Fruit, Shade and Ornamental Trees

Apples, Pears, Plums, Prunes, Cherries, Peaches, Apricots, Currants, Shrubs, Roses, etc.

The stranger entering a city for the first time is at once impressed with avenues lined with stately trees, homes surrounded with well kept lawns and grounds planted with attractive trees, shrubs and flowers, and is often induced to make a first investment on the strength of this first impression. Or the opposite may be the case when the first outlook is upon vacant lots covered with tin cans and other evidences of the lack of pride in civic improvement. Shrewd business men are led by a knowledge of these facts to plant trees and shrubs on vacant lots they are intending to put on the market, knowing that purchasers quickly decide in favor of the lot planted with trees and shrubs.

Last Saturday every boy and girl in Bend had a tree to plant. It was surprising to see the interest manifested by the little ones in their tree planting campaign. It would be encouraging to the children if the grown-ups would resolve to plant out one tree each this week. Come in and let us show you those beautiful Maples, Birches, Poplars, Golden Willows, etc., trenched on the corner of Bond and Minnesota Sts.
