Victor Hugo's Modesty.

It is related that upon one occasion Victor Hugo, the great French writer, received a letter bearing an address of a single line, "To Our Supreme Post." Hugo took the letter to Lamartine.

"Here, my dear friend," he said, "is a letter which certainly is intended for you."

After a long and extremely courteous discussion, which resolved itself into a combat of dexterity, it occurred to them to break the seal, which they did, and read, "My dear Alfred." The letter was for Alfred de Musset and came from Alexander Dumas. Lamartine smiled, but Hugo, who did not relish the turn of affairs, made no comment.

Some time later Victor Hugo asked the author of "Hernani," "Sir, who, in your opinion, is the premier poet of our time?" and received the following reply:

"The second is M. Lamartine, and the third is M. de Musset."

DELEGATES ARE SENT TO SALEM

COMMITTEE MEETING IS TO-NIGHT

Ways and Means Bodies of Both
House and Senate to Hold Joint Hearing on Irrigation Bills—
Five in Party From Bend.

The two bills providing funds for irrigation purposes in Oregon are to come up for discussion before a joint meeting of the Ways and Means Committees of the House and the Senate at Salem tonight. A delegation from Central Oregon will be present, as well, it is expected, as representatives from various Portland organizations, who will urge a favorable report on the bills.

The bills which are to be considered provide for an outright appropriation of $450,000 for irrigation work to be spent in co-operation with a like amount from the federal reclamation fund and for a half mill tax for irrigation development, also in co-operation with the United States. The tax, according to the proposed bill, is to be levied for the first time in the year 1917 while the appropriation is to become effective at once in order that the equal sum allotted by Secretary Lane may be obtained for expenditure with it.

Both bills were endorsed by the Irrigation Congress which recently met in Portland and since that time numerous Portland organizations including the Commercial Club, the Rotary Club, the Progressive Business Men's Club and others have passed resolutions in favor of them.

The matter of sending delegates to appear before the committees was taken up at the weekly luncheon of the local Commercial Club last Saturday and a vote passed to send three representatives, E. M. Lara, A. O. Walker and H. H. De Armond were selected later and they left for Salem last night. With them went W. D. Barnes and J. N. B. Gerking of Laidlaw, representing that section. Other delegates were expected to join them from towns along the railroad.

BRAVERY IN BATTLE.

After the Fighting Has Begun the Officers Give Few Orders.

An officer in our regular army who saw fighting in the Spanish war pointed out the other day that most persons had a very wrong conception of how soldiers fight in modern battles.

"After a regiment has wheeled into position to attack the foe and the actual fighting has begun," he said, "the officers really have little to do with the proceedings. There is so much noise, for one thing, that commands cannot be heard, and for this reason whistles in many armies, have been substituted for bugles, because their shrill blast carries better than the heavier notes of the brass. Beyond giving the signal for the charge the officers can do little. The men, once they see the line of the enemy in front of them, know what is expected of them and carry out their work with surprisingly few orders."

"Skirmish drills in times of peace have taught the troops how to act together, and it is amazing to see how quickly the men adapt themselves to the conditions of actual battle. It is the corporals and sergeants who are in the line with the men who are the real steady influence in a fight. They know the characteristics of the individual private in a way that the commissioned officers can never know them and are prepared to give a calming word to this or that one which the emergency requires."

"In my own experience I have known a private who had served three enlistments to take charge of a company in a charge, and the officers and sergeants were very glad to leave it to him. After the war was over he became a private once more, but while that war was on, so far as actual influence with the men was concerned, he was of a great deal more importance."

than his captain. The way that man could wriggle into cover was a revelation, and he went through three campaigns without a scratch. His example in the regiment was a big asset."

"Bravery in battle, according to my experience, is very much a matter of temperament. Some men are carried along by a sort of ecstasy, others find themselves to the work by sheer force of will, while others—and these are the best—go through a fight with a sort of grim interest as if it was a highly amusing though somewhat dangerous sport they were engaged in, like polo or football."—New York Times.

one of them probably will receive a clear majority. Under the amendment, then, the one with the highest number of votes will be the temporary county seat until the next general election, when the two towns which received the highest number of votes at the first election shall be the only ones on the ballot to be voted on for the permanent county seat. All of which makes it apparent that Culver may have some hard sledding to retain her present honors.

dered become void and the lands covered by them revert to the state.

Maintenance Fees.

Under the provisions of section seven as amended all maintenance fees are to be applied to the cost of maintaining and operating the project by the project manager under the direction of the board. Rules and regulations covering the collection and disbursement of these funds are to be made by the board. All other moneys credited to the project at present or to be later derived from it are to be placed in the Tumalo Project fund, which is to exist until January 1, 1917, and be used for the construction, extension and operation of the project and the repayment to contract holders. After that date all but $1,000, which is to be held back for any emergency is to be placed to the credit of the general fund of the state as repayment of the original appropriation and interest.

When this has been fully repaid further receipts are to be placed in the Oregon Irrigation fund.

All fees payable to the state engineer's office in connection with the project are remitted.

is understood to have helped in bringing about the existing arrangement in as follows:

Bend, Oregon, Feb. 1, 1915. Honorable County Court, Crook County, Oregon.

Gentlemen:—
"It having come to my attention that W. W. Brown, once County Commissioner of Crook county, questioned the advisability and the legality of your having declared his office vacant on account of the creation of Jefferson county (as proclaimed by Governor West) which said creation automatically made said W. W. Brown a non-resident, I take this occasion to make the following statement:

"The appointment to the office of County Commissioner was accepted as I believe the appointment was made, in good faith. If, however, by reason of any circumstances that may have arisen subsequent to my appointment you feel that you have exceeded your reasonable and legal authority, I respectfully request that you reconsider your action to the end that said action shall serve the best interests of the county, regardless of the incumbent of the office of County Commissioner.

Respectfully,

E. J. OVERTURF.

Proceedings May Be Brought.

The part claimed to have been played by District Attorney Wirt in the Brown matter is flatly denied by him. According to Mr. Wirt he did not advise the court that Mr. Brown was automatically out of office. What he did do was to advise the court that Jefferson county was fully and legally established and would remain a regularly organized county until the supreme court ruled otherwise and he also, at the direction of Judge Springer, drew the order stating that Mr. Brown was out and Mr. Overturf in. In doing this he simply followed instructions.

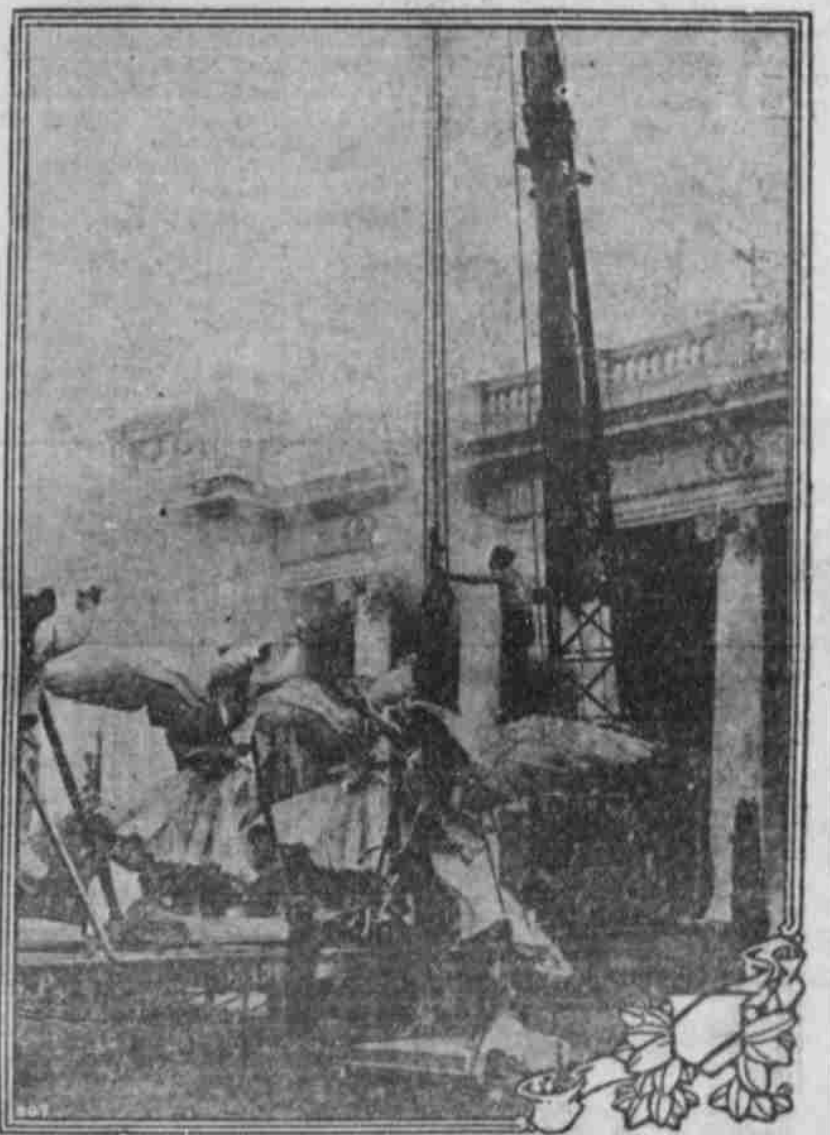

If Jefferson is declared to be a duly organized county by the supreme court, it is understood that Mr. Wirt will bring proceedings against any official who is by law an inhabitant of that county and refuses to resign. In his opinion they do not automatically go out of office but proceedings must be brought by the District Attorney to oust them and it is his intention to bring such proceedings if it becomes necessary.

Croup and Whooping Cough.

Mrs. T. Neurever, East Claire, Wis. says: "Foley's Honey and Tar Compound cured my boy of a very severe attack of croup after other remedies had failed. Our milkman cured his children of whooping cough." Foley's has a forty year record of similar cases. Contains no opiates. Always test it on Foley's. Patterson Drug Co.—Adv.

Teaching the Angels to Fly at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition

Of course angels fly. That's why they have wings. A visit to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco any day that the winged ladies are taking their places on the roofs of the exhibit palaces will be convincing if the accompanying photograph does not serve that purpose. The particular winged ladies in question are called "the acroteria." There are to be thirty-two of them distributed about the various exhibit palaces. They are thirteen feet in height and weigh about 1,400 pounds; hence the presence of the locomotive crane to assist in their flight to the roofs of the buildings.
