

NEW HOME OF THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

FIRST NATIONAL BANK BEND OREGON
$20,000 STRUCTURE IS FINEST BUILDING IN CENTRAL OREGON.

NEW BANK DEDICATED

quarters, all equipped with every latest device. For the cashier there is a roll top desk, matching the rest of the woodwork, and another roll top desk to back with it. Throughout the electric fixtures, like all the furniture and other fixtures, were especially designed for this building and all are both the most practical to be had as well as harmonizing beautifully.

Vaults Are Modern.

At the rear are the vaults, one behind the grill, for the banking proper, and another to the right, for safety deposit boxes, connected with the main room by a small room where customers may have access to their boxes in privacy and comfort, and "cut coupons" to their heart's content at the desk provided for the purpose. A set of steel deposit boxes has been installed.

The main vault is a big affair, guarded by massive steel doors with intricate mechanism, each door weighing 6500 pounds. They are Mosler safes. Downstairs, in the basement, there is another storage vault. Its big door has an interesting history, being the oldest in the state. It was formerly used in the old Ladd & Tilton bank in Portland, and was brought across the plains by freight wagon in 1859.

On the opening day the bank handled 223 transactions. Mike McGrath made the first deposit in the new building.

In connection with the opening of its new home, the bank makes the announcement that at a board meeting today its surplus will be enlarged from $6500 to $10,000, making a total capitalization of $35,000.

The building opened Monday is 50 by 70 feet, stands at the corner of Oregon and Bond streets, and cost $20,000. It is of gray pressed brick, trimmed with Indiana limestone, and is fireproof. Construction was begun in March, 1912. Beezer Bros. of Seattle were the architects, and Louis Beezer of the firm was here at the opening, having directed the final finishing touches which kept the mechanics busy up to the last minute. Its second story is occupied by offices, the present tenants being Dr. U. C. Coe, Bend Park Company, United States Forestry Service, Central Oregon Brokerage Co., M. S. Lattin & Co., and V. A. Forbes.

GOOD SHOOTING DONE

Christmas Exhibition of Gun Club is Excellent.

The Christmas shoot of the Rod and Gun Club proved to be very successful, showing that there are some good marksmen in the town. About 40 men participated, and there were about 25 persons looking on. Ten turkeys were given away as prizes. The average score was 4 out of 5. There were 10 prize events and 2 rifle shoots.

The following were prize winners: Bert Caldwell, 1 turkey; August Hallberg, 1; F. J. Wilkey, 2; C. R. Kurlee, 2; A. H. Allen, 1; L. Metke, 1; M. J. Main, 1; W. Garrett, 1.

The club is having another shoot today. The grounds are in good condition, members of the club say, and much fun is expected to be had during the coming months.

TRY THEIR HAND AT PUBLISHING

EDITOR AWAY, DEVILS HAVE PLAY

Friends of Fred La Follette, Who is Vacationing, Get Out La Pine Inter-Mountain in His Absence, Though Printers are Rare.

Fred La Follette, editor of the La Pine Inter-Mountain, deserted the switch last week and went to Portland, where, 'tis whispered, he is enjoying one grand holiday, with trimmings. And while the editor is away the printers devils are at play, for tomorrow the Inter-Mountain blossoms forth edited by nearly the entire community of La Pine.

For his friends have played a little trick on Fred. A dozen of them got together and appointed an editorial board, which proceeded to grind out a requisite amount of "copy." This was sent to The Bulletin Saturday and set by the linotype here on the Sabbath—for La Pine is long on editors but short on typesetters—and sent back to La Pine Monday. That gives 'em a couple of days to get that type locked up, the heads set and the paper printed, which even at that may prove something of a job, because Paul Peterson is the only one of the editors, it is reported, who ever smelled printers ink at close range, and knows the difference between an apple pie and pied type.

So La Pine is watching with interest for the "Devils Issue," whose editorial board is as follows: Managing Editor, J. G. Redmond; Sporting Editor, D. L. Peterson; Society Editor, Alphonse W. Aya; Reporters, Bill Bogue, Slick Raper, and Jim Carter; Mechanical Department, Paul Peterson.

In honor of the occasion the following verse was perpetrated and will be published in the Inter-Mountain:

While the Editor is away
The Devils are at play,
And responsible for the sheet is not he;
But we followed up all clues,
And gathered up the news,
And are printing it with gusto and with glee.
Oh the smile that he will wear
And how he'll gently swear

LA PINE, CROOK COUNTY, ORE.

When he finds the issue out when he gets back.
But we're fond of playing jokes
On the Editor, the bloke,
But this the biggest joke of all the pack.

While far away for a holiday,
Which the Editor surely deserves,
His Devils work like the sturdy Turk
Calling in a lot of reserves.
And edit a sheet, a laborous feat,
Which will open the eyes of all,
And squash in defeat his regular sheet,
And back it hard to the wall.
