Chanak-Kalesi.
 Chanak-Kalesi, the straggling town near the "narrows" of the Dardanelles, means "earthenware castle" in Turkish and is so called from a celebrated pottery on the Asiatic side of the strait. An agent from this pottery used to be always on the lookout for a wandering European and hooked on to every passing ship. His boatload of gaudy crockery was generally more remarkable for gilding and tawdry color than for taste. But the forms of the vessels were often graceful, even classical, and specimens of the tall water jugs he sells, or once sold, can be seen throughout the Levant, though seldom in London.—London Chronicle.

A Swiss Philanthropy.
 The custom still obtains in Switzerland, though not so generally as formerly, of newly married couples making a small gift of money immediately after the wedding ceremony to the school funds as a sort of thanksgiving for their education. These funds are used to provide shoes and clothing for poor pupils who would otherwise be unable to attend school.

On Her Brow.
 "Before we married you promised me rings and brooches and beads to wear."
 "Well, what of it?"
 "I was just thinking that the only beads I've ever worn since are beads of perspiration."—Detroit Free Press.

What For?
 "Pop, what kind of crops can they plant in the sea water?"
 "No crops, you foolish child."
 "Then why are vessels always plowing the ocean?"—Exchange.

A Considerate Girl.
 Madge—He said you were very punctual Marjor.—Why shouldn't he? I never kept him waiting more than half an hour in my life.—Lippincott's.

If you cannot get grapes, says a Russian proverb, try an apple.

Food For Punsters.
 "I don't see how Fussleigh gets any enjoyment out of his food. He's dieting, you know."
 "Yes."
 "He uses this new 'mathematical masticatory' system."
 "Good gracious, what's that? So many chews to the mouthful?"
 "No. He eats beans by the dozen, rice by the grain, fish by the perch and spaghetti by the yard."
 "Does he seem better?"
 "Measurably so."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Buying Wives.
 Wives are still obtained by purchase in some parts of Russia. In the district of Kamyslin, on the Volga, this is practically the only way in which marriages are brought about. The price of a pretty girl from a well to do family ranges from $100 to $200.

They Write Every Day.
 Every day Foley & Co. receive letters from grateful men and women, telling how Foley Kidney Pills cured them of backache, sore muscles, stiff joints and other kidney and bladder troubles. Is very quick to relieve lumbago and rheumatism due to kidney trouble. No other remedy has a longer record of cures. Patterson Drug Co.—Adv.

"Put Your Duds In Our Suds"

DISC THE STUBBLE NOW

By County Agriculturist A. E. LOVETT.

A discussion of the preparation of the soil for the growing of next year's crops or of the preparation of next year's summer fallow at this time, may seem to some an uninteresting proposition. We will, however, find by careful study and thought that this is one of the most important times for a consideration of this subject. The fields from which the grain has been cut seems at this time to be very dry and unproductive and in need of no care or attention. During the next two or three months, the weather will be very dry and warm as a rule. Practically nothing excepting a few weeds will grow on the stubble lands. If we will take the pains to go into these fields at the time of harvest and dig down a little ways, we will find that there is some moisture in the soil. If we leave the fields as they now stand and again dig down in September or October, we will not be able to find any moisture. Handled in this manner, not only will practically all of the moisture leave the soil, but also because of the hard, dry condition of the soil no chemical or bacterial action, nor beneficial insects can work their end.

The value of discing the land immediately after the grain crop is removed has been proven, not only in other states and in other sections in Oregon, but also in our own county. Moisture is constantly rising to the surface and passing off into the air in hard stubble lands. By discing this land thoroughly, the capillaries of the surface soil are broken up and the rise of moisture to the surface stops. The moisture in the subsoil and the soil below the discing surface, however, continues to rise to a certain extent and in most cases it will be found that land thus treated may be plowed in the fall as so desired. If the land is thus discing after harvest and is not plowed in the fall, much more of the rain and snow of the winter will be absorbed by it and a decided improvement in the moisture condition of the soil will be noted the following year. Where the annual rain fall is as low as nine to fifteen inches, maximum crops can be obtained only through the conservation of every particle of moisture possible. If we allow all of the moisture remaining in the soil after harvest to escape during the remainder of the summer, we have lost a very valuable amount of moisture. If we do not prepare the lands for catching and holding all of the moisture which falls during the winter season, we are again losing a considerable amount of valuable moisture. We will in the future find that the most successful farmers, especially on our dry lands, are those who disc their lands immediately after harvest and plow their land either in the fall or very early in the spring.

The method of preparing the summer fallow generally practiced in this section is absolutely not good as a summer fallow. This does not mean that all the land is not properly prepared, but it does mean that the practice of plowing the summer fallow after the 1st to 15th of May is a mistake, does not save an appreciable amount of moisture and is therefore of very little good as summer fallow. If we had the moisture necessary for growing our crops on our dry lands, we would not summer fallow the lands. Our summer fallow is for the purpose of increasing the amount of moisture in the soil for the growing of crops. Every method or means that we can use to catch and conserve this moisture should be used. One of these methods, and one of the most important, is that of discing the land thoroughly immediately after harvest.

When Hot Weather Oppresses.
 When you feel oppressed, dull and stupid, are inert and languid—do not blame it all on the weather. Heat will not affect you so much if the bowels are regular. Foley Cathartic Tablets are ideal for indigestion and constipation. They relieve stout persons of that bloated, heavy feeling. Patterson Drug Co.—Adv.

Hot in Your Kitchen?

No need of it if you cook with a good oil stove. The heat is concentrated on the cooking—not radiated throughout the room.

New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove

For Best Results Use Pearl Oil

Abundant heat—always ready at the touch of a match—like gas. Can be turned out the minute you finish cooking. Cooks anything your wood or coal range does—and there's no heavy hods to lug—no dirt or ashes. No odor. Does not taint the food. Ask your dealer.
