

A BRIDE FROM THE TOMB.

Odd Romance of Benedello Marcello, the Venetian Composer. Benedello Marcello, one of the most famous Venetian composers, fell in love with a beautiful girl named Leonora Manfrotti, who married Paolo Beranzo, a Venetian noble. She died a short time after her marriage, a victim to the harsh and jealous treatment of her husband.

Her body was laid out in state in one of the churches, and her lover actually succeeded in stealing the corpse and conveying it to a ruined crypt in one of the islands, and here he sat day and night by his lost love, singing and playing to her, as though by the force of his art he could recall her to life.

Leonora had a twin sister, Eliade, who was so like her that her closest friends could scarcely distinguish them. One day Eliade heard a singer in a gondola singing so exquisitely that she traveled the gondola to the deserted island, and there she learned later the fate of her sister's corpse and the identity of Marcello. Aided by a servant, Eliade substituted herself for her sister's body, and when Marcello returned and called Leonora to awake he did not ask in vain, for apparently she rose alive from the coffin. Marcello when he found out the delusion was quite satisfied and married Eliade, but his happiness was short lived, as he died a few years afterward.—London Telegraph.

Why Make Oregon the Goat? Why Is OREGON Picked for Alleged Nationwide Prohibition Fight? Why Have Eastern Millionaires Brought THIS Agitation to THIS Pacific Coast State?

It is not generally known in Oregon that the proposed prohibition amendment to the State Constitution is an issue framed by men who have no personal interest in this state.

Who the real politicians are who comprise this group of men is kept a profound secret from the people of Oregon. Their real motive is likewise kept a secret. All that is made public is that they are philanthropists, who are bent on saving humanity. Millions have been raised to accomplish this philanthropic work of saving a nation, but who these millionaire philanthropists are is not being told to the public.

The question naturally must arise, therefore, in the minds of Oregon voters: Since when have these kind of millions worked for the uplift of real humanity?

Having brought nearly every necessity of human life in this nation under their monopolistic control, not for the good of humanity, but for the satisfaction of their own greed, why are they now so clamorous, so noisy in their demands for nationwide prohibition? Is it not the duty of every voter in Oregon first to "stop," "look" and "listen" for a moment and to ask himself or herself:

Why have these Eastern millionaire philanthropists so suddenly turned their spots? Why so anxious for humanity? Is there a "dollar reason" lurking behind the movement somewhere?

Why do they not come to Oregon with a uniform issue? Why do they frame one issue for Washington to catch votes in that state and another issue in Oregon to catch votes here? Why do they not frame one issue for all states? Why do they not put into the Oregon issue a provision against distribution and giving away of liquor? Why do they only want the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages prohibited here in Oregon? Are they truly working for prohibition or even true temperance, or is there a joker somewhere which they are asking the good people of Oregon to swallow in the shape of a constitutional amendment? Why have they included the words "manufacture, sale, giving away and transportation from one point to another" in the California amendment now being agitated in that state? Is it because they know in advance that they will lose that state by at least 200,000 votes and are resorting to political trickery so common with millionaire philanthropists in order that they may delude the people in other states as to what they are "fighting for in California?"

Why do they not bring that same issue to Oregon?

What are these Eastern millionaire philanthropists really trying to do? Are they really worrying about humanity and Oregon or is it some new scheme to control something to make some new kind of dollars that is worrying them?
