

THE SWINEHERD.

Good bedding adds to the comfort of the hogs. The man who provides the best shelter is invariably the man who makes the most money out of his hogs.

THE AMBITIOUS HORSE.

Importance of Training Work Animals to Walk Rapidly. Some people give horses little credit for intelligence, and, while, of course, they cannot reason or pass the time of day with one another, they do learn many things, usually from habit, says the National Stockman.

The policy of keeping brood mares and at the same time produce a crop of foals is one that should commend itself to all thinking men. Mares of good conformation, bone and size mated to pure bred draft stallions will produce a type of horse much in demand at excellent prices.

to pride in a slow moving team, nor is it a credit to the ability of the team's owner to train his horses. Some horses are naturally slower than others, and many acquire a lagging gait because the driver permits it.

Hog Cholera Prevention. No specific cure has been found for hog cholera, but in a few instances recoveries have taken place where the preventive serum has been promptly used.

Pumpkins For Dairy Cows. Pumpkins are good feed for dairy cows, and there is nothing in the claim that they will dry animals up.

THANKSGIVING ONCE A YEAR.

"There are some folks," says preacher, "I think are careful quakers. They never think of thanking God until November's here."

KURIOS FROM KORRESPONDENTS

Q.—Does a hen always lay at about the same time in the day? A.—While in full lay a hen generally lays about the same hour, and as she nears the end of her clutch of eggs she lays a little later each day until she quits.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

It is wise for the crate fattener to be on the lookout for sick and dead fowls, especially in the hot season and toward the end of the feeding period. The removal of a fowl that is off its feet to a grass run often restores it quickly.

Feeding hens grain in the sheaf is not practical. While they get some exercise tearing the sheaves apart, they nearly always get too much grain and much is wasted.

There is a remedy going the rounds that hens will double their output if the house is illuminated at night, and market chickens will eat and grow faster.
