

MILL WORK RUSHED

With Good Weather Crews at Both Plants Increase on Full Time.

With the coming of good weather construction work has been resumed at both the Brooks-Seunlon and Shevlin-Hixon mills with full crews and is being rushed as fast as possible to take advantage of the fair days. Both plants are now working full time, 19 hours a day.

At the Shevlin plant the dry shed is completed, erection of the box factory has begun, machinery is being placed in the sack factory and the planer concrete footings are being put in for the covered sections between the stacher and the dry kilns and leading to the planer. At the sorting shed a wide platform has been built on the river side and work on the tramways, extending out into the yard, progresses. Belts are being put on in the mill. The first fires were built under the boilers today.

At the Brooks plant machinery is being placed in the mill, the bars is nearing completion, material is being assembled for the dry kilns, brick work on the power house is practically finished, and erection of the steel frame of the planer shed is completed.

It is not yet possible to set the date for the operation of either plant.

BETTER WEATHER COMES

Past Week Has Been Spring Like—Birds Reappear.

After an unusually protracted term of winter weather, in which below zero temperatures and frequent snow fall were common, Central Oregon weather made its appearance last week and for the past few days has been doing its best to make up for the shortcomings of the past. Rains and Chinook winds have taken the snow away very fast while the sun has dried the roads. In certain places, as at the Reid school, the grass is green. Spring birds have appeared, and the fishermen have begun to think of trout.

Sixty four has been the maximum temperature registered at the local weather station, this mark having been reached both Monday and Tuesday.

PRINTING PLANT BURNED.

The printing plant of the newly established Harney County Tribune, of Burns, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night together with an adjoining hardware store. According to the Burns Times-Herald, The Tribune printing plant was now and had just been installed by C. M. Athey who has gotten out but three issues of the paper at the time. It was a bad blow to Mr. Athey and at present he does not feel disposed to resume publication. The Times-Herald offered him the use of its plant and they did possible for it to extend but he is discouraged. The plant was insured for $2,000 but in the name of the type foundry where he had purchased it. He will lose about $1,000 above the insurance.

The poem, "A Homesteader's Lament," recently printed in The Bulletin under the name of "Chas. J. Urewler," was not written by Mr. Urewler, according to a letter received from him recently. In the circumstances under which the poem came to The Bulletin it was understood that Mr. Urewler was the author. This is not the case and Mr. Urewler desires the denial to be made.
