Reverend F. W. Keagy Performs Ceremony at Bride's Home Wednesday

R. G. Hunsley and Miss Esther G. Chase were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Minnie C. Chase, six miles east of town on the Bear Creek road, Wednesday night, Rev. Franklin W. Keagy, of the Methodist church performing the ceremony. The bride wore a dress of shadow lace over white silk and carried a bouquet of flowers.

Mr. Hunsley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hunsley of Hillyard, Washington, and has lived in this section for about five years. Mrs. Hunsley is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Minnie C. Chase and has lived here for about a year, coming from Grants Pass with her mother and brother in 1914. For the present the young couple will make their home in Central Oregon.

LANGFORD-WINGATE

Bend Girl is Married in Portland at Pretty Home Ceremony.

From the Oregon Journal is quoted the following account of the wedding in Portland on Wednesday of Harleigh F. Langford and Miss Beatrice Wingate, the daughter of Mrs. C. E. Nichols of Bend.

Miss Beatrice Wingate and Mr. Harleigh F. Langford were married Wednesday, October 27, at high noon at a pretty home ceremony which was solemnized at the home of the bride's uncle, Francis M. Brooks, Portland, Oregon.

Dr. J. F. Ghormley of the Rodney Avenue Christian church read the marriage service in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride wore a dark blue traveling suit of gabardine, trimmed in fur with picture hat and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

The couple plighted their troth before an altar of ivy and potted plants. Autumn leaves and cut flowers graced the rooms. The dining room was artistically decorated in red carnations.

Streamers of ribbon and festoons of ivy hung from the electrolites to the corners of the table. After a dainty luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Langford left on their wedding trip. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the bride.

Cured Boy of Croup.
Nothing frightens a mother more than the loud, hoarse cough of croup. Labored breathing, strangling, choking and gasping for breath demand instant action. Mrs. T. Neureuer, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "Foley's Honey and Tar cured my boy of croup after other remedies failed." Recommended for coughs and colds. Patterson Drug Co.—Adv.

Storing Potatoes

By A. E. LOVETT, County Agriculturist.

The majority of men growing potatoes are acquainted with methods of storing this crop so that least loss will be encountered. One or two special points affecting the potato for storage may prove of value to the growers, especially those who have not before stored this crop. The general opinion at present is that the potato crop will be below normal in the northwest this season, and for this reason many will store their potatoes with the expectation of obtaining a larger price in the winter or spring. Either personally or officially, I could not and would not advise the farmer either to hold or not to hold his potatoes, but if the grower does store his potatoes, he should use the best methods possible and preserve the potatoes in the best marketable condition.

Potatoes should not be stored in air-tight bins or pits. Any bruised or frosted potatoes should not be stored, and most especially they should not be stored with good, sound potatoes. Potatoes should not be placed in large bins, snugly packed immediately after digging. They should be stored where they will remain dry and where there is no danger of freezing. After they have become thoroughly dry they may be placed in a cellar in medium sized bins or in sacks, but in either case should not be piled too deep. Bins or sacks should be arranged in tiers so that air may circulate around them. If the potatoes are placed in pits, arrangements for ventilation should be made by leaving a small opening covered with straw, or by a similar method. Although there may be exceptions to the rule, it generally pays to sort the potatoes at least a few times during the winter, removing all specimens showing a tendency to rot. One rotten potato may spoil practically a whole bin or sack in a few weeks' time, and heating or moisture may spoil the whole lot of potatoes.

The following advice regarding the building of a "tump" for preserving potatoes is sent out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and may prove of value in this section:

"A tump makes a fair substitute for a cellar in emergencies when cellar-room is wanting to care for products subject to injury by freezing. Potatoes, root crops, and even apples may be kept in good condition all winter if properly tumped. Care should be taken to choose a place for the tump where the ground is dry and well drained. A tump made in the shape of a round mound is better than one made with a ridge, since it is easier to protect a given quantity of potatoes or the like from frost by a circular mound than by an oblong one. Dig a pit to a level below the local frost line, cover the bottom of the pit with dry straw, pile the vegetables or fruit to be tumped upon this straw, pack straw over top of the pile, then bank up all around with a deep covering of earth. The surface of the tump should be closely packed, so as to shed as much water as possible. It is a good plan still further to protect it from rain and snow by a roof of some sort, if only an old tarpaulin or piece of oil-cloth."
