place to Deschutes Saturday.

J. L. Gibson, his hired man and 2 teams are busy putting in a crop on the Gibson place at Laidlaw this week.

It is understood that two young men of this section are contemplating a whirl at the laundry business in Bend. We wish them success, but suggest that they start a like enterprise right here at home.

A number of local water users met at the Wilson school house Saturday morning to discuss the organization of a local association of water users. No definite steps were taken. However, the meeting appointed three delegates to meet with the members of the Central Oregon Irrigation Co. Water Users' Association which held a regular session at Powell Butte Station Saturday afternoon. These delegates conferred with members of the association in regard to the advisability of a local organization and an opinion favorable to such an organization was reached. The parent association however wished all business of importance to be carried on through its offices, which, in the opinion of many, would complicate a simple matter. A number of our people are members of the C. O. I. Co. water users and they advocate swelling the membership of the organization rather than the forming a new association, believing that better results can be obtained through one strong association.

An excellent dinner was served at the A. W. Bayn home at which place the ladies of the party were entertained for the day. W. G. Mustard produced evidence of the greatest number killed and was awarded the prize. He killed 68. Guy Johnson of Redmond was second with 56 to his credit. Frank McCaffery was out with a crowd in his new auto. Mrs. McCaffery, Mrs. Lennon and Miss Austin were the ladies of the party. Mr. Young of Redmond brought out an auto load of hunters also. Approximately 600 rabbits were killed.
