BATTLESHIP BALDERDASH.

In an effort to curb the growing popularity of Woodrow Wilson, certain papers are working their cartoonists and editorial solons overtime sturring the Democratic party because it probably will take a stand against the mad race for the construction of battleships that is now absorbing countless millions of the nation's capital.

For the benefit of these gentlemen who would have the United States plunge forward as a battleship builder, need there be a better example of the futility and the primitive absurdity of such a course than that which is furnished by the armament race in which England and Germany are indulging?

And on the flimsy pretext of patriotism is this nation to be driven pell-mell into a similar mad race of millions? Indeed, if non-battleship-building is to be used at all as campaign material, let it be understood in its true light—let the people comprehend that the abandonment of the "build all the ships we can afford" policy spells a real progressive step, for the greatness and prosperity of no modern nation depends upon the number of guns it mounts at sea, but immeasurably more upon the number of million dollars it is able to spend at home in internal improvements.

The following clipping is from the Linotype Bulletin, a magazine of newspaper and printers' news of wide circulation: "Two years ago Bend, Ore., was 100 miles from the nearest railroad, today it is a thriving town of 1500 people, with a first class newspaper—The Bulletin—which includes in its equipment a new linotype. The normal size of The Bulletin is 12 pages, all home print. A special Development Number, issued July 4, contained 44 pages which G. P. Putnam, the editor, states would have been entirely impossible to produce without the linotype."

"Support Taft, pray for Roosevelt and bet on Wilson, but attach your vote to your bet," is the campaign advice given out by C. E. S. Wood, the eminent Oregon lawyer.

COUNTY POLITICAL SIDELIGHTS.

Samuel K. Gregg was nominated at the prohibition convention at Culver for State Representative.

Many people over in Prineville believe that Fred Rice, who was defeated for the Republican nomination for the county surveyorship by R. L. Brewster, may be an independent candidate for the position. Mr. Rice, who is the present incumbent, so far has said nothing regarding a possible candidacy.

There seems to be a general feeling throughout the county that a close fight is due for the county judge job. That the Democratic nominee, G. Springer, who is a well known and well liked old resident, will give McFarlane a run for his money, is generally conceded, while on the east side and in Bend, where he has many friends, a sentiment is growing that Springer will win out. There is some talk that an independent may run, but as yet no announcement on this head has been made.

Warren Brown is promised an able opposition for the county clerkship by Howard W. Turner of Madras, but seems slated to win, according to advices from various localities. Van Allen, for assessor, may run against a snag in Foster of Prineville.

One thing is certain: The election in the county, as in national politics, seems destined to split up the party vote disastrously. Very few men have an idea of voting a straight ticket on either side. The election will be one of candidates and not of parties.

NO SUCH THING AS CINCH IN BASEBALL.

Rounding into the stretch in the big league derbies, we look over our future book tickets with some apprehension. The ready money we were to win on the Athletics and which we had already spent in imagination in outings down on the Current river we may have to hand over before the season is over, and while we look with satisfaction on the easy stride and long lead of old Gotham we are wont to recollect that many things can happen in two furlongs, particularly to front runners. They pay off at the finish, says Ed Wray, sporting expert.

Here's how they shape up nearing the three-quarter pole:

- NATIONAL LEAGUE.
New York—Breathing a bit; will need its big lead.
Chicago—Coming strong and fresh.
Pittsburgh—Bad early ride, but has stamina of the bunch. Will close strong.
Philadelphia—Thrown back and bumped at the start, is settling into stride. Lost too much ground to make it up, however.
Cincinnati—Bank quitter; apprentice rider.
Cardinals—Slow beginner, just settling into stride; may pass one more entry.
Brooklyn—Doesn't class at all.
Boston—Runs for (Bill) Sweeney.
AMERICAN LEAGUE.
Boston—Running easily; not yet extended. Well handled.
Washington—The "dark horse" going well, but keep your chin hidden when they ask you to back this entry.
Philadelphia—Under whip and spur, good and game, but may have been held too far out of the running. Jockey is nervous.
Chicago—Rider has used whip and spur too freely and mount shows signs of sinking. Has run its race already.
Detroit—Slowly improving position, but seems to lack speed to get up. May nose out Chicago if jockey rides to the limit.
Cleveland—Good nag; getting a bad ride. Too late to get up in any event.
New York—Sick horse, needs a cartridge.
St. Louis—Out for exercise only.

PLAYGROUND PARAGRAPHS.

The universal impulse to play is a divinely ordered thing. If God gives the instinct man ought to provide the playground.

Man plays only where he is a human being in the fullest sense of the word, and he has reached full humanity only when he plays.

It would be difficult to find any point at which in our large cities a dollar will go further in the making of those things for which the city exists than in the provision and maintenance of playgrounds.

In these playgrounds and in their work lies the beginning of social redemption of the people in large cities. They furnish the spectacle of a city saving itself; of the people of a great city finding nature and God by finding their neighbors and themselves.

Here lies the function of the playground. It gives the individual the opportunity for mastery of his body under conditions of increasing difficulties in its varied physical activities. It also gives the opportunity for the social experiences of democracy of self and group government. It is the school for physical and social self discovery and self direction.

There is another point of view which maintains that no matter how great the cost the value of the boy saved is inestimably beyond it. This point of view is suggested by that Master of practical life who knew full well the value of money, even the widow's mite. For what shall it profit a city if it gain the whole world and lose the souls of its children?

BETTER ROADS.

Better roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in towns, an advantage to the people who live in the country, and they will help every section of our vast domain. Good roads, like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable. They enhance the value of farm lands, facilitate transportation and add untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they are the milestones marking the advance of civilization; they economize time, give labor a lift and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country, bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and the religious and the educational and the industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier hearthside; they are the avenues of trade, the highways of commerce, the mail routes of information and the agencies of speedy communication.—Hon. William Sulzer.

Dear Friend:
Chipped beef is nice to buy, Mama says, because there is no bone in it.
Last night mama was real tired, and didn't feel like building a big fire. She sent me to the grocery for a jar of chipped beef, and when I got back she had some bread and butter and sweet milk on the table, and we had a real nice supper, and it didn't cost very much.
A whole 1/2 pound jar of chipped beef costs only 15 cts.
Your friend,
Jacob.
