BISHOP PLACES O.K. ON COUNTRY

CATHOLIC DIGNITARY'S ENDORSEMENT

Land, Climate and Irrigation Recommended For Immigrants Seeking Localities in Agricultural Districts of This State.

As a result of the favorable impression made by this country on Bishop Charles J. O'Reilly of the Catholic church, there seems excellent promise of a substantial interest on the part of Catholics in its colonization.

Last week Bishop O'Reilly was in Bend again, with Father J. B. Wand. In company with Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh O'Kane, the bishop made another tour of inspection of the surrounding country. It will be remembered that he was here some weeks ago and spoke warmly of his high opinion of what he saw. A result of this trip is the following signed statement which he left here with Father Luke Sheehan and Mr. O'Kane:

"In my opinion the country adjacent to the city of Bend in Crook county offers good advantages to the homeseeker. The land controlled by the Central Oregon Irrigation Company offers exceptional openings for the settler. The soil seems to be productive, the climate is good and there is abundance of water for irrigation. The price of the land seems reasonable and the terms satisfactory to persons of limited means. I think the conditions would justify an assurance of prosperous homes for Catholics seeking to better their condition in agricultural districts. (Signed) Charles J. O'Reilly, Bishop of Baker City."

Mr. O'Kane and others believe that this endorsement will be of great force in getting Catholics interested in this portion of Central Oregon, and special effort is to be devoted to this end. Next week Father Sheehan leaves for Ireland for a brief visit and to attend meetings there, and it is understood that a side mission will be that of interesting immigration from the old country to Central Oregon.

NAPOLEON'S ARMY EAGLES.

They Were Patterned After the Ancient Symbol of the Caesars. Eagles lasted only from 1865 to Waterloo. Before then it had been the custom in armies to carry huge unwieldy flags mounted on poles which while they afforded a rallying point for their corps, also drew the enemy's fire. It remained for Napoleon to revive the ancient symbol of the Caesars. At first an eagle was presented to every battalion of infantry and every squadron of horse. But owing to the number of eagles captured this show-piece was cut down. All battalion eagles were withdrawn and one eagle was carried by each regiment of foot and cavalry. In 1812 a still further reduction was made and in some cases five regiments were ordered to leave their eagles in their arsenal. These standards were also taken from all regiments of light cavalry and one eagle sufficed occasionally for an infantry brigade.

The eagle itself was eight inches in height and nine inches across the wings. It stood on a brass base three inches square and weighed three and a half pounds.

Modern colors, cumbersome as they are, are as nothing compared to the old ones, which were as difficult to hide as the big drum. Thus there existed a regular system for saving eagles. Sometimes, when the tide of war ran adversely, they were uncrewed and put into haversacks or great coat pockets. At other times they were buried, thrown into ponds or rivers, broken up, hidden in hollow trees, and most humiliating of all, stuffed into some dead horse, to be hauled out subsequently.—Harper's Weekly.

Removing Paint Stains.

Paint is one of the most usual of the unavoidable stains which afflict the skirt worn out of doors. "Fresh paint" signs are all very well if they are seen in time, but they have an inconvenient way of appearing boldly before the eyes after damage has been done. The sooner a paint stain is removed the easier the task of removal will be. Spread a little dry laundry or cornstarch around the spot to keep the paint when moistened from spreading. Then wet the stain with turpentine. After a few minutes moisten again. Scrape the paint up with a dull knife or a spoon handle and wet again with turpentine. When there is no trace left of the paint rub the spot dry with a clean cloth and brush off the starch.—Washington Star.

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

cell and a voting place. The committee, appointed on motion, comprises the mayor and Councilmen Allen and Steidl.

To investigate the feasibility of contributing to the support of a Carnegie library here, a committee was ordered appointed, French and Collins being the appointees to act with the mayor and to report its findings to the council at its next meeting.

The immediate purchase of a fire bell and the passage of two important ordinances relative to plumbing and sewer inspection matters were recommended, and probably will be acted on at the meeting next Tuesday, when a street numbering system will come up for consideration.

The customary bids were paid, Petitions for sidewalks to lot 1 in block 11 in Park addition and in Westoria were read and referred to the streets committee. A petition from H. D. Brown, requesting that a portion of Evergreen avenue be regularly watered was also referred to the same committee.

REPORTS OF OFFICIALS

Statement of City's Expenditures and Other Information Given.

According to the report of H. C. Ellis, city recorder, for the six months ending July 1, the expenses of the city as shown by warrants drawn on the general fund amounted to $3941.23, divided as follows:

The report of George S. Young, city engineer, covered the progress of the street work to July 1. According to it, Nevada street has been practically finished, and the gutter trench and final surfacing remain to be done on Wall street. Following the Bond street work, Oregon street will be finished and finally Greenwood avenue. The amount due the contractor for work to July 1 is $1154.49.

The report on the sanitary sewer construction for June was rendered and approved. It showed that much of the up-town work was completed in June, there remaining within the city limits only about 650 cubic yards of rock excavation. The lateral sewers are entirely completed and ready for service. Work on the out-of-town line will be undertaken about August 1.

The report of the treasurer, which was especially expected as a report has been presented since the first of the year, was not forthcoming as regarded general city funds. The following report of sewer fund finances was submitted and approved:

COULDN'T SEE THE JOKE.

Charles Sumner's Wonderful Lack of a Sense of Humor.

It was a rainy afternoon, and Mr. Longfellow was obliged to go out, leaving Sumner stretched on the sofa reading Lowell's volume. When he returned he asked Sumner how he liked the poems, and Sumner replied: "They are admirable, very good indeed. But why does he spell his words so badly?" Longfellow said that he attempted to explain that the poems were purposely written in the New England dialect, but Sumner could not understand.

One summer at Nahant I dined at Mr. Longfellow's with Mr. Sumner and some others. Sumner was a collector of china, about which he knew a great deal, as he did about many other things. He told us a story about going to see Lord Exmouth's collection and how fine it was. When he was taking his leave Lord Exmouth gave him two rare plates and offered to send them to his lodgings, but Sumner would not be parted from his prize and insisted on taking them home with him in his cab. When he had concluded his story, which was interesting, but long in narration, Tom Appleton, Mr. Longfellow's brother-in-law, who was present, said: "A pleasing tale. Was treated with two plates." Everybody laughed, and Sumner, looking about most good naturedly, said: "What are you all laughing at? I suppose Appleton is up to some mischief, but my story is quite true."—From "Some Early Memories" by Senator H. G. Lodge, in Scribner's Magazine.
