THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

Somewhere once said the darkest hour is just before the dawn. While we do not anticipate any immediate burst of sunshine, so far as commercial development is concerned, the present rather easy going state of affairs gives opportunity to cast up accounts with Dame Fortune. Taken all in all, the result is decidedly gratifying.

On the broad seas of national business the outlook is brightening. The uncertainties of the pending legislation have passed. The new tariff, income tax and banking laws have gone into effect. Nothing awful has happened; in truth, so far as general business is concerned, no far reaching effects, good or bad are apparent. In other words, the decks of commercial life are cleared, the sails are set, a favorable breeze is blowing and a prosperous passage is assured.

Locally, there is nothing disturbing, and much that is heartening about the outlook. "Things have been quiet," granted. But the best is yet to come.

The crop outlook for Central Oregon was never brighter; ample moisture, an early spring and an increased acreage insure good production.

The railroads may or may not build—probably not from present indications. Whichever they do, Bend and Central Oregon is advantaged. If Bend remains the terminal, we are benefited, because of the business which centers here. If the roads go on, an outlet to the south would be vastly beneficial, especially to lumbering interests, and location upon an important transcontinental road would enhance the town's importance.

Never before has the timber outlook been brighter. By the transactions of the last six months all the pine lands of this portion of Central Oregon have been blocked up by their various owners, so that the big companies are ready to undertake milling whenever conditions warrant. Freight rates have been arranged satisfactorily to all concerned. An improvement of eastern and middle western markets alone is required to insure mills here, and the constant betterment in national conditions assures such an improvement before long.

The wool outlook for Central Oregon was never better. A creamery, of very direct benefit to farmers, is assured. Those who have put many thousands of dollars in Bend before, are investing more thousands. Creditable new buildings are rising.

"We need a payroll." How often is that cry heard! Of course we do. We need a larger payroll—and the same statement will hold good for hundreds of years, for never will there be a time when a greater payroll would not be welcome. But just now it would be well to compare Bend's list of employments for labor with the payroll of other towns of similar size. Unhesitatingly we say more money is paid to labor here than in any town of Bend's population in the Northwest. The lumber mills are running to capacity. Agricultural labor is in demand. Road and other construction work is being done. And, especially, the State is spending, and will spend all summer, thousands of dollars each month on the Tumalo Project—dollars which benefit Bend more than any other community, and insure incomes for every farmer in the vicinity of the work.

In short, "watchful waiting" needs to be a Bend policy. And during the waiting there is no need to grumble, for Fortune is being kind to us, if we but realize it. And the best is yet to come.

The Prineville Review has changed hands, and name. Mrs. A. H. Kennedy sold the property to Charles O. Pollard, and the paper now appears under the title of "The Prineville News." It is understood a number of merchants have contributed toward the purchase of the property, taking stock in the concern. Mr. Pollard was formerly in the abstract business in Prineville, and at one time was a candidate for county judge. As a new member of the editorial fraternity we wish him good luck, and trust he may escape the trials and tribulations that usually visit the management of a newspaper with many stockholders in a small town.

relative to the care of soil and general fertilizing, which was supplied you by the Oregon Agricultural College. We hope we may have more information along these lines. But I desire to mention the fact that the college seems to have been very slow in the matter. The request for the information was made in early January and we had to wait about two months for a reply. I have heard many similar complaints from farmers who have made direct inquiries some of which were totally ignored. It seems to me that if the college is to fulfill its function in this regard, more attention should be paid to answering queries from farmers.

Very truly yours,
Bend, April 4. R. E. GRIMES.

MCKENZIE ROAD SURVEY.

The work of surveying the McKenzie road will be begun by the Forest Service as soon as the snow is melted sufficiently to permit a crew to take the field. According to Forest Supervisor Merritt this survey will be a comprehensive one covering all work to be done to complete the road. For construction work $500 has been set aside by the Forest Service and an equal amount promised by the county court, all of which will be spent this summer. None of this fund will go into the survey nor will charges be made against it for supervision, the whole amount being used for actual construction.

Children's Diseases Very Prevalent.
Whooping cough is about everywhere. Measles and scarlet fever almost as bad. Use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for inflamed throats and coughing. Mrs. I. C. Hostler, Grand Island, Nebr., says: "My three children had severe attacks of whooping cough and a very few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar gave great relief." Patterson Drug Co.—Adv.

LA PINE MEN IN TOWN.

C. F. Carmichael, J. F. Bogue and editor Arnold of the La Pine Inter-Mountain were in town Monday getting information from the local forestry office in respect to the coming land eliminations and the re-withdrawals. It is understood that there is considerable feeling in the country to the south over the large amounts of land that have been re-withdrawn for alleged reclamation purposes.
