Effort Being Made to Referend Workmen's Compensation Law—April Accident Record Big—Many Old Autos Unlicensed, Says Olcott

(Special to The Bulletin)

SALEM, May 19.—Oregon's two new supreme court judges, Charles L. McNary of Salem and William M. Ramsey of McMinnville, were banqueted and toasted last Friday night by 50 of the prominent judges and lawyers of the state. The affair took on considerable significance because of the remarks of the two new judges as to what their attitude will be when they take office June 3.

Judge Ramsey decried against "judicial legislation." "Good judges must only interpret law, and not make law," he said.

Judge McNary said he had practiced law for 15 years and had always had a desire to go on the bench. "I'm going to give you the best there is in me," he promised, "and if I don't make good it will be because I am not big enough for the job, and not because of lack of effort on my part."

Chief Justice McBride, who gave the welcoming toast to the two new jurists, told them that when their opinions went against many lawyers the lawyers would not like them. Referring to this Judge McNary said: "If anyone doesn't like my opinions, he can go elsewhere for his opinions. When I know I'm right I shall stick to it, and write my opinions accordingly; and if the other judges write opinions with which I don't agree, I am going to dissent."

"I'm going to be square. I know human nature pretty well, and I have sympathy for the members of the bar. Whatever the outcome is I want you to know that I tried to be fair."

The banquet was given by the Marion Bar Association.

Trying to referend. Petitions to referend the workmen's compensation act are being circulated in Portland, and members appointed on the state industrial insurance commission, and other friends of the measure, are bitterly fighting the referendum movement. They allege that the movement is being fostered and paid for by agents of the casualty insurance companies.

Many Accidents in April. During April 411 accidents sufficiently serious to be reported to the state labor commissioner occurred in Oregon. Of these 146 were in connection with railroad work. Eleven of the accidents were fatal.

Insurance Company Licensed.

After fighting in and out of the courts for two years for a license to do business in this state, the Union Pacific Life Insurance Company of Portland obtained the desired license last week. At the time a manamus suit brought by the company against Insurance Commissioner Ferguson was pending in the supreme court; this was dismissed. Before the license was granted the company ousted Mark T. Kady from the office of president, and elected a new set of officials. The company has over $100,000 capital now invested according to the requirements of the insurance laws.

Autos Use Old Licenses.

Secretary of State Olcott has checked up the records in the automobile department and finds that 2500 automobiles that were licensed last year have not been licensed this year. Reports are made of many machines being used in various towns and cities of the state which carry the old 1912 licenses. As the funds derived from the licenses will go this year for the improvement of roads, Secretary Olcott suggests that each machine owner should take it upon himself to report to the nearest peace officer the names of any persons he sees using motor vehicles without a 1913 license. The license fund will be apportioned to the counties according to the number of licenses issued in each county.
