THE PROPOSED BILL.

Some people hereabout, and especially ranchers, are displeased because we have seen fit to oppose the proposed bill which plans to get rid of State Engineer Lewis, of the Desert Land Board and of the Water Superintendents.

The difference of opinion is an honest one, and it is just such differences which produce healthy discussion of public matters.

The Bulletin sympathizes fully with the feeling of many settlers that the state authorities have fulfilled their duties indifferently so far as Carey Act matters are concerned. On that head there is not the slightest disagreement. In fact, for the most part the Desert Land Board has been a disgrace to the state—certainly so a few years ago when Carey Act projects were being permitted to become tangled and settlers blighted.

The proposal to consolidate the work of the Desert Land Board and the State Land Board is sound enough, perhaps. An economy might be effected there. If the move is a sincere one, well and good. It also is perhaps true that the water superintendents might be dispensed with; our information on this head is too scanty to justify an opinion.

But the attack on the State Engineer is coated with too thin a veneer of justice. It is simply a scheme to get rid of Lewis and make another State Engineer. Even the methods of the bill in this respect are clouded with doubt, and, as pointed out elsewhere in this paper, probably nothing but chaos would result from its provision regarding the double work of the Tumalo Project engineer.

In considering the matter a few facts should be borne in mind. For instance, it seems to The Bulletin that Governor West, because his well known hostility to a brother official has blinded him to broader truths, has gone back on his own platform of development. The very appropriations which he now holds up to view as instances of the extravagance of the State Engineer's office are those for which he stood in the past, and those whose work harmonizes fully with the species of state development concerning which he has orated loudly.

Governor West sends out with the initiative petition a tabulation of state expenses allied with the engineer's office. It includes the $15,000 for the Cello survey and the $50,000 for the Deschutes investigation, and $28,000 for topographic and stream surveys. All of these three are admirable works. All were approved, we believe, by Governor West. All were inaugurated by the Legislature.

Why, then, blame this expense on the State Engineer, as if he personally, was responsible for it? Why pretend that any future legislature would cut down such expenses simply because the present state engineer was shuffled out of office? Why not be fair?

Further, remember that in these three appropriations, every dollar put up by the State was matched by a dollar from the National Treasury. The United States put up $15,000 at Cello, $50,000 for the Deschutes work and $28,000 for the topographic surveys. In other words, $93,000 is being, or will be, expended by the Federal Government in Oregon, gathering data which Oregon must have before her own resources can be developed, simply because Oregon started the work.

And then this is blamed upon the State Engineer!

The expenses of the Engineer's office are further criticized. The work of his deputies here on the C. O. I. Co. segregation is ridiculed as resultless extravagance by supporters of the bill. But be it remembered that in the past, when the settlers have claimed one thing, the Company another, and the State perhaps still another regarding water, capacities, seepage and other details of the segregation work, no accurate data existed upon which the controversies could be settled. It is to secure just such information, vital to settler and to company, that such investigations as the present must be conducted. The only requirement must be that they are well done. If their results are dependable, a real fundamental good work has been done for all concerned and the money could not be spent to better advantage.

It is no argument at all in favor of the bill that "things can't be worse and perhaps the change might be a benefit." The settlers—for whose interests we alone are concerned in such matters—should not delude themselves into the belief that any great improvement of their situation is contemplated. Those who father the bill are now in office, with full power, and some ability, to work for the betterment of the settlers with the State Government as it now is, without muddling the water still further.

CHEER UP!

"Watchful waiting" is not always the most agreeable exercise, but often in the long run proves profitable. We who have cast our fortunes with Bend have watched and waited long. The hoped-for developments have been slow to materialize. Some, perhaps, have grown weary and some faint-hearted.

But the sureness of the outcome is as positive as the slowness. It is no fault of Bend's that mills have not built here, and no reason exists for changing in the slightest Bend's claims for the future. National business conditions of the last three years alone are responsible for the delay in constructing the mills here—construction here or anywhere has been impossible under the circumstances.

The timber, however is here, and the favorable grades, the logging and pond facilities and the railroads. Also is the disposition to mill here, and on a great scale, an accepted fact among the timber owners. Let us have but a better lumber market and stronger financial conditions and Bend's dream becomes a reality.

And in the meantime let us ponder several matters. One of them is that we of Bend are better off, proportionately, than the citizens of any town in the West. We may not be embarrassed with riches, but assuredly we hold our own, the town is advancing substantially and there is little or no real poverty among us.

The second is the timber development of the last half year, the blocking and interchanging of interests whereby now all the companies have their property so arranged that manufacture can be undertaken with the maximum of economy and under remarkable conditions.

Thirdly, consider the register of names high in the lumber industry of the United States which has been written here at Bend during the last two weeks—names of a dozen of the strongest whose properties lie hereabout, whose interests are affiliated with Bend; and whose presence is a guarantee that their attention is focused on their Deschutes valley holdings with a view to prompt action when the right time comes. That register contains the names of D. F. Brooks, the Weyerhaeusers, A. R. Rogers, M. J. Scanlon, Henry Gipson, Will Mueller, the Prince Brothers and half a dozen lesser lights.

Therefore, Cheer Up! The best is yet to come.

Some 32 Scandinavians joined in a big picnic at Dutch John's Bridge Sunday, spending the entire day in an old fashioned good time beside the river and returning to town late in the evening. The party went up in Anderson's auto truck and in Sathers truck, while a few drove their own rigs.

Those who made up the party were E. A. Sather and family, Theodore Aune and family, J. P. Johnson and family, Julius Peterson, Miss Aune, Ainer Maista, Miss Anna Pierson, John Engbretson, O. A. TEMPERANCE WORKER HERE

Mrs. La Mance Addresses Three Meetings While Here Last Week.

Mrs. Lora S. La Mance, national organizer for the W. C. T. U., spent several days in town last week meeting local people and working for the temperance cause.

During her stay Mrs. La Mance addressed three meetings. The first, on Thursday afternoon, was a meeting of the local branch of the W. C. T. U. held at the home of Mrs. C. P. Niswonger. Here she outlined the national "dry" campaign with especial reference to the fight being made in Oregon preliminary to the election in November.

At the Methodist church Thursday night she spoke on Alaska where she has spent several years, and Friday evening at the Methodist church her subject was "Prohibition." Mrs. La Mance is a speaker of unusual charm and ability and gave great pleasure to those who heard her.

FINED FOR GAMBLING

William J. Caldwell was fined $25 on a charge of gambling in Recorder Ellis' court Monday afternoon. He had been arrested several days before by Marshal Roberts whose suspicions had been aroused that Caldwell was attempting to start a gambling game in his room at the Workman's Lodging House. On the return of City Attorney Forbes the matter was pressed and Caldwell pleaded "guilty" with the resulting fine.

LIBRARY BENEFIT GOOD.

The benefit matinee given Saturday afternoon at the Dream Theatre for the library proved highly successful, both in point of entertainment offered and the size of the house, as a big crowd turned out. In addition to the regular reels there was reading by Miss Ratliff and Mrs. Fish, and Miss Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. Rudow contributed the profits of the matinee to the library. The amount taken in was $22.50.

Self Pity.

Self pity, morally, mentally and physically, tends to depress and weaken the victim, to render him ineffective and impractical. The person who is chronically sorry for himself becomes a nuisance.
