MORSON WANTS GUARANTEE THAT LANDS BE PATENTED

Otherwise He Will Refuse to Go On With Reclamation Work—Says Only Five Certificate Holders.

(Oregon Journal.)

SALEM, March 8.—In a letter to the State Desert Land Board, J. E. Morson of the Morson Land Company, declared that unless there is some guarantee from the United States interior department that the lands in the east unit of the Morson project in Central Oregon will be patented for the company after reclamation, he will refuse to go ahead with the reclamation work. He insisted that there must be sufficient guarantee given that the money invested by stockholders will be secured before further investments will be made.

Morson asserted that prices of the west side unit had just about covered the cost of construction and he had hoped to make money for the stockholders on the east side unit, on which $50,000 has already been expended.

According to Morson, there are but five certificate holders living on the east side unit, and with the exception of one named Foss, they have very little in the way of improvements. Foss did not take kindly to Morson's suggestion that he farm in the west unit. Instead of one in the east unit and Morson claims that Foss "seems to be obsessed, because possessed with the belief that the mountain peaks he is able to see from his present location bear a striking resemblance to the mountain peaks of Norway, from which elves poured forth in countless numbers and danced gaily in the valleys below."

The board took no action on Morson's letter.

Authority was granted the Central Oregon Irrigation Company to give permission to the Brooks-Seaton Logging Company to construct a logging railroad over the Pilot Butte and Central Oregon canals.
