MODELS OF BREVITY.

Gems of Correspondence in Which There Were No Words Wasted.

A couple of Quakers hold the record for brief letters. One of them, wishing to learn if a correspondent in a distant town had any news to communicate, posted to him a sheet of paper on which only a note of interrogation was written. The reply came in the form of a blank sheet, indicating that there was nothing at all to communicate.

Actors seem to carry off the palm for brevity in letter writing. Quin had a misunderstanding with Rich, the manager of Covent Garden, which resulted in Quin's leaving in an unceremonious manner. He soon regretted the hasty action and wrote to the manager, "I am at Bath.—Quin." Rich did not think this a sufficient apology and accordingly replied, "Stay there and be hanged."

Everybody remembers the letters that passed between Samuel Foote and his mother. "Dear Sam," wrote the lady, "I am in prison for debt.—Your loving mother." Foote's answer was even shorter: "Dear Mother—So am I."

March 19, 1700, was a notably dark day in Boston. A certain lady was induced thereby to write the following note to the famous Dr. Byles: "Dear Doctor—How do you account for this darkness?" To which the doctor simply replied, "Dear Madam—I am as much in the dark as you are."—Peabson's Weekly.

The Difference.

Late one afternoon a western senator chanced to run across his colleague, who sat musing idly in a committee room.

"Hello, Tom!" said the second senator. "What are you doing here?"

COMMERCIAL CLUB NAMES OFFICERS

E. M. Lara Chosen as President—Club's Policy Will Be to Get New Industries Here.

At the annual meeting of the Commercial Club Thursday evening, officers for the ensuing year were elected and the policy to be pursued during the next twelve months was discussed.

E. M. Lara was chosen president; Clyde M. McKay, vice president; H. W. Skuse, secretary; R. B. Gould, treasurer; John Steidl, Frank May and Hugh O'Kane, directors.

The retiring treasurer, C. M. Redfield, was present and made his report, which was accepted and a vote of thanks was given him for his services. The report of the retiring secretary, H. J. Overturf, will be submitted at the next meeting, as he was unable to get ready by Thursday on account of having to make a hurried trip to Prineville that day.

Manager Sawhill arrived from Portland, where he had been on club business, before the meeting adjourned and made report on his trip, bringing some very encouraging news to the club members.

Having got Bend advertised throughout the country, the club, during 1912, will direct its energies mainly toward bringing new industries here. This, the members decided, would be the best thing to do, and a definite statement of this policy was ordered formulated by the board of directors and submitted to the members of the club for their approval.

It is planned to have more frequent meetings than in the past.

Notice of Annual Meeting.

BOUNTY INADEQUATE

Woolmen Urge National Law to Exterminate Predatory Animals.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Gooding and Secretary McClure, of the National Woolgrowers' Association, now in Washington, are preparing to urge the passage of a national bounty law. They contend that state bounty laws are inadequate to exterminate the predatory wild animals which breed in national forests.

Federal assistance is necessary, they assert, as these animals each year kill $15,000,000 worth of livestock which results in an increased cost of meat.
