LETTING GEORGE DO IT.
 The Bend Company apparent-ly has strong beliefs as to the wisdom of "Letting George Do It." George Gove is in charge of its sawmill; George Straight runs the yard, and there are a roll, including George Rae and number of Georges on the pay-George Geiger.

ELECTRICAL "MOVIES."
 Through the Bend Water, Light & Power Co., Mr. Turnbull of the General Electric Company will be here tomorrow and will deliver two lectures upon the uses of electricity in the home for cooking, cleaning, etc. Many interesting pictures will be thrown on the screen, and no admission will be charged. On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 the talk is at the Dream Theatre, and in the evening, commencing at 7:45, at the Star.

DR. EDMUNDS GIVES LECTURE.
 At the Baptist church Monday evening Dr. C. W. Edmunds of Eugene delivered his lecture on "The Education of the Twenty-First Century." Dr. Edmunds perceives a coming change in educational methods. He believes that there should be established a laboratory of child training in which the Montessori methods be followed coupled with frequent comparative physical examination. In his opinion the fullest and most complete development of the child can be governed only in this way. Before and after the lecture Mrs. Ashley Forrest entertained the audience with songs.

PRESBYTERY AT PRINEVILLE.
 The Presbytery of Pendleton will meet at Prineville April 10. The opening sermon should be preached by Rev. Mr. Bleakley, Ph. D., professor of Greek in Whitman College. He cannot attend on account of his college duties and in his absence the committee on program has requested Rev. L. I. Gorby of Bend to take his place, and the invitation has been accepted.

REMOVAL OF OFFICES.
 On the completion of the Myers & Wilkey building on Bond street, the four rooms comprising the second floor frontage will be occupied by Drs. J. H. Connors and A. L. Williams. Dr. Connors is a dentist now practicing in Bend, with office over the Deschutes Banking & Trust Co. Dr. Williams is a physician and surgeon at present in Portland. He will remove to Bend as soon as the new building is finished which is expected to be in about six weeks.—Advertisement.

SCARES IN LONDON

When Cranks Predicted the Destruction of the City.

TERROR RULED THE PEOPLE.

Bell, a Lunatic, Had the Entire Population in a Fray of Fear Awaiting the End by Earthquake in 1761—The River Thames Panic of 1524.

Men, it has been well said, think in herds. It will be seen that they go mad in herds, for innumerable instances can be given of a whole people suddenly shaking off the trammels of reason and running wild under the delusion of some impending calamity.

A panic terror of the end of the world spread over London in 1761 by the prophecy of the famous Whistler, who predicted that the world would be destroyed on Oct. 13 in that year. Crowds of people went out on the appointed day to Islington, Highgate, Hampstead and the intervening fields to witness the destruction of London, which was to be the "beginning of the end."

Again in the year 1761 the citizens of London were plunged into excitement by two earthquake shocks, and the prophecy of a third, which was to destroy them altogether. The first of these shocks was on Feb. 8 and threw down several chimneys; the second was on March 5. Public notice was directed to the fact that there was exactly a month's interval between the two shocks, and a crack brained fellow named Bell was so impressed with the idea that there would be a third in the forthcoming month that he completely lost his senses and ran about the streets predicting the destruction of London on April 5.

As the awful day approached the excitement became intense, and great numbers of credulous people resorted to all the villages within a circuit of twenty miles, there to await the doom of London. Blackheath, Islington, Highgate, Hampstead and Harrow were crowded with people stricken fugitives who paid exorbitant prices for accommodations in these secure retreats. Such as could not afford to pay for lodgings at these places camped in the surrounding fields.

As is usual in panics, the fear became contagious, and hundreds who had laughed at the prediction a week before packed up their goods and chattels when they saw others doing so and hastened away. The river was thought to be a place of great security, and accordingly all the available merchant vessels and barges were packed with people, who passed the night between the 4th and 5th on board, expecting every moment to see St. Paul's tower and the towers of Westminster abbey rock and fall amid a cloud of dust. But on the following day the greater part of the fugitives returned, convinced that the prophecy was a false one. A few months afterward Bell was confined in a lunatic asylum, where he died.

Great consternation was caused in London in 1524 by a prediction that on the 1st day of February the waters of the Thames would overflow the whole city of London and wash away 10,000 houses. The prophecy was implicitly believed, and many families packed up their goods and removed into Kent and Essex. As the time drew near the numbers of these emigrants increased. In January droves of workmen might be seen, followed by their wives and children, trudging on foot to the villages within fifteen or twenty miles to await the catastrophe. People of a higher class were also to be seen in vehicles bound on a similar errand.

By the middle of January at least 20,000 persons had quitted the doomed city, leaving nothing but the bare walls of their homes to be swept away by the impending floods. Many of the wealthier class took up their abode on the heights of Hampstead, Highgate and King's Heath, and some erected tents as far away as Waltham abbey on the north and Croydon on the south of the Thames.

On the fateful morning the wondering crowds were astir at an early hour to watch the rising of the waters. It was predicted that the inundation would be gradual, not sudden, so that they expected to have plenty of time to escape as soon as they saw the waters rise beyond the usual mark.

The day grew older, and the Thames flowed on quietly as of yore. The tide ebbcd at its usual hour, flowed to its usual height and then ebbcd again, just as if twenty astrologers had not pledged their word to the contrary.

Blank were their faces as evening approached, and as blank grew the faces of the citizens to think that they had made such fools of themselves. Night set in, and the obstinate river would not lift its waters to sweep away even one home out of the 10,000. Still, however, the people were afraid to go to sleep. Many hundreds remained up till dawn of the next day, lest the deluge should come upon them like a thief in the night.

On the morrow it was seriously discussed whether it would not be advisable to duck the false prophets in the river. Luckily for them they thought of an expedient which allayed the popular fury. They asserted that by an error they had fixed the date of this awful inundation a century too early. The present generation of cockneys were safe and London would be washed away, not in 1524, but in 1624.—London Family Herald.

There is no witness so terrible, no detector so powerful, as conscience—Folblus.

SIGNBOARDS ALONG ROAD.
 (Sisters Herald.)
 H. E. Vincent, head forest ranger for this district, has completed a large number of road signs and is placing them at the different points where needed. This is a much needed improvement and will prove of great convenience to the traveling public.
