The Turk in Constantinople.
Terrible scenes were witnessed in Constantinople when Mohammed II captured the city in 1453. When the conquerors entered they slew 2,000 and made slaves of all who took refuge in the sanctuary of St. Sophia. Gibbon records the fate of the 90,000 prisoners: "Male captives were bound with cords, the females with their veils and girdles. The senators were linked with their slaves, the prelates with the porters of the church and young men of a plebeian class with noble maids whose faces had been invisible to the sun and their nearest kindred, and in this common state of captivity the ranks of society were confounded, the ties of nature were cut asunder, and the inexorable soldier was careless of the father's groans, the tears of the mother and the lamentations of the children."

AN ACUTE ABSCESS.

The Way it Forms and the Way it Should Be Treated.
An abscess is a swelling that contains pus. It may be either acute or chronic, and it may either be deeply seated in the body or it may appear upon the surface. The chronic or "cold abscess" is generally of tuberculous origin, whereas the acute or "hot abscess" is the result of an infection by the pus microbes.

The acute abscess comes on suddenly with all the signs of severe inflammation—heat, redness, swelling and pressure. The sufferer often feels ill and has a slight degree of fever. In three or four days the abscess begins to soften, and the pain diminishes because the surface skin is being destroyed and the tension upon the sore spot is not so great. By and by there is only one layer left, through which the pus can be seen. This thin layer soon ruptures, and the pus escapes. Relief is immediate, and healing soon begins.

When the inflammation is deeply seated the affair is more serious. In such cases the pus may burrow until it invades some vital structure—the peritoneum or the brain, for instance—and a fatal result is not impossible.

The treatment of abscesses has changed much in late years. Formerly the acute abscess was allowed to form and break without surgical interference unless it threatened life or caused too much distress. Now the physician does not wait for it to pass through the natural stages. As soon as it appears he makes an incision and releases the poison before it has a chance to cause the formation of pus.

FALSE REPORT CIRCULATED

Laidlaw Cheese Factory Not Closed, But is Succeeding, Says Wimer.

To the Editor of The Bulletin:

To the parties who took the liberty to circulate the report that the Laidlaw cheese factory had closed, and to those who have been advised that say, I take this opportunity to say that the report is not true. The factory is running every day and turning out a first class grade of cheese which commands the same price in Portland as does the Tillamook cheese. We are rushed with orders and every order we fill calls for another. While we could handle three times the amount of milk we are getting now, we expect to be running full capacity in a short time.

Since this report has been circulated and is supposed to have been by parties working against the factory in the interest of other propositions, I wish to publish the records of the factory for the months of March and April and compare them with Tillamook records.

We began operation March 17 and on May 21 the farmers were paid for their March butter fat at the rate of 32.16 cents a pound, the milk delivered testing from 4 to 6 per cent butter fat. On June 13 the farmers were paid 32.45 cents a pound for April butter fat, test running 5.5 to 5.2 per cent butter fat. Compare this with the report of the Fairview Dairy Association of Tillamook, as follows:

Prices paid for butter fat January, 1912, 28.3; February, 28.3; March, 30.2; April, 33; May, 33; June, 32.34; July, 33.34; August, 32; September, 33.64; October, 35.04; November, 39.7.

Comparing the above prices with the Laidlaw cheese factory prices, the farmers feel well satisfied that they can make more out of their milk by hauling it to the cheese factory than by separating it and sending the cream to a creamery, as they are getting about 5 cents a pound more for their butter fat at the factory than at the creameries.

The prices quoted above are net to the farmers after deducting the expense of running the factory. I hope this will be sufficient to correct any erroneous reports circulated and show the farmer where he can get the best results from his milk and assure anyone who wishes to bring his milk to the cheese factory that he will get a square deal in every respect and top prices for butter fat.
