ANDREW JOHNSON.

He Was Perfect in Figure and Scrupulously Neat in Dress.

Andrew Johnson was one of the neatest men in his dress and person I have ever known. During his three years in Nashville, in particular, he dressed in black broadcloth frock coat and waistcoat and black doeskin trousers and wore a silk hat. This had been his attire for thirty years, and for most of that time, whether as governor of Tennessee, member of congress or United States senator, he had made all of his own clothes. He was so scrupulous about his linen that he invariably changed all of it daily and sometimes oftener.

He was matchlessly perfect in figure, about five feet ten, had handsome broad shoulders, fine forehead, superb face, dark bushy hair and small hands and feet. The most marked feature about him was his eyes, which were small, and, although such eyes are not usually attractive, his were black, sparkling and absolutely beautiful.

He was not a gambler at anything and could play only indifferently at checkers. In 1862 he explained to me that he had never visited a theater because in his youth he lacked the opportunity and always afterward would rather study and work or go to bed than spend his time at a playhouse. He looked on all kinds of gambling as wrong, never knew one card or one domino from another and was never at a horse race. He had been to a few circuses and minstrel shows and liked them—recollection of his Secretary, Major Truman, in Century.

Too Many Pianos.

M. de S., art critic, is traveling in Italy. On the train he consults the usual showing various locations in Florence. He reads, "Casamumero-via—1 piano." "Oh, me," he says, "I do not want any piano in the house."

He continues to read. He finds houses of two, three, four pianos. He does not find any that are unprovided with these. He is desperate. He declares the superabundance of these instruments disgusts him with Florence. Then some one explains to him that the word piano, in Italian, signifies the floor or story of a house—Cri de Paris

Had a Complaint.

The angry citizen puffed into the office of the city editor.

"See here, sir," he yelled, "what do you mean by publishing my resignation from my political office in this way?"

"You gave the story out yourself, didn't you?" asked the editor.

"Of course I did," replied the angry citizen. "But your fool paper prints it under the head of 'Public Improvements.'"

AT THE BEND COMPANY'S MILL.

Louis Rodseth visited his homestead at La Pine on Friday, returning to Bend Saturday night.

R. B. Lamberson is acting as night watchman at the lumber yard and sawmill.

George Straight, yard foreman, has fitted up living quarters in the office building in the yard where he is now living with Ed Anderson, edger man in the mill.

Except for shutdowns on the morning of the 29th for the annual boiler inspection and for a half day on the 21st because of the snowfall, the mill has been going continuously the past month.

George Rae, who recently arrived in Bend from Glasgow, Scotland, has taken employment at the yard. Mr. Rae's brother, A. Rae, has now been with the company for nearly a year.

John McKinney are spending the week with Mrs. Pulliam.

Mrs. Will Leverenz was the guest of Mrs. J. B. Nichols of Pinehurst

TUMALO, March 30.—There will be several hundred acres of new land put into crop this year in this vicinity. Owing to the fact that 1913 is the year for all adjudicated water rights to be completed, the land must be in crop and irrigated by October 1.

What was known as the Wimer ranch of 600 acres will all go into crop this year. There has been considerable change in the last few months. G. W. Horner and family, formerly of Laidlaw, has taken 200 acres; Millard Triplett has acquired 110 acres; John Byers of Ashland, 100, this leaving 190 acres which C. L. Wimer now occupies.

Arthur Brinson will soon complete the 100-acre clearing contract on the Wimer lands.

I. E. Wimer and Charles Spough have quite an acreage of new land ready for crop this year. Their 480-acre ranch will all be in cultivation this year.

P. A. Woolley has considerable new land that he will put in crop.

People of this vicinity are wondering what will be done with all the products of this new land. Already there is more hay raised than finds a market. The ranchers will have to open their eyes, it seems, and see what can be done in hog raising and dairying. The time for raising hay and grain for the market has come and gone, apparently. Several hundred tons of the finest kind of baled hay is awaiting a market in this community. Still every freight train into Bend brings ear after ear of hay from the outside which is not to be compared with the quality of the local hay. The farmers would like to see the consumers buy at home and thereby encourage the settlement of the Bend country.

H. G. Rainey, who has been employed on the Star ranch, has returned to Bend.

Word has been received from G. W. Wimer that he and wife reached Ashland in good shape. Mrs. Wimer stood the trip well and is improving in health. They lived at Ashland 10 years ago.

John Ryers is expected here at any time to take charge of the land he recently purchased.

The site for the school house was voted on and the location is the northeast corner of Fred Keiger's homestead, in sec. 6-20-15, on the Bend-Burns road.

Ed White came out from the Sisters country last week and has settled on his homestead. He brought with him some 40 head of horses and brood mares and will engage extensively in the raising of mules.

Henry Masters and Charles Hartwig have taken a contract to cut 15 cords of juniper wood for A. A. Gilmore.

J. A. Hazuka has done about 25 acres of plowing this spring and expects to put in about 40 acres of rye.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Gilmore have just completed a pretty two room bungalow on their claim, and are now erecting a good-sized barn and chicken house.

A. D. Norton has relinquished his desert claim of 80 acres and Mary E. Rooney of Bend has filed on it and 240 acres adjoining as a homestead and it is understood will move on to her claim in a short time.

Mrs. B. E. Davis and Mrs. A. D. Norton spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Gilmore where they were entertained with Mrs. Gilmore's granola.

B. E. Davis has completed setting posts around his entire 320 acres and will put up the wire as soon as it is received from Bend.
