I'm tired of the old furniture—I'll buy new

Dear Amy:-
I've been reading in the Sunday papers how you can "make over" old chairs and things and have them look good as new. I bought some furniture polish and tapestry and tried to make new, an old chair. I spoilt, a dress worth more than a new chair and smashed my thumb with the hammer, and the old chair looked worse than before. No more fixing over old worn-out furniture for me. I'll buy new.
As ever,
Lou.

P.S.—Because he has a big consignment of rugs and new styles in dressers, chiffoniers and other furniture just ordered in Portland, I'll buy from
