The Value of a County Agricultural Council to be Proved in Crook County

The organization of an Agricultural Council in Crook county has been discussed at community meetings and through the press during the past few months. Practically all of the farmers community clubs have expressed themselves as in favor of such an organization for Crook county and some of these community clubs have already elected a delegate to attend the central meeting in the county for the organization of this County Agricultural Council. Mr. Paul V. Maffis, State Leader in County Agent Work for Oregon has written me as follows regarding these organizations in Oregon.

"I have received your letter in which you state that practically all of the community clubs in your county favor the idea of organizing a county agricultural council. I am indeed glad to have this information. No step that your organized farmers might take will result in more permanent good than the creation of this body. Counties all over the country are now and have been deriving great benefit from the existence of an organization of this kind which represents the agricultural interest of the county. They are not always called an agricultural council but the purpose and function is the same and the name, therefore, makes no difference.

"Your people may be interested in knowing that Lane county, Yamhill county, Wasco county, Multnomah county and Malheur county have already taken this forward step. In Lane county where the council has been organized longest they have, with the assistance of their county agriculturist, been able to accomplish many things of importance, including the organization of a public market in the city of Eugene, the holding up of an extensive system of co-operative hog marketing which has saved the farmers of the county several thousand dollars since it was first started last October; the fostering of pasture work, of cow testing work, of drainage work, of good roads work and the reorganization of the county fair to make it more truly a farmer's fair; all these things have received the attention of the Lane county agricultural council in the short time that it has been in existence. Your problems are doubtless different but if you can bring about an organization of representative farmers from different community clubs in your county you will find an important work to do.

"Your own work can be made more effective and valuable because you will have the advice and counsel of the organization.

"Trusting that we may soon be able to add Crook county to the list of these counties that have Agricultural Councils in Oregon, I am,

Very truly yours,
PAUL V. MAFFIS,
State, County Agent Leader U. S. Department of Agriculture."

The secretary of each of the community organizations in the county has been asked to state at what time their delegates can best attend a meeting for the purpose of organizing the agricultural council for Crook county. This meeting will probably be held within the next month and we hope that not only the present active communities but also many newly organized communities will be represented at this meeting. Any desired information may be obtained by writing me at my office.
