provides that "Sheriffs shall collect the following fees" is a nullity, inasmuch as no provision is made for them to collect such fees for the benefit of the county. The Supreme Court held in the Dunbar case along this line and the opinion of the attorney general's office is largely based on the opinion of that court.

MAY BE 3-MILL STATE LEVY.

SALEM.—That the state tax levy for 1912 will be at least 3 mills and possibly more is the prophecy made by State Treasurer Kay. The amount of money to be raised is approximately $3,000,000, consequently the apparently high levy as prophesied.

There were 35 lynchings in 1911 as against 47 in 1910. All the victims but one were negroes.

The Astoria Centennial, held last summer, was a money maker. After all expenses were paid, there was a balance on hand of $6275.11.

The past year was the busiest the Oregon Supreme Court ever had. There were 261 new cases filed, 251 of which were disposed of, and a total of 283 opinions were written.

Loitering of Boys and Girls Under 16 Years of Age on Streets at Night Prohibited—License is Granted to Eleven Saloons

At the special meeting Friday night of the City Council, Mr. Sellers moved that the city attorney be instructed to draw up a curfew ordinance prohibiting the loitering of boys and girls on the streets at night. The motion met with the approval of the council and last night the ordinance was submitted and read the first and second times.

The ordinance keeps boys and girls under 16 years of age, unless accompanied by a proper escort, off streets, alleys and public places after 8 p. m. in winter and 9 p. m. in summer. Violations are punishable by a fine of not less than $3 nor more than $20.

The council granted saloon licenses to the following: J. A. Silvertooth, Holmes & Smith, F. C. Fish, McGrath & Co., Mike Dragich, Elkins & O'Kane, Meyers & Wilkey, Archie Pattie, Glen Eyre, Dalton & Howell and Silvertooth & Browder. J. A. Silvertooth will conduct his business where the Deschutes bar has been and Archie Pattie in the new Boyd building on the Bond street side. There is no change of location in the other places.

Councilman Allen reported that the new fire hose and hose cart had been received and placed in the hose house.

The ordinance vacating part of the plat of block 24, affecting the W. P. Vandeventer property near the depot, was passed.

There was an informal discussion of getting started on a sewer system for the city, but no action was taken.

The recorder was instructed to notify the owners of lots where the fire was in November to clear them of debris within thirty days.

FORESTRY OFFICE MOVED.

The offices of the Deschutes National Forest are now located in the Central Building, on Ohio street. The entire second floor is used, giving the forestry officials simply quarters to care for the business of Uncle Sam. One room will be fitted up in which to make blueprints, many of which are made necessary by the work of the service. Supervisor J. Roy Harvey has a force of seven men in his charge.

Deposits in Oregon banks total $121,821,644, according to the statement of Superintendent of Banks Wright, just issued. This shows a steady gain in bank deposits over a year ago.
