An English Officer's Story of a Dog That Learned to Cheat.

That one dog at least not only rea sons, but has been known actually to chest is the conviction of a young English army officer who owns a smart cocker spaniel. Among other tricks the officer has trained the dog to answer "letter call" and fetch his owner's mail to the mess table. Pleased with the dog's intelligence, the officer fell into the habit of giving him a lump of sugar from the breakfast

One morning soon after the trumpet er had sounded "letter call," the span lel came in with neither papers not This was anusual, for the officer subscribed to a daily paper that invariably arrived in the morn ing's mail, but he thought little of H at the time. About 11 o'clock, how ever, the dog entered his master's quarters and deposited a muddy paper upon the floor. The officer did not understand the situation, but he gave the dog a imp of sugar. Half an hour later the dog appeared again with a very muddy and crumpled letter in his mouth. Then the owner's suspicions were groused.

He gave the dog another lump of sugar and watched him. He soon found that the dog had buried the morning's mull in the rear of the officer's mess and was digging it up a letter at a time, apparently with a view to a lump of sugar for each piece of mail.-Exchange.
