H. A. FOSTER, Assessor.

PEPPERY COMPOSERS.

Masters of Music Who Had Nice Tempers of Their Own.

Even in the presence of his royal pupils Handel would sometimes fly into most violent passions.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Handel," a court attendant said reprovingly on one such occasion. "You should show more respect to her royal highness."

"Royal highness!" snorted the musician contemptuously. "Bah! De respect is due to me! There are many princesses, but only one Handel!"

On another occasion, when George I. sent a message summoning him to an interview, he returned this answer:

"Tell his majesty he must wait. By five is bore luberdant dan his!"

Viotti, the famous French musician of the eighteenth century, had an equal contempt for royalty and an exaggerated opinion of himself, as the following story shows: One day he was summoned to Versailles to play before Marie Antoinette and the court. The performance had begun; the opening bars of his favorite solo commanded breathless attention, when a cry was heard:

"Place for Mgr. the Comte d'Artois!"

At the sound Viotti immediately ceased playing, cast an indignant glance at his audience, placed his violin under his arm and walked out of the place.

When Marie Antoinette once inquired of Gluck how his new opera was progressing he answered, "Madame, it is nearly finished, and I assure you it will be superb," a conceit which was rivaled by that of Meyerbeer, who, when a friend declared that if anything better could be composed than one of his rival operas he would dance on his head, answered, "If that is so I should advise you to start practicing at once, for I have just commenced the fourth act of 'The Huguenots'."

Even Haydn, usually the most modest of men, showed at times that he had as good an opinion of his own merits as any of his admirers. On one occasion, when a friend said to him of his "Salomon" symphonies, "Sir, I am strongly of opinion that you will never surpass these wonderful symphonies," he answered placidly, "No; I never mean to attempt the impossible!"

CURIOUS CARD TRICK.

It Deals With Odd Numbers, and the Explanation is a Mystery.

There is a puzzle which may be performed with any odd number of objects, playing cards being usually employed, and which any one can do, but no one seems able to explain the reason for it. Let us suppose the number selected to be twenty-seven cards, although fifteen or twenty-one would do just as well.

After having them shuffled hold them in the left hand face upward and then deal them face upward one at a time in three piles so that the fourth card comes on the first and the fifth on the top of the second and so on until you have three piles of nine cards each.

Request any person who is watching you to make a silent note of any card he pleases, and when you have finished dealing to tell you in which pile the card lies. By picking up the three piles again one at a time as before, the noted card will reappear. Ask in which pile it came that time and place that pile in the middle as before.

Upon dealing the cards into three piles for the third time note carefully the card that comes in the middle of each pile. With twenty-seven there will be nine in each pile and the fifth will be the middle card. Now, when the person who selected the card names the pile in which his card comes you will know it was the middle card of that pile. With this knowledge in your possession you can finish the trick in any manner you please.

This is only a statement of results, but what is the explanation or reason for it? What is the rule that makes it always come out right, regardless of the number of objects used, so that it is odd?—New York Sun.

Where the Fault Lay.

A newspaper man tells of a friend who edited, with more or less success, a paper in a small town. That he was somewhat discouraged by the lack of interest shown in his journal was evidenced by this notice which one afternoon appeared on the editorial page:

"Burglars entered our house last night. To the everlasting shame of the community for whose welfare we have labored, be it said, they got nothing."—Harper's Magazine.

Bewildered Him.

"I say, Wiggie, I'm in an awful mess. Miss Smart means to sue me for 'breach of promise' or somethin' howwid like that?"

"Wiggie?"

"Yess. I said I was awfully sorry not to ask her to marry me, but dad would cut me off if I did, and all she said was, 'You needn't imagine I'm the kind of a girl that accepts an apology for a man.'"—New York Tribune.

AKOZ ANNOUNCEMENT ATTRACTS MANY TO PATTERSON'S DRUG STORE

Wonderful Medicinal Mineral With Marvelous Curative Powers Now Sold in Bend

The announcement that Akoz the wonderful California medicinal mineral was going to be introduced to the people of Bend by the Patterson Drug Co. was responsible for many people calling at the Company's store during the past week to make inquiries of the Akoz man about the marvelous remedies.

Especially was there a great deal of interest regarding the assertion of Mr. Mackenzie the discoverer of Akoz, that the mineral remedy was effective in relieving all stomach trouble, rheumatism, diabetes, Bright's disease, ulcers, catarrh, piles, eczema and other ailments. To these inquiries it was explained that Akoz is put up in different ways simply for convenience in use. There is an internal preparation and compound and ointment for external use. The former treats the cause and the latter relieves the effect. In rheumatism the pain is stopped in a few applications of the compound, while a few weeks of the mineral water gives permanent relief from the cause.

All forms of stomach trouble yield readily to the Akoz treatment. Kidney, liver and bladder trouble also prove easy prey to the wonderful mineral. Neuritis, neuralgia, gout, eczema and ulcers quickly give way to the Akoz remedy.

That Akoz has merit is attested by thousands of letters of praise, written to the Natura company of San Francisco, prominent among them Thomas Phelps, Jr., of Alameda, U. S. N., retired, George Van Smith, noted political writer; former Senator Savage of San Pedro; Mrs. J. B. Alexander, 1640 Shatto street, Los Angeles; Joe Murphy, baseball writer of the S. F. Call; Fred Smith, automobile editor of the L. A. Tribune; Rev. E. A. Wible, venerable Methodist minister of Eureka; former State Senator A. Muenster of Berkeley; former inter-
